ST. LOUIS, MO.

The Market.

The week following Mothers' day the wholesale market was again normal, with larger receipts, lower prices and the demand excellent throughout.

There was a splendid supply of especially fine roses and, as the prices were right, the trade bought heavily and in large lots. Premier has the best call, with Russell, Ophelia and Columbia following in that order. White Killarney, the only white rose coming to this market, was in great demand and the supply equal.

Carnations were not overplentiful, especially in the extra fancy quality, and the stock cleared nicely at much lower prices than in the previous week. Sweet peas are arriving in gluts and large amounts in fine grades are turned loose at prices as low as $2.50 per thousand in big lots. A large supply of outdoor valley hurt the sale of the forced flowers and prices had to be shaded on these.

Peonies are slow in arriving this season and none were in the market at the end of last week, but the big crop will be on for Memorial day. Texas cape jasmines are beginning to arrive and the first consignments always sell well at good prices. Gladioli are arriving in small lots from home growers and reports have it that the local growers will have a heavy crop this season.

The supply of snapdragons, Spanish irises, mignonette, candytuft, pansies and calendulas is abundant for all demands. Easter lilies and callas had an excellent demand all week, with better was larger than was expected, as the busy planting season is at hand. The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock by President A. H. Hummert.

Owing to the absence from the city of Secretary Beneke, the chair appointed a trustee to act as secretary. After disposing of the regular opening routine, the chair called for reports of all committees.

Chairman Bourdet, of the publicity committee, in his report recommended that the club appoint a new committee to take charge of the work beginning June 1 and that the president appoint three growers, three retailers and three wholesalers; also that the president and secretary of the club be made members of the new committee. This committee has in charge the celebration of the club's thirty-fourth anniversary. After a discussion it was decided that a banquet be held at the Planters' hotel, June 24, that H. J. Seel, of Milwaukee, be invited to attend and give a talk on "Publicity" and that all arrangements for the affair be left in the hands of the publicity committee.

Frank Windler, vice-president of the Missouri State Florists' Association, reported that everything was in readiness for the annual meeting of the association, to be held May 15 and 16 at the Missouri Botanical Garden, and that he looked for a large attendance from all parts of the state.

Richard Hassell, who made application for membership at the last meeting, was elected to membership.

The trustees were instructed to arrange for the annual florists' picnic and to report on the date and place at the June meeting.

The report of the committee on revising the by-laws had its second reading and it was moved that the report be accepted and that they be reprinted and a roster of the members be added in the new books.

interesting talk on the national growers' association.

The members of the association will appoint a committee to attend the meeting of the national society in Cleveland.

Publicity Committee Meets.

The publicity committee held a meeting May 11 at headquarters, 1316 Pine street. The committee is composed of fifteen members and only seven attended. After paying all outstanding bills, it decided to appropriate $150 for advertising Memorial day and to support the "Say It with Flowers" baseball team, which will distribute flowers to all patrons at its games in Forest and Fair Ground parks free of charge every Sunday.

This committee will hold its last

Various Notes.

Reports which are still coming in indicate that Mothers' day business was the best ever, with the big florists saying that it was as good as Easter.

Last week a number of east side florists visited the wholesale market, among them being Charles Hahn, L. Doussard and J. J. Friday, of East St. Louis, Ill., who say that Mothers' day was the best they ever experienced.

Gustave Grossart, Henry Emunds, Walter Ogle, A. G. Fehr and M. Schoenberger, of Belleville, Ill., report a great business and good prices.

Co., and Joseph Krug, of Alton, Ill., cleaned out everything they had and say that every year sees Mothers' day growing larger in volume of business.

A number of retail florists were present as invited guests when W. F. Brennon, of the National Cash Register Co., Dayton, O., spoke on "The Troubles of a Retail Merchant and How to Stop Them" at the weekly luncheon of the Advertising Club at the Hotel Statler last week.

J. J. Karins, representing H. A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, was a caller on the trade last week. Mr. Karins brought greetings from John Davidson to a number of his old friends in St. Louis.

The Kalisch Bros. Floral Co. is consigning a fine cut of Darwin tulips to this market. This firm will soon have a big cut of outdoor flowers, all of which are late this season.

The opening of the new Tower Grove bank, on South Grand avenue, May 15, created much business for the trade; all available space was occupied by floral offerings. The Bergstermann Floral Co., a block from the new bank, had the bulk of the work from the neighborhood merchants.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Faith in Campaign Work.

M. W. Farr, Reading, Mass., writes: "Enclosed find $10 for one year's contribution to the advertising fund. I think this is a great thing for florists and all should contribute, as it will doubtless be returned many times over."

If all the florists would but have the same faith in our work as Mr. Farr has, we could reach our goal. Too many florists are predisposed to argue with themselves in a parsimonious way. "Business is good," they say. "Why should we pay to keep it so when there are others who gladly contribute? They must help us if they help themselves; therefore we need not worry." This is not the true American feeling. Such a thought is evidence of disloyalty—disloyalty to the industry which makes a good living possible.

The publicity campaign was inaugurated to benefit the whole trade, not any particular part of it. The splendid results from it have proved this. That the demand for flowers has been increased through it is no longer questioned. Not a day passes that the secretary does not receive at least one letter asking how flowers can be delivered the movement from a parsimonious standpoint? He is, to quote an old saying, "Skinning a flint for a halfpenny and spoiling a sixpenny knife over it." Just so long as he holds out will the full measure of benefit from the campaign be delayed. Now, don't be a skinflint because it is easy to be one. If our noble army of subscribers had been skinflints, the florists' business would not be what it is today, prosperous, and to be made more so when our fund increases.

What our committee needs now is more money to work with. We are faced at this time with the problem of providing for our fall advertising, which includes Thanksgiving and

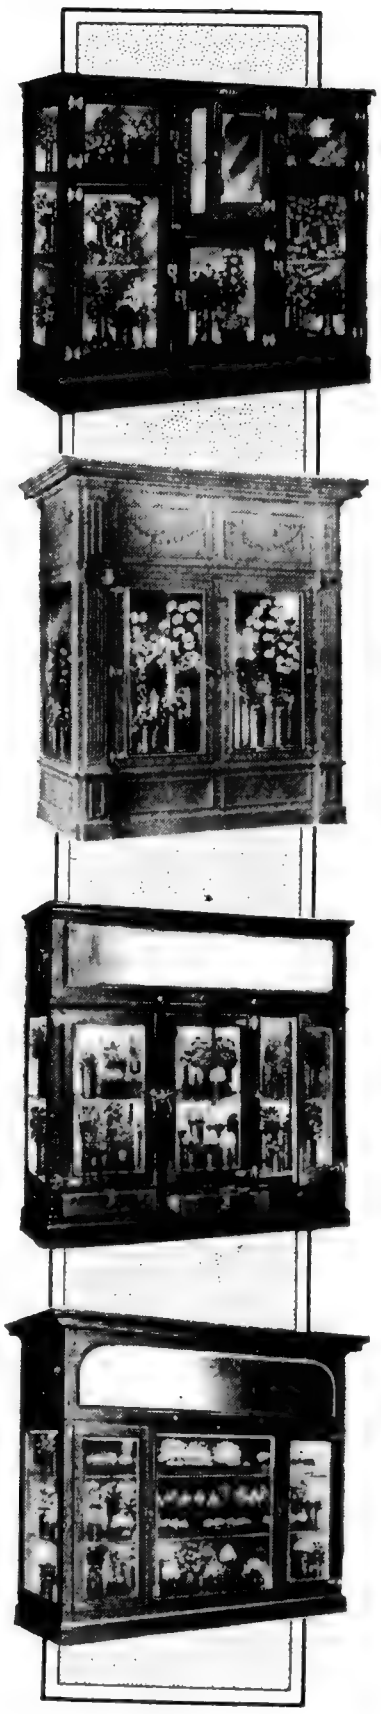
McCRAY REFRIGERATORS FOR ALL PURPOSES



THERE is a McCRAY for every refrigerator need. In those Florist Shops where Quality of product and satisfactory service are the considerations. You will find McCRAY Refrigerators.

More money is invested in McCRAY Refrigerators each year than in any other kind. This evidence of leadership is positive proof of McCRAY Quality.

The particular point of excellence which distinguishes all McCRAY Refrigerators is the McCRAY System of Refrigeration—perfected through thirty-five years' experience.

Remember the handsome appearance of the McCRAY will add to the attractiveness of your store. The McCRAY is more than a Refrigertor—it is a fine display case for floral products. The economy feature makes the McCRAY an investment that pays big dividends in increased profits—it stops waste. Every McCRAY is fully guaranteed.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

Mothers' Day.

That every knock was a boost is the way the florists feel about the publicity given flower prices for Mothers' day by the newspapers of this city and elsewhere.

All the retail dealers here are advertisers practically the year around and before holidays they invariably increase their space. This year, for the first time, all the florists combined and raised about $1,000 for a general advertising fund, all of which was spent in the local newspapers. Some of these same papers took occasion to print local and telegraph stories about the prices of flowers being so high that flags would likely be substituted for Mothers' day. These stories did not cause the best of feeling on the part of merchants who contributed their money for the purpose of getting legitimate business, but they agree, without a dissenting voice, that they never had the business they did this year. They feel that the advertising campaign had much to do with this success. In connection with the advertising, the knocks helped to call attention to the day and those who perhaps had not thought much of it before, felt that they had better get in on the buying while they could.

"It is just like everything else that people do," said one florist. "Things that are cheap and plentiful do not appeal to popular fancy as much as those that cost more and are harder to get. If carnations had been 5 and 10 cents apiece, scarcely anyone would have wanted them, but when anyone called attention to the shortage of this crop, especially after the hail storm the Sunday before, and the consequent higher prices, there was heavy buying. The carnation sentiment was strong and that was the note on which the papers based their charge of profiteering, but it was unfair, because carnations were really the small end of the business this year. This was of necessity, because the local crop was cut to one-fifth of normal by the hail and the shipped stock was a loss to a great extent.

Some of the florists did not sell a carnation on the floor Saturday, May 8. They saved a few from the clean-up Friday for telegraph orders. Spring flowers and plants were heavy sellers. As usual, the day called for medium-priced orders, from $5 to $7 being the average sale. Of course there were many smaller orders and some larger, but these prices told the story for the majority.

Various Notes.

Samuel Murray had three times the usual number of advance orders for Mothers' day. Mr. Murray sold a large quantity of gloxinias, hydrangeas and begonias along with other stock.

The Pinehurst Floral Co. had ten times as many orders for carnations as at Easter and one-third the quantity. The Easter cut was 30,000. During the week of May 3 they cut 10,000 and May 7 they had orders for 11,000.

J. C. Steinhauser, Pittsburg, Kan., and Ralph Ward, Lawrence, Kan., were recent visitors.

Clifford Pruner and James J. Karins called on the trade last week.

Miss Nettie Seymour, of Rock's, is ill at her home.

The T. J. Noll Floral Co. has leased a store, 41x150 feet, at 1117 McGee street and is making improvements. It will have twenty tables for the display of supplies, ample space for storage and surplus stock and a large shipping room. An icebox, 8x30 feet and seven feet high, will be built, with a refrigerating system.

Mrs. L. R. Bohannon came from Chicago last week. Mr. and Mrs. Bohannon will make this city their home. Mr. Bohannon is manager of the Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co. W. E. Tredup, formerly representative of A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, is in charge of the supply department.

In the recent account of the inauguration of city officials, credit should have been given to James Musso, who secured the order for the American and Italian flags presented to Alderman Anthony Bivona. Mr. Musso and Hugo Neff, of the Muehlebach Flower Shop, worked all one night on these flags.

Mrs. T. J. Noll has been enjoying a week's vacation, after the strenuous rush of Mothers' day.

spend some time with relatives in Arkansas and Oklahoma.

At the range of the W. L. Rock Flower Co. Darwin tulips and snapdragons are in full crop. There was a big cut of sweet peas last week. Mothers' day was almost double what it was last year. M. E. Carter says that he has seen an Easter Sunday that was not so good. Among the stock sold May 8 were 3,000 tulips, 3,000 snapdragons and 10,000 sweet peas, besides a vast number of plants and other stock.

Meyer Lieberman has bought the output of two greenhouses for his Main street store. He sells out his plant stand five or six times a day. Mr. Lieberman went to Chicago to buy carnations for Mothers' day.

Alpha Elberfield, of the Alpha Floral Co., says that profits were cut about $2,000 on shipped carnations and that the lack of a full crop in this market was unfortunate for the dealers.

W. J. Barnes says that he can't stop orders with an army. "The season is backward for bedding, but the people want the stock; so let them go to it. I'll sell them all they want. That's what we are here for. There has been much funeral work lately."

A. F. Barbe has been busy with plants lately. He has a great deal of cemetery work, being close to Elmwood cemetery.

Nelson Jarrett has six women working in the greenhouse, potting plants and waiting on trade. He says that he cannot get men enough.

Mrs. Mamie Pickard, daughter of Mrs. Edith Roberts, of the Apollo Flower Shop, died May 11 at St. Joseph's hospital. J. E. K.

LINCOLN, NEB.

Chapin Bros., who were the first ones to predict the possibilities of Mothers' day in a letter to The Review in 1908, now state that their prophecy has more than come true, as this year their business was far ahead of any day's or week's sales they ever had and also far more profitable. Big prices were not asked, but good prices prevailed for May. Carnations were sold at $2 to $3 per dozen, roses at $2 to $5 per dozen. Chapin Bros. reiterate that all that is necessary for Mothers' day is plenty of flowers and somebody to take the orders, because the people certainly buy. It is, they say, a much better day than Christmas or Easter.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, E. C. Dungan, Philadelphia, Pa.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

SCARCITY of labor and increased cost of securing acreage will add to the price the contract grower must get for next season's seeds.

SUSPENSION of publication by a number of periodicals has brought to catalogue houses more acute realization of the shortage of the paper supply.

THE office of Hogewoning & Sons, Inc., New York, moved May 1 from 32 Broadway to 299 Broadway. The nurseries of the firm are at Rynsburg, Holland, and Valley Stream, N. Y.

IN the southwest the storm which came about the time oats should have been planted has caused much of the acreage to be given to forage crops, such as soy beans and Canadian field peas, and to corn.

REPORTS from the freesia district in California indicate that the shippers there are having an unpleasant experience. News of a short crop having gone out, many buyers have gone direct to the growers and have bid for the crops prices above what the jobbers had expected to pay.

CABLES from Ollioules would indicate that the market for Paper Whites is in a highly disturbed condition. The Frenchmen always lay it on the other fellow and this time it is the Hollanders who are blamed. The buyers for the Holland houses are reported as having bidden the market to hitherto unknown heights. The latest quotation at Ollioules for 11 to 13 centimeter grade is 140 francs. In this connection it should be noted that the value of the franc has been rising of late and an American buyer no longer can pay seventeen of them with his dollar.

A FRIENDLY STORE.

Where They Like to Come Again.

"I wish I could buy seeds twenty times a year," said an enthusiastic young woman as she was leaving Peter Hollenbach's store, at 808 West Lake street, Chicago. She was one of the second generation of those who, like their fathers — and doubtless their mothers—before them, enjoyed talking with the Hollenbachs and buying their seeds.

In almost any industry one finds enterprises here and there which are now in the second or third generation and represent a distinctly personal achievement. New employees soon catch the spirit of it and treat the store's customers as friends. The sale of seeds—or whatever the commodity may be—is made the occasion for a friendly chat. Business is combined with pleasure, or, perhaps more accurately, business is done in the spirit of pleasure.

Hollenbach Looks Back.

When an inquiring visitor went into this store on Lake street and Peter Hollenbach's eyes twinkled and he said, "I'm just looking on now," one felt at once that it would be a pleasure also to look on, that here was a distinctly friendly store. Nor can one blame Mr. Hollenbach for wanting to look on and to look back. Born near Mainz, Germany, with two years of training in a state agricultural college and experience as a florist in Frankfort-on-the-Main, where he helped to lay out a palm garden, he came to this country in 1873. After working in Louisville, Ky., Huntsville, Ala., and Cincinnati, he came to Chicago, where for several years he was employed in the seed trade. In 1885 he started out for himself, with $180 worth of seeds, shoe boxes to hold his stock and a store, or store space, only a few feet long and wide. The first year was not successful, but the following year an older seedsman failed and Peter Hollenbach got some of his customers. With that start, steady plugging and quality and service of the kind now evident brought the enterprise to a level where Mr. Hollenbach feels quite content to look on, though he cannot help but continue actively interested in the business.

Seeds in Oversupply.

When it comes to questions of the market or of the prospects for the summer season, Mr. Hollenbach says, "Ask Charlie; he knows more about that." Charles Hollenbach, the son, believes that, while the demand from their own established clientele will continue steady through the summer, the outlook for seeds in general is not particularly bright, though it is all quite uncertain and one may hesitate to prophesy definitely. During the war American seed growers were led to expect that when peace came Europe would need large quantities of American-grown seed to help in its self-rehabilitation; consequently, they exerted themselves in producing for the expected demand. But now Europe, and England in particular, is selling seed in some lines rather than buying it. Prices are thus being forced down and the opportunities for disposing of the available supply are much fewer than could be wished. However, the demand for both flower and vegetable seeds for use in home gardens is growing steadily.

DISCLAIMER OF WARRANTY.

Seedsman vs. Grower.

Existence of a disclaimer of warranty stood defendants in hand in the case of Kibbe vs. Woodruff et al., 109 Atlantic Reporter, 169, recently decided by the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors.

Defendants sold plaintiff quantities of seeds, but, through mistake, sent a bushel of peas instead of a bushel of seed corn ordered by plaintiff. The accepted order, which constituted the

Orlando Offerings

Two New Snapdragons

From the originator of Nelrose, Enchantress, Bronze Beauty and other standard greenhouse varieties.

GOLDEN DELIGHT. During the past 15 years I have grown thousands of Yellow Seedlings from all manner of crosses, but this is the first I have deemed worthy of introduction to the trade. Pure deep golden yellow, very large flower and fine habit. If it does not prove the best yellow for greenhouse culture I shall be disappointed.

ORLANDO. Better than Bronze Beauty. Cleaner colors, flowers as large and has a better habit. It is the one variety for a fastidious trade.

Fresh seed, tr. pkt. $1.00; 3 pkts. of each for $5.00

50,000 ALTERNANTHERA

Red and Yellow, strong, transplanted, bench grown, equal to 2-inch pot plants. Shipped without soil, packed light. Send cash with order and will ship any time up to May 10. $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ASPARAGUS ELONGATUS

(Cut-and-Come-Again.) Fresh seed, $1 per 100.

contract of sale, contained the following clause:

"We [the sellers] give no warranty, express or implied, as to description, quality, productiveness or any other matter of any seeds, bulbs or plants we send out and will not be in any way responsible for the crop. If the purchaser does not accept the goods on these terms, they are at once to be returned."

On being notified of the mistake, defendant sellers requested return of the peas and shipped a quantity of seed corn. Plaintiff claims that the corn was not of the variety ordered, being of slower-maturing kind, and sued for damages, resulting from freezing of the crop before maturity. Plaintiff asserted innocence of knowledge that the corn was not of the kind ordered, when it was received.

The trial judge refused to instruct the jury, at defendants' instance, that the letters looking to correction of the mistake under which peas were shipped instead of corn did not so modify the contract as to eliminate the warranty disclaimer. And, the jury having found in favor of plaintiff, defendants appealed to the Supreme Court of Errors, which set the verdict aside, saying:

Question of Law.

"As the case reached the jury no question of fact necessary to determine the legal effect of the correspondence between the parties relative to the defendants' mistake in delivering peas in place of corn remained unsettled. It was not for the jury to pass upon the meaning of the letters under these circumstances, but the question presented was one of law and the duty to determine it rested solely upon the court. * * * The performance of this duty properly called for an instruction to the jury that the only contract in the case was that contained in the written order, since that was the necessary legal conclusion from the conceded facts. The plaintiff's letter complaining of the mistaken delivery of the peas does not purport to launch a new contract; it demands the fulfillment of an existing one. The subsequent delivery and acceptance of the corn were as clearly controlled by the conditions of the written order as were those items of it which had been already filled without mistake.

"The defendants were entitled, therefore, to an instruction substantially as asked for. In legal effect, this would, and should, have been equivalent to the direction of a verdict in their favor, since, in the absence of any claim or suggestion of either fraud or negligence, the express exemption from liability contained in the contract is of controlling effect here, whether the corn actually delivered was Canada field corn, or some other variety. CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

Porter-Walton Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.—"Porter-Walton's Seed and Nursery Book," an illustrated 96-page catalogue, in an attractive colored cover of the offset type. Large lines of stock are listed in both seed and nursery departments, as well as extensive assortments of supplies.

H. W. Groschner, Napoleon, O.—"Flag Iris," an 8-page catalogue. Mr. Groschner speaks of his work in selecting irises as an "attempt to make some sense out of the iris situation by compiling a list of sorts that are worth while and eliminating the worthless varieties." The catalogue is accompanied by three circulars, one of which is entitled "Hit or Miss Methods of Selecting Irises."

Maurice Fuld, New York, N. Y.—May edition of "My Garden Favorites," sixty-four pages, illustrated; another of the tasteful, unique, blueprinted and blue-covered catalogues for which Mr. Fuld is noted. This issue is devoted principally to bulbs and contains about sixteen pages of directions about bulb culture, in the garden and in the residence—in pots of soil, in fiber, in water and pebbles. The closing pages treat of "the old-fashioned hardy flowers" and offer seeds of an extensive selection of varieties.

Tampa, Fla.—The Knull Floral Co. reported fine business for Mothers' day. Everything cleaned up, including gladioli and Easter lilies.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

MANY nurseries are using all available office help to fill orders and then are far behind. Any more favorable season for orders would have hopelessly swamped them.

ALL the permanent employees of the Armstrong Nursery Co., Los Angeles, Cal., will receive an annual cash bonus, distributed May 31, as their share of the profits.

PEONY EXHIBITION.

To Be Held at Reading, Pa.

At a meeting of the directors of the American Peony Society held at Reading, Pa., recently, a prize schedule was adopted for the spring show to be held at Reading. The dates set are June 10 and 11.

The show is to be at the Hotel Berkshire and all those who plan to be there should make their reservations at the hotel without delay. The evening of the first day there will be an informal dinner with the Reading Chamber of Commerce. The following day an automobile trip is planned, to give the visitors some idea of the beauty spots in that picturesque region.

Everything possible will be done to make the show a success. Reading has exceptional cold storage facilities, which should encourage growers at a distance to send in some fine exhibits. Those who intend to ship should communicate with B. H. Farr for details.

The Chamber of Commerce at Reading makes a substantial contribution to the prize schedule and will aid in other ways in giving everyone a good time. The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society is also aiding generously to provide a prize schedule which is much larger than at any previous peony show. It has been especially enlarged so as to appeal to the gardening fraternity in and around Philadelphia, a region famous for its fine estates and gardens.

Early Entries Requested.

Entries for the show are to be addressed to David Rust, secretary of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, 606 Finance building, South Penn Square, Philadelphia. All exhibitors are particularly urged to get in their entries not later than June 1. It is impossible to make adequate preparation for vases and table space unless something is known beforehand as to the number of entries in each class.

Among the new and interesting features of the show are two prizes for collections of Richardson and Hollis varieties. The society has published this year a special bulletin on Hollis's introductions and some fine exhibits are looked for in this class. The Harrison memorial prize of $100, offered by L. R. Bonnewitz, the president of the society, for a new yellow peony, is still open this year and any good blooms staged in competition for this prize should be worth seeing.

In order to expedite the judging, two committees of judges will divide the labor, one taking the open classes, the other the amateurs.

Attractive Premium List.

GARDEN BORDERED WITH BOX-BARBERRY
Electros of this illustration free with each order for 1000 or more if requested.

Have you seen a garden bordered with this spring? Every plant bright and green—not a dead one. A strong contrast to the northern Buxus bordered garden, now either dead or sadly winter injured, brown and dejected looking.

Mr. Siebrecht, the veteran plantsman, on seeing the garden the other day shown in accompanying illustration, exclaimed with his characteristic enthusiasm: "Magnificent! There is a fortune in it for the nurserymen."

We offer you well rooted dormant summer frame cuttings ready to set out direct into the nursery without further expense to you at

$65.00 per 1000
All sold out of larger sizes

Many of the leading catalogue firms have already contracted with us for their supply for the ensuing season, and others are buying these frame grown plants for their own planting, preparing for the enormous demand which is sure to follow.

It is a safe statement that BOX-BARBERRY will soon be the plantsman's best seller.

74 Years —— 1000 Acres

Views of J. H. Meek's Upland Farm, Carroll P.O., Md. George Morrison is manager of this farm

The tribute of George Morrison to Davey Tree Surgery

Uplands Farm, Carroll P. O., Md.

The Davey Tree Expert Co., Inc., Kent, Ohio.

Gentlemen: Eight or nine years have elapsed since your company first began to scientifically treat trees here. And it is gratifying to note that all the work has stood the test, notwithstanding the severe strain some of it has been subjected to. The perfect system of bracing, which relieves the filling from understrain, together with the sectional method of inserting the filling, renders the work almost immune from rupture. Not a single instance of breaking or cleavage has presented itself at Uplands and the trees have responded admirably to the treatment which will in all probability double the life of many of them.

It might interest you to know that Dr. Jacobs takes great personal interest in your work and admires the surgical-like treatment of the trees from both the mechanical and scientific standpoint and he views without apprehension the solidity and lasting qualities of the work.

Yours truly, George Morrison, Manager

The saving of priceless trees is a matter of first importance on every estate. Davey Tree Surgery is a fulfillment of the maximum expectations of those who love and value trees. A careful examination of your trees will be made by appointment.

Huntington, W. Va.

The Davey Tree Expert Co.
Kent, Ohio.

Gentlemen: Enclosed find check in payment of the enclosed bill. The work done by your men on my trees was very satisfactory, and my relations with them were very pleasant indeed. One thing I observed while your men were working on my trees, and that was that they seemed to be at work every minute of the time. In these modern days, this is so unusual that it impresses one.

Very truly yours,

J. H. MEEK

DAVEY TREE SURGEONS

Every real Davey Tree Surgeon is in the employ of The Davey Tree Expert Co., Inc., and the public is cautioned against those falsely representing themselves. An agreement made with the Davey Company and not with an individual is certain evidence of genuineness amateur classes, novice amateur classes and special classes. The open classes are open to all who grow peonies, whether for pleasure or profit, and number nineteen, with cash prizes amounting to $514. The advanced amateur classes, numbering nine, are only for those who grow peonies mainly for personal pleasure or satisfaction, who employ no skilled labor in their care or handling, who do not advertise as growers by signs, stationery, price lists or catalogues and whose expenditures for new varieties exceed all receipts for sales of flowers or plants. The novice amateur classes are open only to those who grow peonies for personal pleasure and who have grown less than fifty plants during the season of this exhibition. These classes are not open to exhibitors in preceding sections. There are eight special classes, three of which are open only to members of the American Peony Society who have not previously shown in any of the society's exhibitions, one open only to members who have joined since May 1, 1919, two open to amateurs living in Berks county, Pa. Prizes amounting to $50 will be awarded for the special classes.

AMERICAN GLADIOLUS SOCIETY.

Gladiolus Registration.

The following named gladiolus has been offered for registration by Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, Ill. If no objection is filed with the committee before June 1, the registration becomes complete:

Mrs. H. A. Caesar—This seedling gladiolus is a cross of America with Sunbeam. Its habit of growth is more robust than America, with same flowering season. The length of spike is about the same, but it produces more buds, frequently showing five to eight open flowers well placed on the spike. The color is a beautiful lavender shading to lilac, with a yellow dash in the lower petals. Admirers have called it Orchid Beauty. The spikes are uniformly straight and upright, with no crooked stems.

A. C. Beal, Sec'y.

Mansfield, O.—E. M. Lintott sold his interests in the Mansfield Floral Co. to Paul and Karl Kopanka April 6.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Hazel Hill Floral Gardens are specializing in sweet peas, cosmos, gladioli and other cut flowers, doing a wholesale business exclusively.

SPOKANE NOTES.

cleaned up. Peonies will be arriving this week, which will help to relieve the shortage. Bulbous stock is about over, except Darwin tulips. Carnations never were so scarce as at the present time. A large number of the growers have planted their carnation benches with tomatoes, etc.

Funeral work has kept up well lately and the corsage trade has been running heavy. Wedding work has made a fair start, with the prospects for next month good.

Various Notes.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club was held at the Spokane hotel Monday, May 10. The main business was to plan for the next Easter and Mothers' day crops. The shortage this year was so great that the growers are planning ahead.

More houses are being built at the ranges of H. L. Olsson and the Glenrose Greenhouses, in spite of the fact that this city did not show a gain in population in the last ten years.

HARDY PLANTS

THE WAYSIDE GARDENS CO.
Mentor, Ohio

WATERBURY, CONN.

The Market.

Mothers' day brought a phenomenal sale of flowers in all of the florists' stores. This was remarkable in view of the propaganda against buying flowers. In spite of this and a pouring rain all day Saturday, May 8, everyone reported a large increase in sales over those of last year. Only one reported any increase of prices this year over those of last Mothers' day and one even refused to raise the prices over those of ordinary times. In every case the entire stock of flowers was sold out.

The only shortage was on roses. An off crop and the dark, cloudy weather were given as the reasons. There were more carnations in supply and more sold than in other years. Sweet peas were plentiful. Saturday's rain affected the sale of corsage bouquets somewhat, but the Sunday sale was large.

Various Notes.

A new store has been opened on Center street, operated by Mortimer Connor. Mr. Connor was with Ryan & Powers for several years.

George Ryan, of Ryan & Powers, reported a 100 per cent increase this year in telegraph orders, both received and sent out. His Saturday business ran fifty per cent ahead of last year's and Sunday sales 100 per cent.

Dallas & Sons had a special sale on phloxes last week, selling them at $2 for twelve clumps. This firm is also selling vegetable seeds in bulk.

Leary the Florist had a seventy-five per cent increase in sales over last year. He also had a sale of Boston ferns.

Saxe & Floto reported increased sales this year with prices the same as last year.

James Leary was in New York last week.

Robert Cullom, of H. Bayersdofer & Co., Philadelphia, was a visitor last week. D. H. P.

Salt Lake City, Utah.—The Utah Nursery Co. recently bought ten acres of land, upon which it is going to build greenhouses, and intends to move the old nursery establishment to this location.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

WHAT WILL COAL COST?

Representatives of the various railroad systems of the country have applied to the interstate commerce commission for an average advance of twenty-eight per cent in freight rates to yield the $1,017,000,000 which they say is needed in order to bring the earnings of the roads up to the six per cent basis allowed under the transportation act of 1920. It has been suggested by the railroads that passenger rates remain as they are and that the required increase in revenues be obtained from freight charges alone. It is anticipated that the wage board now passing on railroad workers' pay must make increases amounting to nearly a billion dollars a year more and in such case it is believed a further increase of possibly thirty per cent will be needed to enable the railroads to meet the greater pay roll.

The combination of two such increases will add more than fifty per cent to the florists' freight bill next fall, sending up the cost of his coal to a figure undreamed-of a short time ago. Since the cost of coal will be higher aside from the freight on it, the fuel bill will be far greater than in previous years. No diminution in the cost of greenhouse production can be looked for in that quarter; instead there will be a tremendous advance.

NO NEED OF LARGER RETURNS.

We have an Ideal hot water horizontal boiler W22-6 in an old house that we are wrecking. We are building a house 21x150 feet, with a lean-to 6x150 feet on the north side for a propagating house, and want to know how much radiation it will require to heat this house. The boiler at present has two 3-inch flow pipes and four 3-inch returns. Would it be better to have four flow pipes? What difference would it make to have only two returns?

R. G. C.—Kan.

The letter fails to state the temperature desired in the houses and the amount of glass in the walls is not given. If there is no glass in the walls and if 60 degrees will suffice, with 10 degrees of bottom heat in the propagating house, about 1,700 square feet of radiation will be required and the boiler should have a rating of at least 2,000 square feet. I am not sure regarding the rating of an Ideal W22-6, but think it slightly under this. The boiler should have a grate of at least 22x39 inches. A grate 24x39 inches would be better for heat of 60 degrees, if required.

of four 3-inch returns, there is but little gained from the use of returns of greater capacity than that of the flow pipes. We would certainly use at least three 3-inch flow pipes. If there is glass in the walls it will be advisable to use five 2½-inch flow pipes in the house 21x150 feet, with one 2½-inch flow in the propagating house. There will then be two 2½-inch flow pipes to be supplied by each of the 3-inch mains.

One flow may be upon each plate, another on each of the two rows of purlin posts and the fifth pipe can be two

Black Coal

Help Save the "White Coal of Industry"

The boiling hot water resulting from condensation in your steam lines is worth money. You have paid for it in terms of coal. It contains valuable heat units. It is the "White Coal of Industry"—it should not be wasted.

And it need not be wasted. The Morehead Back-to-Boiler System will save it for you by returning it to the boiler at temperatures as high as 400 degrees Fahrenheit. It reduces coal consumption an average of 20%. At the same time your steam will be "drier" and more efficient; your production speeded up and profits increased.

There should be ten lines of 2-inch returns in the main house, arranged in five coils of two pipes each, connected with the respective flow pipes. COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Flowers were plentiful for Mothers' day. The demand was so great that practically all florists were cleaned out Saturday night, May 8. This was the biggest Mothers' day business in the day's existence. Coöperative advertising played a large part in its success here. Carnations sold for $3 per dozen, but there were not enough to supply the demand. The general demand was not centered on carnations, but was for a variety of flowers. Roses were in large demand. There were many varieties to choose from, roses, sweet peas, snapdragons and calendulas, besides outside flowers, such as violets, tulips and Narcissus poeticus.

The number of telegraph orders surprised the trade. The telegraph business was larger than ever before and surpassed that at both Christmas and Easter. This business added much to the success of the day.

Stock has declined in price in the last few days and is more plentiful. The railroad strike situation has improved. There is a shortage of ferns.

GLAZETITE

(Formerly Nebelastic)

The wise man once said, save your pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves. Why pay freight on shipments of hundreds of miles when you can purchase Glazetite near, and furthermore save considerable delays in transit? For the past eight years Glazetite has stood the test. The leading greenhouse owners have made Glazetite their standard. For glazing new houses or repairing old ones, Glazetite has no equal. Glazetite never gets hard and brittle, but sets up tough and always remains elastic. Glazetite is made from a long staple asbestos fiber and elastic gums and oils; its color is black. Glazetite will outlast putty from three to four times. Glazetite is carried in stock by the following reliable firms in 55 and 35-gallon drums, five-gallon cans and one-gallon cans, and they sell it to you on a money-back guarantee:

SEATTLE NOTES.

message from her son on it. Harry Crouch reports Mothers' day business considerably in excess of that for 1919 and from the cash standpoint nearly up to the last Christmas business. The combination of Mothers' day and the big Sunday funeral caused this house to practically clean up on everything.

Walter K. Louis, who is Peter Matraia's partner in the Art Floral Co. of San Francisco, was a visitor last week.

The Beall Greenhouse Co., on Vashon island, has been sending in peonies and gladioli during the last week, being the first local shipper to offer these. Some fine Rose Premier has also been coming from this firm.

Fred H. Rowe, of McCoy's, showed an effective window. Seated on one side was a Western Union messenger boy with a box of flowers in his hands. On the other side was a framed picture of a young mother and her child and in the central background was the American hemisphere with "Say It with Flowers" blazoned across. From the base of this hemisphere hundreds of ribbons ran to cards in the foreground, each of these being from some florist in confirmation of telegraph business. There were over 200 such cards shown.

At the opening of Vogue La Rose, an exclusive perfume shop on Third avenue, each purchaser was given an Ophelia rose as "a pleasant reminder of Vogue La Rose."

A marked increase in the number of social events, with an attendant better demand for small flowers, is reported by Rosaia Bros., who have placed more baskets in the last week than for a corresponding period in a long time.

Anna F. Burns, of the Burns Floral Co., not only moved such stock as was brought in from California for Mothers' day, but all that the local growers could allow as well. She notes a distinct increase in the percentage of telegraph business this year.

The Orpheum Floral Co. reports a number of good decorations and a steady increase in transient sales. Henry Day, manager, found it a hard matter to get enough carnations for Mothers' day to take care of booked orders.

Some of the finest colored local iris seen this year came from the greenhouses of the Hollywood Gardens. Some good forget-me-nots also came from this firm. It has been some time since the trade has been able to get all of these flowers it has needed. H. M.

AJAX BLACK GLAZING CEMENT

A PRACTICAL glazing material made for application in a practical manner. No clumsy, slow working tools necessary—simply a putty bulber or two and a filling gun to load them—furnished free to users.

Ajax Black Glazing Cement has been used throughout the country for several years with excellent results. To prospective purchasers we can give names of satisfied users in every greenhouse center—over a hundred names in Chicago locality alone.

NOT AFFECTED BY EXTREME HEAT OR COLD

Our product is a cement-like composition of Asbestos Fibres, and heavy, semi-drying hydro-carbon oils. Its exceptionally long life is due to the fact that it never thoroughly hardens like old fashioned white putty. The outside surface (which is exposed to the oxygen of the air) forms a resilient tough skin, below which the material remains soft and plastic. Because of this we guarantee that the coldest weather will not cause it to become brittle or pull away. On the other hand our product is warranted not to sag or run in extremely hot weather due to its being inter-laced with the Asbestos Fibres.

As Ajax Black Glazing Cement never thoroughly hardens, glass glazed with it can be shifted when desired without the loss of breakage that so often results when hard drying white putties are used.

Easily applied with a bulber. No clumsy tools necessary.

LOW COST

Compared with the old fashioned White Lead putties, Ajax Black Glazing Cement not only lasts years longer, but is a great deal lower in initial cost.

One gallon is sufficient to glaze 500 lineal feet of sash.

While primarily made to stop water leaks, so thoroughly does Ajax Black Glazing Cement hermetically seal up the sash, that it will soon pay for itself in the saving of heat that is otherwise lost through air voids. This fact has been demonstrated time and again, and we can prove it.

The Market.

Flowers in a certain few varieties are in abundance, but other offerings are limited. After a winter of scarcity in this line, sweet peas are now in such heavy supply that they sell for whatever one can get. Carnations also are now conspicuous and the price is $4 to $6 per hundred. Larger quantities can be purchased cheaper. Lilies are also in large supply and the demand is poor.

Roses are equal to the demand, selling at $6 to $12 per hundred. Snapdragons are in fair supply and move at $6 to $8 per hundred. Gladioli have been slow in appearing, although a few of the large types are available. The miniature ones are more in evidence, but are not abundant.

Practically nothing but bedding stock is available in the potted plant line. Green goods remain about the same.

Various Notes.

Frank Liebking was recently married.

Charles Randall has purchased a 5-acre tract of land at Fifty-fourth street and Keystone avenue.

Isaac Bayersdorfer and Benjamin Fern called on the trade last week.

Baur & Steinkamp have been cutting some splendid gladioli in the following varieties: Chicago White, Myrtle and Halley.

A frost in this locality May 15 did considerable damage to outside stock. It is feared that some of the small fruit trees were ruined. The cold weather having hung on so long, almost everyone has delayed planting out, which was indeed fortunate.

Bedding stock is still in the greenhouses. It is hoped, however, now that the middle of May is past, that the weather will warm up and make it possible to plant out.

Robert Ellis, formerly with Stuart & Son, Anderson, Ind., and Merle Morris, of Bloomington, Ind., will go into business together June 1 at the former F. L. Morris range, at Bloomington.

Alfred Pittet's entire cut of flowers was stolen from his greenhouses Monday night, May 10. E. E. T.

King GREENHOUSES

Are strong and permanent because of the careful attention paid to each detail of construction, for example:

King Malleable Fittings are not only of improved design (see illustration), with many exclusive features and advantages, but being made of malleable iron instead of cast iron they will not break or crack under the winter wind and snow load.

It will pay you to inspect the fittings in your houses carefully at this time and replace those cast iron fittings that have not and will not stand up under the strain, with King Malleable Fittings.

Write for catalogue and let us show you the many little things that are put into every King house to make it last longer and pay bigger returns on the investment.

The Market.

Business has been satisfactory during the last week, with all varieties of stock cleaning up well. The first peonies of the season were seen last week. The continued cold weather which we are having is holding outside stock back a great deal. May 16 the local newspapers reported ice forming in Maryland and much damage has been done to the crops by the cold. The rose and carnation supply is good and carnations clean up at $4 and $5 per hundred and roses run from $6 to $20 per hundred. Beauties average $6 per dozen and orchids $50 to $75 per hundred.

A slight scarcity of ferns was noticed during the latter part of the week, but everyone is looking forward to the local supply, which is expected to start within the next few days.

The supply of irises is still on the increase and some fine geranium and pansy plants were on the market.

Various Notes.

Fred Leapley had just returned to his place of business after a serious spell of illness last week, but since has been operated on at a local hospital. His condition at this time is reported as favorable.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Williams, of Portsmouth, Va., were in town last week.

The florists' baseball team has been victorious in the first two games of the season.

Bessie Stuart Campbell will give the second of a series of talks, interpreting the different kinds of flowers, particularly the rose, at the Studio of Dance in this city May 27. It is said that Miss Campbell has done more to help the sale of flowers than any other public speaker.

Herbert Sauber, formerly with Z. D. Blackistone, is in the printing business in this city. G. V. S.

ATTENTION, MR. GROWER!

KOST SOIL PULVERIZER

WHY do you throw away your coal ashes, when by using them in your soil you grow better crops?

There are plant food elements in coal ashes; ashes also help to keep the soil sweet; there are elements in ashes that dissolve plant food elements in the soil otherwise dormant.

Ashes act as a solvent to the soil, keep the soil porous and fresh from stagnation.

Don't waste your clinkers and ashes, spread them on your land to grow better carnations in your fields; your asters also need good light soil.

The leading growers use their coal ashes. Max Grohman of North Tonawanda, N. Y., Begonia Lorraine, Cincinnati and Cyclamen specialist, once one of the leading growers for Thomas Rowland, Boston, Mass., uses all his ashes; Mr. Carl Grohman, grower to S. A. Anderson, Buffalo, N. Y., another famous grower, uses all his ashes; J. F. Anderson, Short Hills, N. J., prominent fern specialist, uses all his ashes in his fern soil; The Lansdale Mushroom Co., Lansdale, Pa., who supply all the leading hotels with cucumbers, melons, tomatoes and mushrooms, grind all their clinkers and ashes for their soil.

Now, Mr. Grower, get our pulverizer for clinkers and ashes. We have a grinder that we are proud of—it is "fool proof," it grinds up sods, clam-shells and soft limestone. It keeps two to three men busy shoveling in as fast as they can. Don't fail to spread all your ashes on your soil, for it helps the crops and acts as a solvent on other plant food elements in the soil.

Mr. Grower, why throw your money away, by not using your clinkers and coal ashes?

This pulverizer was designed and made to grind up the soil and sods, also fertilizers that come in bulk from the sheep ranches direct to the grower in carload lots. It can be used for many other purposes, and the grower will surely be benefited in many ways. The pulverizer has not only many uses, is a big labor saver and a money maker, but is also a better crop producer and a saver in fertilizers. By using up all your coal ashes and clinkers, this alone will save you a lot of money.

As production and conservation are the great roads to success, we would ask you, Mr. Grower, to write us by return mail about this very reasonably priced pulverizer. Price $175.00.

Guaranteed to do the work intended to do. Write us today—

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Business has been brisk during the last week, not only on funeral and social work, but on cut flowers, as well as bedding plants, seeds, etc. The continued chilly weather conditions have not been favorable to early outdoor work and the season is now a fortnight behind. In cut flowers there has been a good supply, but no surplus stock, good clean-ups being reported every day.

Various Notes.

Macnair is making a complete renovation of his store.

Preparations are being made for extensive improvements at the Reservoir Avenue Greenhouses, of which A. and E. Lafacia are proprietors.

William J. Sword, Valley Falls, is marketing several thousand tomato plants.

The Westminster Greenhouses have added a new automobile truck to the delivery department.

Considerable repair work is being arranged for at the range of J. B. Canning, on Smith street.

E. Brooke, of T. J. Johnston & Co., was in Boston and vicinity last week on business.

M. J. Leach & Son, Pawtucket, have been bringing to market some fine pansy plants.

Cohen Bros., of the Lowell Avenue Greenhouses, are cleaning up preparatory to making extensive improvements at their range on Lowell avenue.

J. E. Koppelman is gradually getting his new wholesale rooms on Custom House street fitted up and will move there about the middle of June.

M. F. Pollock has given up the retail store at 38 Beacon avenue.

M. Sweeney's is to undergo extensive improvements this summer, a complete overhauling being under contemplation. W. H. M.

MASTER Brand SOIL BUILDERS MASTER Brand

The average greenhouse man is confronted with a serious and insistent problem in the matter of a supply of animal manures. Not only are manures becoming extremely scarce and high in price, but, when obtainable, they are under the ban of boards of health and other public authorities. Rail transportation, cartage and storage often are forbidden.

And yet the grower must have plant food—it must be effective and economical, simple and safe, and it must be in unfailing supply, acceptable to the transportation companies, the health authorities and the neighbors.

But the place of the rapidly disappearing and offensive raw manures will now be taken by "Master Brand" Vine and Plant Manure. It is successfully used by large numbers of florists and it will be generally adopted now that we have so increased our facilities and production that we can supply the trade in unfailing quantity.

CONCENTRATED VINE MASTER Brand AND PLANT MANURE

Guaranteed analysis: 5 % ammonia, 2 % phosphoric acid, 1 % potash

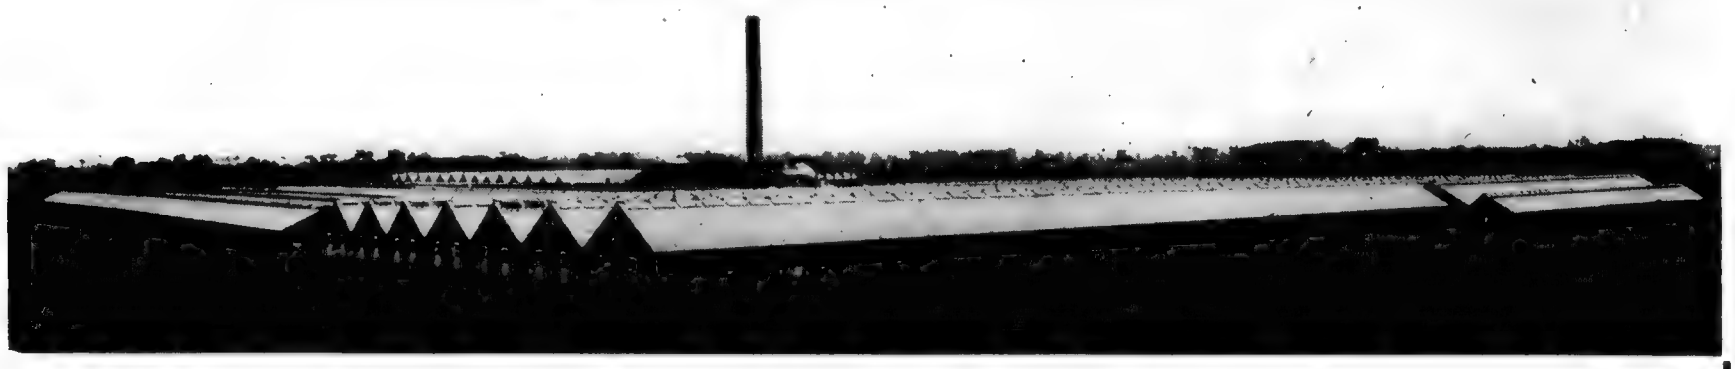
In offering "Master Brand" Vine and Plant Manure to florists and gardeners we have put on the market an absolutely pure manure product made up from the most powerful of animal and poultry manures, thoroughly sterilized and scientifically mixed without any loss of the essential plant food elements—in no way has the manurial value of the organic matter of which it is composed been impaired.

"Master Brand" Vine and Plant Manure supplies at reasonable cost a natural plant food and soil builder that is more efficient than any of the imported plant foods that are so highly esteemed by professional gardeners.

No capable grower can fail to produce profitable crops if he feeds them with "Master Brand" Vine and Plant Manure in connection with his usual good culture. This soil builder and plant food is equally adaptable for feeding outdoor and greenhouse crops. It is particularly valuable as a top dressing or liquid food for roses, carnations, chrysanthemums and the general list of decorative and flowering plants grown under glass.

For feeding the general list of greenhouse bench plants 75 to 100 pounds for each 500 square feet of bench surface is sufficient for one application of top dressing. The frequency of application depends on the condition of the plants and time of year, but in general the treatment would be the same as with any high class manure. For potting soil use a 5-inch or 6-inch pot of "Master Brand" Vine and Plant Manure to each wheelbarrow load of soil.

"Master Brand" Vine and Plant Manure is guaranteed to be a pure animal manure product, thoroughly sterilized and packed in burlap bags containing 50 pounds and 100 pounds, net weight.



Send a trial order, or write for the names of well pleased users, descriptive circulars and prices.

FOLEY GREENHOUSES

Bassett & Washburn's Mammoth Range at Greggs Station, Illinois

BASSETT & WASHBURN need no introduction to the trade. The high quality of stock grown by them is known to all.

Several years ago it was decided to gradually reduce the old range at Hinsdale, and build a new range at Greggs Station, close by. Two distinct types of houses were furnished by other builders, neither of which was of the type which Bassett & Washburn would use in the further development of the range.

In the Spring of 1915 the "Foley Semi-Iron House" was chosen as the most practical and economical, and immediately seven of our houses were built. The following season thirteen more of the same type were built. They then followed a little while later with another order for two more of the same size. This gives them a total of

22 FOLEY SEMI-IRON HOUSES

Each 28 feet wide by 300 feet long

Foley Channel Gutters and Patent Malleable Bar Brackets are used throughout.

Repeat orders such as these are sure proof of "Foley Dependability" and leave no doubt as to the merits of "Foley Greenhouses."

NEWPORT, R. I.

The regular meeting of the Newport Horticultural Society was held at Music hall Tuesday evening, May 11. It was announced that Richard Gardner had been engaged as manager of the spring flower shows under the auspices of the society, which are to be held June 24 and 25, and as manager of the September show, the date of which has not yet been decided upon. Mr. Gardner gave the members an informal talk concerning orchid growing.

A. T. Bunyard, of New York, was a visitor last week, making preparations for the summer trade.

Oscar Schultz had two large decorations last week, which were out of the ordinary.

The store of Joseph G. Leikens is undergoing extensive alterations and improvements, lattice and grill work being a feature of the redecorative scheme of the interior. A sunken garden is to be another feature of the establishment.

Asbestfalt

An Elastic Cement That Expands and Contracts With the Weather

Make your greenhouse weather-tight with Asbestfalt, the elastic cement that never gets hard, cracks or peels in cold weather or runs in hot weather.

$1.25 per gallon. Why pay more?

You can't get anything better no matter how much more you pay. The ingredients are of the purest; weighs but 10 pounds to the gallon.

With the scarcity of coal and its high prices, the careful application of Asbestfalt will more than pay for itself by keeping your greenhouse air-tight.

To insure best results, apply Asbestfalt with our Liquid Putty Machine, price $2.00. With every barrel purchase of Asbestfalt, one machine free.

"Oh Boy" Automatic Glazing Gun

S. A. KOST, Inventor. Patent applied for.

The last word in one-handed guns for the application of

GLAZING CEMENT

Use Evertite for all your glazing — for your new work, for tightening leaky roofs and for repairing broken glass.

Evertite Glazing Cement is made from pure rock asbestos, non-drying adhesive oils and Gilsonite — it will not check, crack, run or harden under the extremes of temperature — but will always remain in a plastic, rubber-like condition.

Evertite Glazing Cement, because of its composition, will contract and expand under the stress of vibration in wind storms—but will not crack.

Evertite flows from our "Oh Boy" Gun (which we give you gratis) in a thick, pencil-like stream and stays where you put it, never gathering in puddles.

Go over your glass once with Evertite Glazing Cement and then forget your glass for a long time — Saving not only the money, but also the labor. In fact, if putty were furnished you gratis — Evertite would still save you money — because of lessened labor cost.

Evertite Glazing Cement is inexpensive — it is sold for less than competing articles on the market.

It can be had in barrels, half barrels and kegs.

Write us and we will give you further information

The Market.

Last week showed great reductions in prices on all lines of stock and at present the prices show little difference from what they were at this time last year.

Roses of all varieties and grades can now be had at from $4 to $6 per hundred for short-stemmed stock up to from $15 to $25 per hundred for the larger sorts, with the prices depending upon the variety.

Snapdragons are getting poor and are used principally in work by the retailers, being less desirable as cut flowers. Outdoor lily of the valley has been a glut on the market, thereby spoiling the sale of indoor stock. Peonies have made their appearance and from now on will gradually reach the point where they will be the reigning factor in the market. Some fine yellow daisies are now coming into this market, also double white daisies of the Sander and Alexandra types. They find ready sale.

Gladioli, outdoor-grown and coming from Florida, have not arrived in satisfactory condition. Indoor gladioli are coming now. Halley, an early bloomer of exceptional quality, finds ready sale. America of fine quality is also making its appearance.

Various Notes.

With the retailers the season is fast coming to a close. Memorial day has lost some of its prestige as a big day since Mothers' day has been put on the calendar. However, school graduations start soon and with the June weddings the season will end as the best ever.

The aftermath of Mothers' day indicates a general opinion that the adverse newspaper publicity affected the results of the day's business only in a small way and the anxiety as to what might happen was in part made up for by the lesson it taught—not to overdo a good thing. H. E. K.

The Price is Low

There has been great improvement in the process of making Glazing Cements since they first were put on the market by us, in 1911, and the better article can now be sold for less than the inferior one has cost.

Considering the rise in other commodities

It amounts to an important reduction here.

Federal Greenhouse Cement No. 2 is a medium thick consistency. We consider this the ideal consistency for glazing work, not too thick nor too thin. Can be used in greenhouse gun, putty bulb, or other instruments. Those who prefer a slightly thinner consistency can thin with Federal Special Greenhouse Thinner.

Rather than let our Mum cuttings not sold injure in the sand, as soon as they should be moved, we put them in light soil and keep them growing. We have some of these now ready, mostly topped and branching: Unaka, White Patty, Pink Patty, Pink Seidewitz and Red Seidewitz. Add 50c per hundred to the hundred rates for this stock.

CYCLAMEN

A CHOICE STRAIN OF

Cyclamen seed, will create the greatest pleasure for the grower, when they make that beautiful show of large well colored, long heavy stemmed flowers, standing erect above such silvery lined foliage as our choice strain will produce and is the only way to avoid disappointments, when they come to bloom.

We have that strain of which I am sure there is no better, and can not be surpassed, at least that is the conviction of our many customers.

Scarcity of such extra good seed, will put price much higher the coming season, for early sowing, purchase now so to have it on hand.

The following colors are now available: Christmas Red, Defiance, dark blood and bright red, dark and light salmon, $2.00 per 100, $18.00 per 1000. Our cultural directions go with all orders, in them you will find a life-time experience. Cash please.

C. Winterich, Cyclamen Specialist, St. Petersburg, The Sunshine City of Florida.

CYCLAMEN

We are pleased to offer the Cyclamen stock to a grower, who has achieved wonderful success in the cultivation of that plant and heartily recommend its purchase to the discriminating florist.

STURDY CYCLAMEN

Do you want strong, stocky Cyclamen plants, out of the ordinary quality, not spindly plants, grown in too high temperature, but sturdy plants, with stamina in them; ready to grow into great big specimen plants, that should carry 20 or 30 or more giant blooms at a time, about Thanksgiving and Christmas.

We have them. You want them. What does it matter if you pay us a few cents more per plant, if you can get a dollar or so more per plant when you sell them next winter. You pay us 35c for a 3-in. pot plant in June and sell the same plant in December for $5.00 and up.

We ship in paper pots and send cultural directions. Salmon King, Salmon Queen, Crimson St. George, Grandiflora Alba, blood red and other varieties, 2¼-in. pot plants, $15.00 per 100, $135.00 per 1000; 3-in. pot plants, $315.00 per 1000. Cash or satisfactory references.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

During the entire week, the market has experienced an active spell. Stock has been arriving in fair supply and the demand has taken it up at good prices. Carnations sold Monday, May 10, at $7 per hundred and continued at this price the whole week. Roses also have found a ready market and are demanding even better prices than they did for Mothers' day.

Lilies have fallen off in supply and the prices have advanced materially. There has also been a fair supply of calendulas, snapdragons and sweet peas. All of these have been bringing good prices. The cheapest sweet peas offered have been $1 per hundred. The best have brought as high as $4 per hundred.

GILT-EDGED INVESTMENTS.

When you have capital to invest, you want to put it where it will be safe and at the same time get results. And the bigger the results are in proportion to your outlay, the better you like it. The Classified ads of The Review work fast, they work hard and they work till they have done the job. Sometimes, even then, they keep on working and give additional returns each year. No wonder they're called gilt-edged. Here's one record of it:

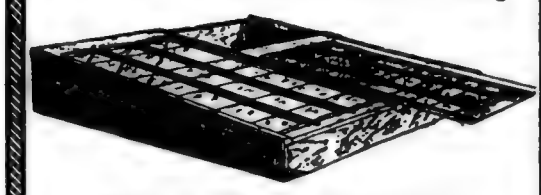
I am enclosing herewith my check for $4.50 to cover your statements. This little amount seems small compared with my returns in sales.

Advertisements in The Review I have always found to be the best gilt-edged investments that money can buy. From a little coleus ad run in the Classified section three or four years ago I have been able to sell out clean each season from repeat orders from that one ad. These orders would total many dollars.—C. E. Majors, Denison, Tex., May 10, 1920.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

ANOTHER SELF-SERVE STAND.

Readers of The Review remember the article on the self-serve stand for flowers used by W. J. Palmer & Son, of Buffalo, N. Y., in the issue of December 18, 1919. The Philadelphia Retail Public Ledger, in its May issue, had the following article about a similar innovation in use in El Paso, Tex.



FLOWERTERIA IN EL PASO.
PROVES POPULAR.

Letting the public make its own choice of flowers and pay for them by dropping coins in a box at the entrance of a pergola inside the store has singled out the Elite Pharmacy for a reputation of doing the unusual thing.

The pergola is situated at one side of the store and has an overgrowth of crimson ramblers with artificial vines, among which are dozens of small tubes filled with water, holding roses and seasonable flowers. At the entrance of the pergola is a card which reads:

"Don't you want a buttonhole or corsage bouquet? Pick a rose or a cluster of them from our luxuriant shrubbery and place 25 cents in the coin box for each flower you take."

Keep Your Eye On Hugo Klotz Of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. Klotz started business on past performances.
He was for several years a private gardener in Plainfield, and made a good many worth-while connections among private estate owners.
As a result, the very day he was ready for business, there was business ready for him.

In addition to the greenhouse end, he is doing a tidy little business in landscape work.
Those who know him best say, "Klotz is the kind of man you can't stop."
He is but one of the many notable instances of a successful gardener making a success at his own greenhouse business.

After we completed the houses, Klotz wrote us a letter which we have a notion you will be interested in reading, so here's what he said:

"I feel it my duty to send you a few lines of thanks for the wonderful work you have done for me. My range of greenhouses which you have just completed, is 100% perfect in every detail. The heating—under the existing conditions, a hard problem to solve—works like a charm. Scores of people have inspected my range, and some very critical eyes, too, but all agreed that it is an ideal arrangement.

"Let us hope we will build soon again, and need we guess who will do the building?"

To which, let us add that we go anywhere for business. Or to talk business.

Memorial Day

The approach of this day arouses thoughts of draped flags, firing squads and an endless profusion of flowers. Flowers for the dead heroes of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Indian Wars, the Mexican, the Spanish-American, and now—the heroes of the World War.

This placing of flowers on the graves of the soldiers, sailors and marines, is a beautiful custom, springing from a beautiful thought.

But ALL those who lie, "each in his narrow bed," have fought a battle—the battle of life, and their graves, too, should be honored with flowers. Not one should go unadorned. And if they won before they quit—more honor to them. And if they lost—why, more pity for them. And so shall we remember our dead.

But what of the living?

The battle and life worn veterans of the Civil War; the graying veterans of the Spanish War; and the maimed veterans we have just welcomed to our homeland. Many of the first are in Soldiers' Homes, or are confined to the limits of their own dooryards—many of the last are even now in hospitals or they are spending weary days in wheel chairs in their own homes. Why not brighten their Memorial Day with flowers?

May we not do our part, each in his own way, to carry these thoughts into actualities?

Range of Heepe Wholesale Plant Co., at Macedonia (near Cleveland), Ohio.

Last Fall we built the above pictured model range of Pot Plant Greenhouses and this year we have been awarded the contract to double up on the range.

All of the material and workmanship is of the very finest and Mr. Heepe feels very proud when showing visitors through this up-to-date range.

The fact that they are satisfied with our work is attested by their giving us this new contract to duplicate their greenhouse range this year.

We can take care of you just as well. Just give us the opportunity.

INDEX TO ADVERTISEMENTS AND TABLE OF CONTENTS--PAGES TWO AND THREE

Greenhouse Builders

Portion of galvanized eave plate with roof bar and clasp. Note how clasp is fastened to plate on each side with a round headed stove bolt; and the bar held firmly by a screw far enough from the end to prevent its splitting the wood. Splits let in moisture, causing end bar rot.

Pointing Out Eave Plate Points on the Pipe Frame House

Eave and flat wrought iron post with U-Drip gutter attached.

The eave plate, drip gutter, wrought iron post and roof bar clasp are exactly the same on our Pipe Frame or Semi-Iron house, as on our finest full iron framers.

You have the same wonderfully light eave, with its same wonderful strength.

You have the same U-Drip Gutter, preventing the drip from dropping on the sill and splashing on your plants and walk.

You can have this drip gutter or not, just as you like.

You have the same sturdy roof bar clasp, securely anchoring the bars to the galvanized angle iron eave plate. It is your sure insurance against end bar rot.

The last light of glass is held from slipping with a lug on the eave plate, exactly as on the full iron frame. With a side construction of such solidness, strength and endurance, your pipe frame sure has a good start.

Then, with the Giant arch to support the roof, you have a house that, next to our full iron frame, we frankly believe can't be beat.

Every detail of it is plainly shown and fully described in the Handy Hand Book.

If you haven't one, send at once for it.

Special eave fitting for Pipe Post and U-Drip Gutter.

This shows the glass stop lug and how it is screwed to the plate, preventing glass slipping.

PEONIES

A large supply all through June

At our farm at Onarga, Ill., and later at our Northern farm, we shall cut a very large crop of "Select" Peonies for your June use—by far the largest crop we ever have had and as fine flowers as ever were grown.

ORDER TODAY from A. L. RANDALL CO., Chicago

We are Peony specialists, and for years Gould's "Selects" have been proof to the florists of the country that our claim, "America's Finest Peonies," is justified. The unusual service that we give you in growing Peonies on 4 farms, from Tennessee to Wisconsin, is rounded out by the marketing service for Gould's "Select" Peonies, offered exclusively through

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Owing to the very great increase in price of all materials used in packing of plants, we find it necessary to make a small charge for same, as follows, much lower than the percentage plan:

Full size cases	$1.50 each
Three-quarter size cases	1.00 each
Small size cases	.50 each

Would suggest taking plants in paper pots whenever possible. It is a big saving in both packing and express charges.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

PRACTICAL POINTS ON PRIMULA GROWING

It is not a difficult task to have a six months' steady crop of primulas in bloom. A few sowings at intervals, mostly from March to June, may be so timed as to produce an unbroken succession of blooming plants from early fall till late spring. Good plants are grown from seed in seven months.

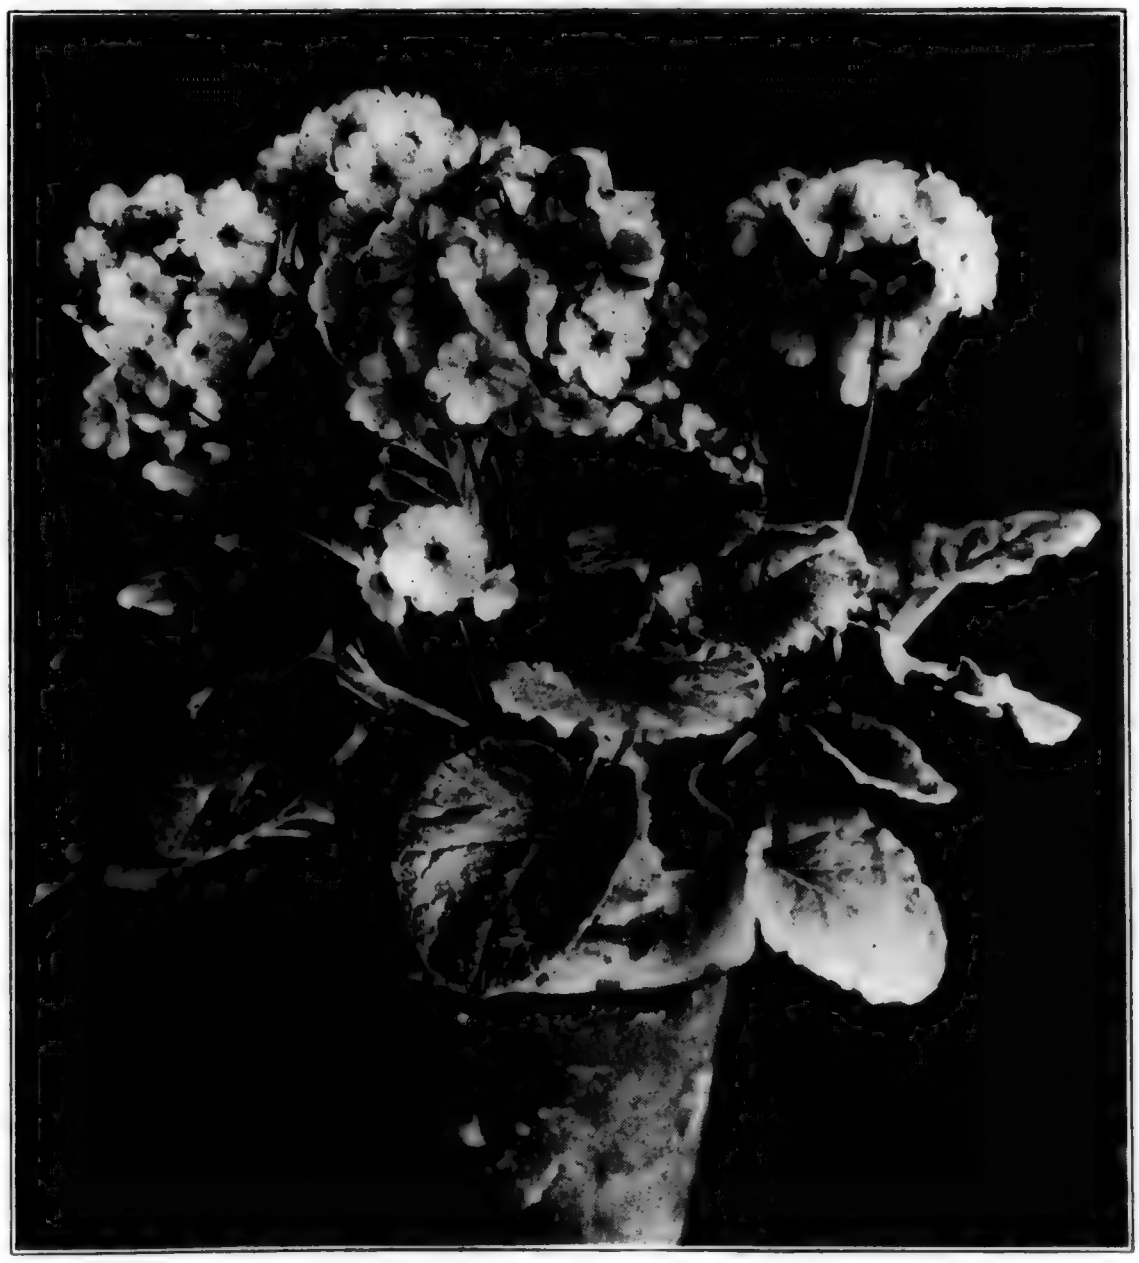
SINCE this is intended to be a brief life-sketch of the primula, from seed pan to specimen plant, why not begin with its name—with the christening? Names are often difficult to account for, but in this case there is not much room for doubt. Both forms of the plant's name, primula and primrose, are derived from the Latin primus, meaning "first," and it is reasonably certain that the word "first" refers to point of time, or earliness of blooming. Indeed, the cowslip, though frequently known as Primula officinalis, seems to be most properly called Primula veris, "first in spring." The common primrose, too, has been designated by some botanists as P. veris var. acaulis. It is true, also, though the christeners of the plant probably did not have this fact in mind, that the primula is near to first place in the affections of many people, especially people who spent much of their youth rambling in fields and groves where the primrose, cowslip and oxlip grew in wild profusion.

Economical Crop.

There are several points in favor of growing the primula, aside from its beauty and popularity. In the first place, it is so nearly pest-free that one experienced grower declares it is less molested by insects than is any other cultivated plant. Moreover, most of the popular commercial varieties come fairly true from seed. Again, the primula is a cool-climate plant and therefore does not make extravagant demands on the coal pile. The primula is economical also in this particular, that it can be grown from the seed to the blooming stage in seven months. Even when exceptionally large plants are wanted, they can still be grown from start to finish in a little less than a year. When the largest specimens possible are desired, for exhibition purposes, the plants may be carried over a second year, but the young plants are generally more productive of blooms.

Securing the Seed.

As the quality of primula plants is peculiarly dependent on the quality of the seed, the necessity of extreme care in securing the seed is manifest. It is true that any grower, by means of correct culture and close attention to selection, can develop a satisfactory strain of seed for his own use. But the person of slight experience in primula growing, or of slight patience in seed selection, will find it to his advantage to purchase his seed from a primula specialist of unquestionable reliability. And it is unwise as well as unjust to begrudge paying a fair price for a good strain, since the saving of the seed is a tedious and skilled process.



The proper compost for the seed pan is decidedly light and porous and is variously described as "light, sandy soil," "light loam and leaf-mold," or, more definitely, as "a mixture of equal parts of leaf-mold and sand." Another formula is: "Two-thirds leaf-mold, one-third loam and a dash of sand." The compost for the surface should be passed through a fine screen. The drainage may consist of a layer of such material as broken crock, overspread by a small quantity of coarse, fibrous loam or a few half-decayed leaves. The soil, after being placed in the pan, is spread evenly and compacted lightly.

Some growers emphasize the necessity of having the pans filled almost completely—filled to not more than an eighth of an inch from the brim, so that there will not be enough of confined atmosphere to cause an attack of the damping-off fungus.

Sowing the Seed.

Although, as already stated, the majority of primula sowings, under ordinary circumstances, are made from March to June, yet some of the sowings may either precede or follow those dates. For instance, to produce first-class, extra large plants for Christmas, the seed may be sown as early as January.

The seed is scattered thinly and uniformly, pressed down gently and covered slightly with finely sifted leaf-mold and sand. Or a little sand alone is sifted over the surface. Only enough covering is needed to conceal the seed from plain view. Then the pans of seed are sprinkled carefully, covered with glass and kept moist and shady. The glass, aiding in the retention of the moisture, reduces the number of necessary waterings. When the seeds are well germinated, the glass is removed. If, before sowing, the seed is soaked in water for a few hours—one grower says twenty-four hours—the germination will be more uniform.

The First Transplantings.

The practice of growers differs considerably with reference to the first one or two transplantings of the seedlings. Some growers leave the seedlings undisturbed for five or six weeks and then transfer them directly from the seed pans to 2-inch pots. After another five or six weeks the little plants are moved to 3-inch pots. One or two more shifts follow, according to the intended size of the flowering pots, which may vary from 4-inch to 6-inch.

Other growers believe that small flats are preferable to pots for the first transplanting, which in this case occurs two or three weeks after sowing, or when the seedlings have developed about three leaves. The tiny plants are spaced about one and one-half inches apart each way in the flats. When the seedlings have developed about five leaves they are moved to 2-inch or 2½-inch pots. From that stage onward, the treatment is similar to that described in the preceding paragraph.

Shifts in Time Save Stunting.

However greatly growers' ideas of repotting may differ in detail, the guiding principle is always the same—to give the plants a shift whenever they need it, never allowing them to become potbound and never checking their development during the period of rapid growth.

In the successive repottings of the primula, special care is needed in regard to the depth of planting. The crown should be even with the soil. Too deep planting will cause decay. Too shallow planting will result in a tendency to wabbling and tipping and may necessitate the use of stakes. The aim should be, without burying the crowns, to pot the plants so they will stand firmly upright. In other words, the base of the plants should rest on the soil, but should not be buried.

The Soil and the Temperature.

The compost for the first transplanting is about the same as for the seed pans. At each successive repotting the soil should be slightly heavier and richer. Decayed cow manure and bone meal are the favorite fertilizers for this purpose. For the final potting, one grower has recommended this as a good compost: Three parts leaf-mold, two parts finely chopped sod, one part sand, one part well rotted cow manure and a liberal sprinkling of bone meal. Another grower uses this as his general formula for primula compost: Two parts loam, one part sifted cow manure and one part leaf-mold.

Thus far nothing has been said about the needed temperature, aside from the general statement that primulas prefer a cool atmosphere. The germination of the seed, however, is improved by a moderately high temperature, perhaps in the neighborhood of 60 degrees or even somewhat higher. A little extra heat may also be beneficial when the seedlings are transferred from the seed pans to the flats. Except in these two brief periods, coolness is one of the prime requisites.

Primula Malacoides Is Perhaps the Most Decorative of Its Family.

Summering in Coldframes.

During the summer—say from the middle of June till the middle of September—the most congenial place for primulas is a coldframe, with the glass shaded and the sashes raised at both back and front. If the frame is under the shade of trees, so much the better. Primulas require an abundance of water in summer, as in all stages of their growth. They may also be syringed or gently sprayed daily, or even twice daily, throughout the summer, but not when in flower. If frames are not available, the plants will thrive well during the summer on a bench in a shaded and airy house.

In mid-September, when the frame-summered plants are returned to the house, they should be gradually accustomed to full sunlight. For the first few weeks after housing, the temperature may be as low as 45 degrees at night and certainly should not be higher than 50 degrees at night. The cool atmosphere promotes a healthy, sturdy growth, with a tendency to produce strong flower spikes. As winter advances, the temperature may be gradually raised, but should not exceed 50 to 60 degrees at night. When the pots are full of roots, weak liquid manure may be applied once a week. The plants should never be crowded.

Bench-grown Primulas.

Though the orthodox, well established method of primula culture is to grow them continuously in pots the whole summer, as thus far described, yet excellent primulas are also produced by growing them in a bench until they are ready for the flowering pots. Indeed, a grower of wide experience states that some of the finest Primula obconica he ever saw were grown in benches in a cool greenhouse and lifted and potted late in October. The plants, he says, exceeded in size and vigor the ordinary pot-grown ones and, as far as compactness and finish were concerned, could not be distinguished, three weeks after potting, from those that had been pot-grown all summer.

Some reader probably is ready to ask, "Which are the best varieties?" Now, this article is not written for the particular benefit of specialists in the growing of primula seeds, but it is advisable here, for the second time, to draw attention to these specialists. In procuring seeds or young plants, the first and most important step—before undertaking the selection of varieties—is to choose an undoubtedly first-class strain, produced by a well known, thoroughly reliable grower or seedsman. Then, when the high quality of the strain has been assured, the selection of separate varieties may be considered.

Favorite Species in Commerce.

Among the most popular of the species now in commerce are P. sinensis, P. obconica, P. kewensis, P. malacoides and P. floribunda. P. Forbesii, the baby primrose, is still sold in considerable quantities, but is less in favor than formerly, being partly superseded by P. malacoides. In spite of any prejudice against obconica on account of its poisonous properties, it sells well—better than sinensis. P. malacoides, though perhaps the most graceful and decorative of the family, is not the most suitable for an early crop. It is not usually seen at its best for Christmas, but is of better quality from the end of January onward and is one of the best types of primula for an early Easter.

In each of the aforementioned species there are varieties so numerous that it would be difficult to recommend a few of them without doing injustice to many others that would be equally worthy of honorable mention. Moreover, some of these varieties, under different methods of culture, have gradually undergone such changes as to assume many distinct individualities. Each variety has passed through a different series of improvements or modifications in the hands of each specialist. So the facts of the case lead logically to a repetition—another and final repetition—of the advice, first be sure to get a good strain.

AMERICAN DAHLIA SOCIETY.

Executive Committee Meets.

A meeting of the executive committee of the American Dahlia Society was held at the Grand hotel, New York, Monday afternoon, May 10, with full attendance.

A prize schedule for the fall flower show was partially prepared, to be completed by the committee and presented at the next meeting, June 14.

More than half of the trade space has already been taken for the dahlia show to be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, September 27 to 29, and many prizes have been contributed. The indications are that the prizes will exceed in number and value those offered at any previous show.

A large number of orders have also been received for trade tickets, which are offered at $25 per hundred. The regular admission charge will be 50 cents.

It was finally decided that only exhibitors occupying trade space would be allowed to do business in the hall during the show and that all competitive exhibits would be together, separate from the trade exhibits, instead of being combined with them, as was originally intended.

The many obstacles which appeared have been overcome and everything now points to this being the largest and most successful show of any single flower ever held.

RELIEF OF COAL SHORTAGE.

Since the appeal of the railroads to the interstate commerce commission, action has been taken to expedite the movement of freight cars in all parts of the country. Special importance has been attached to cars for coal and supplies are therefore moving with more freedom than they were a week ago. The improvement is only gradual and it will be some weeks before the congestion is completely overcome. In the meantime such essential commodities as food and fuel are given every preference. At many points arrival of coal has already shown an encouraging increase and greenhousemen are feeling relieved.

Coöperative committees, representing shippers, railroads and the interstate commerce commission, have been organized at congested points to act in an auxiliary capacity to the railroads and the interstate commerce commission to execute all orders issued by the government to relieve congestion. Regular duties of the committees consist of expediting the unloading of equipment and the taking of other steps to quicken railroad transportation in the movement of commodities subject to the freight jam, existing in most sections of the country. Those cities which will have the benefit of the latest step to reduce congestion are New York, Omaha, Seattle, Baltimore, Chicago, Youngstown, St. Paul and Minneapolis, Norfolk, St. Louis, Boston, Denver, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Peoria, Birmingham, Kansas City, Cleveland, Detroit, Portland, Washington, D. C., New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Louisville, Galveston, Atlanta, San Francisco, Dallas, Toledo and Cincinnati. Growers whose cars of coal are still delayed en route and are much needed may get help from the committee in their center.

The effects of the freight tie-up in addition to previous difficulties which have affected fuel will show markedly in the coming season's supply, in the opinion of coal men. It is stated that movement above normal will be necessary for the next three months to guard against a famine next winter. As a result of the traffic congestion on the railroads, the geological survey's weekly report on coal mining shows the output of soft coal at 8,773,000 net tons, a decrease of 319,000 tons compared with the preceding week. Production was the smallest since the week of April 24. The daily rate of production—1,462,000 tons—was only eighty-three per cent of that during the first quarter of the year and seventy per cent of that in October, 1919.

This season, more than ever, the greenhouse owner should get in his coal early.

Sedalia, Mo.—Wreaths feature conspicuously in the Memorial day special list distributed by the Archias Floral Co. to its customers in the effort to secure early orders.

OPEN LETTERS from READERS

A HINT WORTH HEEDING.

We have been using the Classified ad columns of The Review for several years and the only "kick" we have is that too many times checks are returned. As an S. R. O. sign, The Review is a perfect success for the seller.

We have, however, a great complaint on some shippers. Only yesterday we received a shipment of 1,000 pansies from Chicago. The plants were evidently packed in a pasteboard box and put wet into a gunny sack. When they arrived the box had soaked away and the plants were a solid rotten mass. We believe that the small florists at least should be cautioned about the way they pack their stuff. We seldom receive plants in bad condition from the larger growers, but of course in these times are unable to get anywhere near a complete order filled from one house and have to go to the small grower for many items. We trust that you may see fit to give a few suggestions for better packing in your valued columns, so that your advertisers may profit thereby.

RED SPIDER REMEDY.

Frequently in The Review I read inquiries as to the best method of ridding plants of red spider. Thinking that my experience may help someone else, I should like to say that I have found nothing so effective as Standard insecticide, applied according to the instructions on the can. This is advertised in The Review and is entirely effective; one or two applications were sufficient for the worst case I ever saw. It is also a sure shot for mealy bug and aphis. H. W. S.

PAGING CONRAD WOLFE.

I wonder if you could help locate Conrad Wolfe. He is a gardener and worked for the Deadwood Greenhouse, Deadwood, S. D., ten or fifteen years ago. There is a letter in the Deadwood postoffice for him from his folks in Germany. The postoffice people called my attention to it, as they thought perhaps I would know where he is, but I do not. I expect his folks are anxious to locate him. Andrew Daniels.

ANOTHER DOUBLE SNAPDRAGON.

I read with much interest the account of T. D. Hefko's double pink snapdragon in The Review of May 13. We also have a double snapdragon; ours is yellow and, like Mr. Hefko's, is seedless and will not drop off, but dries up on the stem. While it is not so large a flower as some other sorts, its keeping qualities will make up for size of bloom. It is also quite sturdy and apparently free from disease. So far we have not treated it as a novelty, not having tried to work up a stock of it or to cross it with large-flowered kinds to produce variety, but there seems to be no reason why it cannot be done. If so, a seeding variety might be produced, which would, no doubt, perpetuate the vitality of the stock. A. J. Wagoner.

MOTHERS' DAY IN TOLEDO.

Progressive florists here in Toledo, O., far from harboring any bitter feelings towards Miss Anna Jarvis, founder of Mothers' day, for her pro-button efforts, cannot think of her without a fond smile of satisfaction.

Her endeavor to prevent "flower-gougers," as they were styled in the headline of a Toledo Blade front-page article, from getting in their "dirty work," jarred into dynamic action the members of the trade here who have been passively reaping the reward of the advertising of a few live-wire florists. Growers immediately decided that it would not be good policy to raise prices too much on this day; retailers who never believed in constructive advertising suddenly awoke to its need.

The result was that everybody cooperated in a last-minute curative and educational campaign, in which the button idea was knocked out in the first round. No names were used in this publicity and the commercial idea was relegated to the background. With a little diplomacy, much free publicity was secured which greatly counteracted the original press dispatch. Toledo pounded on the fact that the idea of Mothers' day is to honor and remember mother and that the best way to do it is to "Say It with Flowers." Any flower or plant is appropriate and color has nothing to do with her satisfaction.

While carnations still lead in sales with those florists who still think they are necessary, the trend is gradually changing and in a few years carnations will no longer be official. It can be done. Schramm Bros. handled only sufficient carnations to take care of necessary F. T. D. orders. Yet they did the biggest business of their career in plants, sweet peas, roses and other cut flowers. All florists cleaned out completely and if they will remember the lesson of this Mothers' day they can make this a better flower day than Easter. There is no limit to its possibilities.

However, this is one day when prices, no matter how great the demand, should not increase materially. Let us grow more flowers and plants for this day, sell as many as we have and then close shop. The day must be advertised more each year; otherwise business will soon decrease. A. C. Kneisel.

DUTCH BULBS

BULBS AROUSE BRITISH.

Conference Passes Resolutions.

Representatives of the three trade bodies of Great Britain, the Horticultural Trades' Association, the British Federation of Floriculturists and the Chamber of Horticulture, held a joint conference in London a short time ago to consider the reply of the Dutch bulb men to the statement of the British trade regarding the former's terms and prices. The sentiment seemed to be unanimous that resistance should be made to the present prices and terms of trading of the Hollanders. The following resolutions were carried unanimously:

That this meeting urges all members of the British trade not to make any purchases of Dutch bulbs prior to June 1 at the Dutch Bulb Exporters' Association's present prices and terms.

Nothing in the first resolution, however, shall debar members of the British trade from buying at any time at lower prices than those fixed by the Dutch Bulb Exporters' Association and on terms to be mutually agreed between buyer and seller.

That this meeting strongly advises members of the British trade not to buy on any terms except f. o. b. Rotterdam or Amsterdam, so that responsibility up to the port of shipment rests upon the seller.

That no suggestion of the Dutch Bulb Exporters' Association for including the cost of packing and cases with the freight be entertained under any circumstances whatever.

That this meeting asks that any case where a Dutch trader does not make a reasonable allowance on unsatisfactory bulbs or deliveries should be brought to the notice of the purchaser's association (i. e., the H. T. A., B. F. F. or the Chamber).

That this meeting is of opinion that the British trade press should be open to any bona fide grower or dealer whether a member of the Dutch trade organization or not.

The resolutions were to be communicated to the trade in America and Scandinavia.

Different Views of Prospect.

At the meeting statements were made to the effect that some of the members of the Dutch Bulb Exporters' Association were not living up to their own rules, except in a technical way, involving misrepresentation and subterfuge. Instances were cited. A British grower wanted 1,000 Dutch tulips. Astonished at the price quoted, he told the Hollander that he must reconsider buying them. The reply was that for every 1,000 on the bill, the Hollander would ship 1,500, technically holding his price but actually selling at one-third less. Another Hollander was reported to have said: "I can't do business direct on lower terms, but I will give you the name of some one else and do business through him."

On the other hand, statements are made that the supply of Dutch bulbs this season is such that they will all clear at the prices asked by the association. Since it is admitted that the quantity of tulips to be available for sale cannot yet be ascertained, such statements cannot be held accurate.

The situation is becoming more acute in Great Britain. Some Holland firms advertise themselves in the trade press as not members of the association and others as members of the anti-trust association. Whether the Dutch Bulb Exporters' Association can hold out against the pressure of the British trade is doubted by many.

BARBER'S WAY TO WIN BUYERS

THERE is so much sentiment associated with the buying of flowers on the part of the public that the purely commercial side of the business is sometimes overlooked, neglected or minimized by the dealer in them. Yet the florist who would make money must observe the same laws that govern the selling of any other commodity, such as dry goods, groceries or clothing. The successful retailer must either find new customers or make them.

An instance of this is contained in the career of Albert Barber, owner of the Park Floral Co. stores in Cleveland, Akron, Warren and Youngstown, O., who has been exceedingly successful in his methods of selling flowers. Each year his sales have shown a big increase. This year he has set out for an increase of $100,000.

Out of Debt First Year.

Albert Barber's business history is quite pertinent. It shows what a young man can do when he sets about it in the right way. After a varied experience in a greenhouse and as flower salesman, Mr. Barber decided to go into business for himself. In the spring of 1914 he rented a 15x20 room in the Park building, on the Public Square, at Cleveland, put in a stock of flowers, named the place the Park Flower Shop and opened for business. His big idea was to reach salaried people, as well as others of similar means, and to attract their attention he sold violets for 50 cents a bunch. He figured on developing a large trade by splitting profits with his customers and his plan was a winner. A great deal of his trade was "cash and carry," so that his saving on delivery service was a big item. He was successful from the first, and he attributes his success to price, quality and service.

When Mr. Barber started the Park Flower Shop he did it on borrowed capital. During the first year his sales amounted to $18,000. Out of this amount he repaid the borrowed money and went right on expanding. Following his initial success in Cleveland, he started similar stores in Akron, Warren and Youngstown, and later began handling flowers by wholesale. Early this year he acquired the W. A. Calhoon greenhouses and conservatory, located in a fine residential district on Euclid avenue, Cleveland, and covering land 128x200 feet in area. He plans to make the conservatory one of the show places of Cleveland and the center for a city-wide telegraph delivery service, to the development of which he is giving particular attention.

As a means of developing more flower buyers he has planned an extensive advertising and educational campaign. This has been turned over to a printing and advertising concern, which will prepare the copy, get out the printing, compile the mailing lists and dispatch the mail to prospects in Cleveland, Akron, Warren and Youngstown. Mr. Barber passes all the details over to his advertising manager and keeps himself free to concentrate on direct sales promotion.

Blotters to Bring Buyers.

A carefully selected mailing list is the basis of this campaign. There is one list of 5,000 downtown business and professional people, 5,000 women and 750 out-of-town prospects. Once a month advertising literature will be mailed to the list of business men and to the other lists. A blotter mailed two weeks previous to St. Valentine's day was quite distinctive. It was printed in red and dark blue on pink and bore this reading matter, strikingly displayed:

Remember St. Valentine's day, February 14. Make her happy by expressing thoughtful consideration with a royal violet corsage, or an artistic hamper of fine fruits, both appropriate and in good taste. Phone the Park Floral Co.

This was followed with address and telephone numbers. At the right was a fine engraving of a most appetizing basket of fruit, with the figures "$3 to $10" just above it, and on the left appeared another fine engraving showing a corsage of violets, with the figures "$3 to $10."

The blotter mailed to out-of-town florists in February bore this reading matter:

Don't worry. Wire us for F. T. D. deliveries in Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron and Warren. They will have the same care that you would give them. Park Floral Co.

At the left end there was a neatly engraved picture of a vase of roses. Like the blotter sent to the list of business men, this one was a striking piece of fine printing, up-to-date in every respect.

A different design will be used each month in the blotters and advertising sent to all classes of prospects. The general purpose is to keep the stores of the Park Floral Co. before the prospective customers in a pleasing way, so that when they want flowers for any occasion the Park shop will pop into mind. Advertising matter adapted to the season will be mailed out regularly each month, rain or shine. Since one of the most successful enterprises in the city of Cleveland has been built up by the system of advertising which Mr. Barber has adopted, he is confident that it will be equally successful in enabling him to sell flowers on a larger scale than hitherto.

Flowers at the Right Time.

Speaking of the new flower buyers whom he expects to develop by this process, Mr. Barber says:

"There are many men and women employed in the stores and offices down in the city who will buy flowers in a moderate way if the matter is presented to them at the right time. About all they need is a reminder. Our idea is not so much to develop a love for flowers, for that is universal, as it is to reach the people with an enticing announcement when they are most apt to want or need flowers. Those occasions, as all florists know, are birthdays, weddings, anniversaries, parties, funerals, all sorts of special occasions and over the week-end at home. There are many men who could be trained into sending flowers home each Saturday, if they were handled right. In mailing our advertising matter directly to women we have in mind their own passion for flowers for house decoration and their influence in choosing flowers for various occasions. First-class direct advertising, such as we are using, is merely a systematic process of reminding and impressing several thousand flower lovers who probably would never think of seeking out the Park Floral Co stores. Such people generally buy on the impulse, and when they want a bouquet or a box of flowers they go to the nearest store. We want them to think of us first and to realize that we are able to serve them in any part of the city, at fair prices. We also want florists in other cities to know that we are equipped for quick service in filling all kinds of orders for flowers by telegraph.

Helping the Customers.

"If we can induce people to seek us out for flowers, then we must be careful to turn them into regular customers. Quite often when a customer enters a flower store he does not know exactly what he wants, but he knows he wants flowers. Now, there is a right way and a wrong way to deal with such a prospect. It is a blunder to ask him at the start how much he wants to spend. First of all find out what he wants to do with the flowers. That will guide the salesman in suggesting the kind that would be suitable and after that the price will follow logically. On the other hand, if a man rushes in, throws down some money and orders a box of flowers sent home, then it is up to the salesman to use his best judgment in making up an order which will give satisfaction. The big point is to find out, if possible, the purpose to be served by the flowers, and help the customer to come to a definite decision. He will appreciate such service and feel like coming again."

NEW EXPRESS RULE.

On and after July 1 the American Railway Express Co. will keep a duplicate copy of every receipt it issues when receiving business from shippers. The duplicates will be retained by the express company for the purposes of record and reference and will be held at the shipping office.

Shippers who have been accustomed to prepare their own receipts or who have their own forms have been requested to make provision for supplying duplicates of such receipts to the express driver or receiving clerk who signs them. As a matter of convenience to shippers, the regular receipt forms of the express carrier will be revised to permit their use in duplicate form.

In cases where prepaid receipts are now being issued in duplicate, the extra copy being used as a record of charges paid, a third copy will be required under the new system, and in such instances prepaid receipts will be issued in triplicate.

One of the objects of the new system is to bring about better protection for and methods of recording the movement of express packages in transit.

FAKE INSECTICIDES.

New One Appears.

Nearly every year one or more fake insecticides have been placed on the market and the season of 1920 will certainly be no exception. Numerous fruit growers and dealers in insecticides have received circulars describing a treatment for fruit trees which will do away entirely with spraying and will render them immune from all insects and diseases to which they are subject.

This wonderful remedy is known as the Royal Insect Destroyer. The claim is made that, when from two to six tablespoonfuls of this preparation have been placed in the trunk of a bearing tree, "it will work in the sap like iron in the blood" and will not only "rid the trees of blight and curl-leaf, but will prevent the attack of the San Jose scale, borers, caterpillars and anything else that is the matter with the trees."

R. I. D. Does Not Rid.

Examination of the powder shows that it is composed almost entirely of sulphur and charcoal, with a small amount of a nitrate. It is therefore nearly identical with many of the fake remedies which have been foisted upon fruit growers during the last twenty years. The fact that it will not be taken up by the sap of the trees, as is claimed, can be readily demonstrated if one will attempt to make a solution of sulphur and powdered charcoal. "A liberal amount will be sent prepaid for $1." For this sum several pounds of nitrate of soda could be purchased and, if supplied to the trees through the roots at the rate of one to two pounds per tree for medium-sized trees, it would have a good effect.

Tests of remedies similar to the one described have always shown that they are of no value and persons who use them not only throw their time and money away, but invite the attack of insects and diseases on their trees.

MOBILE, ALA.

The Market.

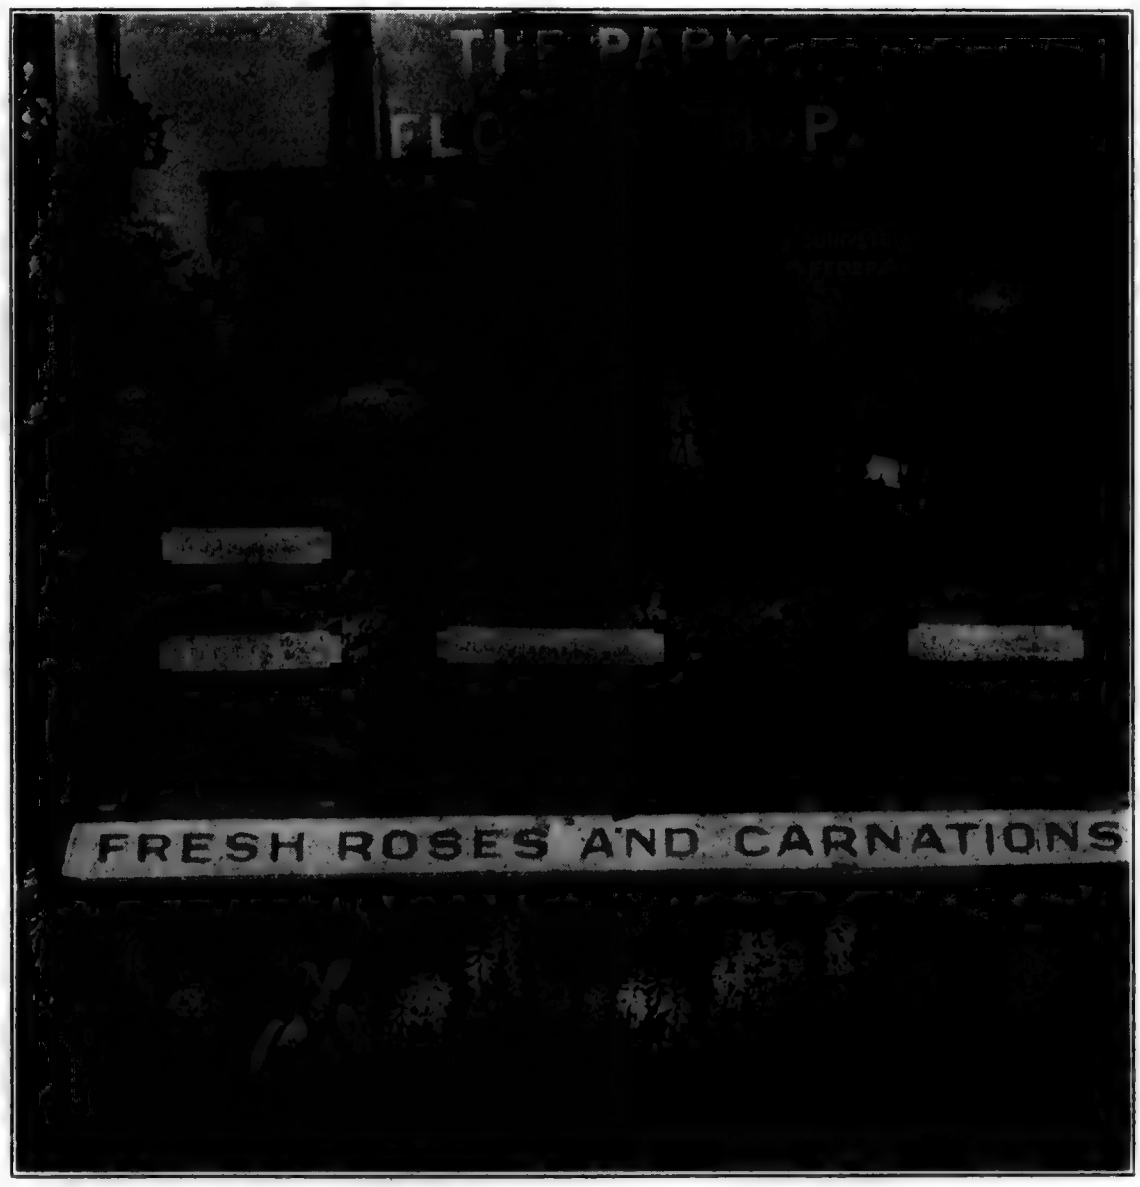
Business is holding up well in Mobile in cut flowers for social affairs and the sick. Funeral work is slow.

The trade here are competing with the sale of outdoor flowers. Sweet peas and Easter lilies are in bloom in the gardens and the florists find it difficult to hold up prices. Lilies can be bought from the yards at as low as 50 cents per dozen and sweet peas for 50 cents per hundred.

Closing Law Held Valid.

The Sunday closing law was held valid by the lower court in this city May 18. The following item appeared in both the evening and morning paper:

"City Recorder D. H. Edington declared valid the city ordinance prohibiting the sale or delivery of flowers or plants on Sunday and, as the result, Fred Ravier, who attacked the ordinance, was fined $25 or twenty-five days in jail. Ravier gave notice of an appeal to the Circuit court and bond was fixed at $150.



"Ravier, through his attorneys, contended that the ordinance discriminated against his business in favor of others allowed by the city statutes to operate on Sundays and for that reason the ordinance was invalid. The city contended that the law was valid and the city had the right to prohibit the sale of certain articles or goods on the Sabbath and that the defendant had violated the law.

"At the conclusion of the testimony and the arguments of the opposing counsels, Recorder Edington decided in favor of the city."

This case makes the third in the courts, all three on appeal in the higher courts, and jury trial is demanded. Also the law is going to be attacked again in the higher courts on the grounds that it is discriminatory.

Various Notes.

J. H. Patterson, of Montgomery, and W. C. Cook, professor of floriculture at Auburn, Ala., were visitors May 18, to a celebration of the Shriners. Mr. Cook has issued a call to all florists in Alabama to meet in Auburn for the purpose of getting together and discussing plans towards the formation of a state florists' society and urges all to attend this meeting. Mobile will be represented at this meeting. H. A. D.

TORONTO, ONT.

Canadian Memorial Day.

Empire day was held last week in the schools. In Toronto, as in other cities and towns, the school children decorated monuments with baskets, wreaths and sprays in abundance. Special attention was given in Toronto to the decoration of the South African monument and those located around the Parliament buildings erected to the memory of Queen Victoria and many statesmen. Earlier in the week collections were taken up for the purpose of purchasing flowers. Some of the florists situated near schools benefited considerably.

May 22 to 24 were recognized by many as memorial days and designs were placed on a great many of the graves in the various cemeteries. It is expected that later on the soldiers will have a memorial day for the purpose of honoring their comrades who have died since returning from the front and are buried here. In Hamilton the soldiers have decided on the last Sunday of August as memorial day and the florists of that city are coöperating with them.

The regular meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Association was held Tuesday evening, May 18, with President Mills in the chair. There was an important discussion on the arrangements being made for floral displays at the Canadian national exhibition, in which P. L. Whytock, Thomas Manton and H. L. Dillemuth took part. An endeavor is being made to make the Horticultural building of greater interest by making the floral displays more attractive.

A paper by F. D. Clark, reviewing the current trade papers, was well received. He summarized the various articles and read a letter from Mr. Peacock giving the history of the development of the orchid and its growing popularity in Canada. He was voted a hearty vote of thanks for his excellent paper.

Various Notes.

Following the Mothers' day trade, many florists find that they now have many regular customers who have learned that flowers may be purchased at a reasonable price. This is one of the excellent after-effects of the coöperative advertising campaign.

Hamilton gardeners and florists are making preparations for what promises to be the largest convention of the C. H. A. in its history. A large delegation will attend from Toronto. Many florists and growers from the United States have signified their intention of being present. The dates are August 10 to 13. J. J. H.

THE DISCOVERY IS MADE.

You know we are all called creatures of habit. Well, we florists seem to have the habit of calling on The Review for everything we want. When we wanted to discover the originator of Mothers' day, we called on The Review and it "discovered" dear Miss Anna Jarvis. Now we want The Review to discover for us the originator of that most wonderful early white chrysanthemum, Betsy Ross, and to find out who has any plants to spare. We always buy just a few of all new mums to try them out; that is why we have only one row on one bench of Betsy Ross. The man or woman who originated that flower should let the trade see what he or she looks like.

This mum is white, blooms about October 10 to 15, has a strong stem and a rigid, strong neck, well clothed up to the flower itself. The foliage is perfect and the plumage! oh, that is where the joy for the true artist comes in. Betsy Ross in a bench of all the other white chrysanthemums looks like a beautiful white swan in a lake of puddle ducks. Where did she come from? Some growers are sending out Liberty Bond as just as good, or the same thing, as Betsy Ross. There is a great difference. It is the true Betsy Ross that we all want. Who has it?

L. M. Smith & Co.

The variety Betsy Ross was introduced in 1918 by another of the great family to which the inquirer belongs, by Elmer D. Smith & Co., and it is listed in that firm's 1920 catalogue. The name, it is said, was supplied by Governor Cox, of Ohio.

USINGER'S UTTERANCES.

After the Memorial day rush, Hembreiker & Cole, of Springfield, Ill., will completely rebuild and redecorate their store on Fifth street. Extensive changes will be made which will add to the attractiveness of their salesroom.

Theodore Bientsch expects to take over the greenhouses of Carl Rauth, in Springfield, Ill., including the Capitol Greenhouses. Mr. Rauth will retire and G. A. Wehrman, who leased the Capitol range, will open a retail store. This will change the floricultural map of Springfield.

The Telephone Florist, Mr. Hennessy, of the North Side Greenhouses, Springfield, Ill., is especially busy these days, since floral designing and plant sales are receiving unusual attention.

The Springfield Floral Co., Springfield, Ill., had two attractive windows recently. This kind of advertising pays the florist his biggest returns. The windows of a retail store are likened to a mirror; they reflect the interior possibilities.

The Janssen Seed & Floral Co., Springfield, Ill., has been busy in all departments. Seed, plant and cut flower sales have been decidedly heavy.

Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill., report an almost complete clean-up in all lines, though there is still some extra fine stock on hand.

Hembreiker Bros., Lincoln, Ill., report record-breaking sales in plants with the opening of the season. Rainy weather had previously held up things.

The Chicago Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill., has recently had a large amount of funeral work. Several handsome specimens of floral designing were to be seen. Mr. Peterson has been exhibiting some especially fine Superb carnations.

The Joliet Floral Co., Joliet, Ill., is expecting a particularly heavy business for Memorial day.

Clarence Sterling, of Joliet, Ill., will move his retail store to the vicinity of his greenhouses. The business has outgrown the present quarters and larger accommodations have been found near his range.

Labo, Florist, of Joliet, Ill., has his range in fine shape to take care of a large plant demand. The recent fine weather has started things moving. Funeral designing has been heavy.

W. T. U.

DO YOU KNOW THEM?

Maybe you've had the pleasure of meeting Stephen D. Green, Howard S. Royer or Robert T. Collum in the flesh. Here you see them as pictured by a brother salesman, for Artist Magee is another member of the staff of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., making trips out of Philadelphia. From his pen-and-ink work you should know them when you meet them, if you don't already.

MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL.

The Market.

Bright, warm days have brought outdoor flowers and foliage out remarkably fast. Lilac, some varieties of spiræa, honeysuckle, etc., will be at their best for Memorial day. The market in bedding plants is good and they will increase rapidly until Memorial day. Several wind storms visited parts of Minnesota May 22, but did no damage near the Twin Cities.

There appears to be a good supply of cut flowers for Memorial day and, with good weather, there should be a satisfactory amount of business done.

Various Notes.

P. L. McKee, of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., was a visitor between trains May 20.

All nurseries report a heavy trade in all lines, especially ornamental plants.

The Minneapolis Florists' Club is to hold a picnic at Hans Rosacker's place June 21.

A large number of the trade expect to exhibit at the iris show to be staged in the Northwestern bank building, Minneapolis, June 10 and 11.

The premium list for the summer meeting and flower show of the Minnesota State Horticultural Society has been issued. It is expected that this will be the largest peony show held in the middle west.

The Minnesota State Florists' Association held its last regular meeting until the fall at the Minneapolis park board greenhouses recently. A discussion of the marketing of plants and flowers by public institutions was held. Steps are to be taken to stop this if possible. Plans are being made for some trips for this summer. L. C.

E. W. Reid, vice-president of Holm & Olson, Inc., died Wednesday morning, May 26, after a week's illness.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

Rose Garden Days.

The rose garden days planned this year by the American Rose Society promise to bring rosarians of the different sections of the United States together for "feasts of beauty." The Washington, D. C., rose test garden day will be the first of the season. Wednesday, June 2, the society will hold a session in Washington, visiting the rose test garden and Mrs. Bell's garden at Twin Oaks. The site of a national rose show garden on the banks of the Potomac will be dedicated in the afternoon. The business session of the society will follow a luncheon, probably at the Ebbit House, about 1:30 p. m. It is hoped that there may be a large attendance of members at this meeting. The executive committee will hold a business session at the Ebbit House June 1 at 7:30 p. m.

Other rose garden days are scheduled as follows: Elizabeth park, Hartford, Conn., June 24; Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., June 24; Portland, Ore., June 25, and Minneapolis, Minn., July 3. The local committees of the rose test gardens are arranging the programs for each of these days and the members of the American Rose Society in the vicinity of each should attend.

New Handbook Ready.

The members' handbook of the society for 1920 is just being mailed from the secretary's office. Besides the alphabetical list of members, it contains a geographical list, so that members may know of "kindred minds" in their vicinity. The activities of the society during 1919 are also recorded in the handbook, as are the rules and regulations governing exhibitions of roses and the purposes for which the society's medals are awarded.

A committee which promises to be of much service to the members of the society has recently been appointed by President Pyle. This is a committee of consulting and advising rosarians and is composed of the following: Dr. W. Van Fleet, Washington, D. C.; Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa.; A. W. Greeley, Williamsport, Pa.; John Dunbar, Rochester, N. Y.; W. C. Egan, Highland Park, Ill.; Theodore Wirth, Minneapolis, Minn.; S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. Horace McFarland, Harrisburg, Pa.; Professor E. A. White, Ithaca, N. Y.; Jesse A. Currey, Portland, Ore.; George H. Peterson, Fairlawn, N. J.; Fred M. Howard, Los Angeles, Cal.; John Cook, Baltimore, Md., and Alexander Cumming, Cromwell, Conn. Diseases—Dr. L. M. Massey, Ithaca, N. Y. Insects—C. R. Crosby, Ithaca, N. Y.; C. A. Weigel, Washington, D. C., and Professor G. J. Sanders, Harrisburg, Pa. These rosarians have agreed as a service of rose love to reply to courteous inquiries when such inquiries are accompanied by a self-addressed and stamped envelope and when the inquirer definitely states that he or she is a paid-up member of the American Rose Society.

MEN OF NEW IDEAS.

Introduction of new ideas into the business world is as useful a service as one can perform and the application in one's own field of those ideas which have proved strikingly successful in other lines is equally valuable. At the present time plastic glazing compounds are so generally in use throughout the greenhouse trade that one must stop to realize that the years are not many since they first took the place of putty. The introduction of that form of glazing material has meant much to the trade. It is said that L. M. Green, president of the recently formed Durable Products Co., Cleveland, was among the first to realize the possibility of such introduction. He has, at any rate, done much, in his association with other firms which supplied this form of cement to the trade, to promote its wide use by greenhousemen.

It is characteristic that with him should be another man of ideas, Henry Dunker, who is vice-president and general manager. As promoter of the distribution of glazing cement, Mr. Dunker has made himself well known to the trade. As a salesman by mail he has developed an idea, that of getting away from stereotyped sentences and paragraphs in his letters. Instead he writes as he would talk, sizing up his prospective reader as the salesman does the buyer in person. Some people say Mr. Dunker's letters are unique. That means his idea has given him the power to impress himself upon others. By the outspreading ripples caused by such men as these the rest of us in the business swim are affected.

When Greek meets Greek, it is said, they start a restaurant. When plastic man meets plastic man, and they are both men of ideas, they start making glazing compounds. This new firm, under the title of the Durable Products Co., is the manufacturer of roofing materials, paints, enamels, varnishes and allied products and, banking upon the experience of the leaders, it is going to conduct an advisory service that, in its own words, is "anybody's for the asking."

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

"Bravo!" exclaimed W. W. Hannell, of Watervliet, N. Y., when acquainted with the fact that another male member was added to his household. "Two feet nearer a possible solution of the labor problem and, with two vigorous grown-ups, prospects for a continuance of our business look good." Mothers' day was a second Easter for volume and Memorial day will no doubt absorb the fine stock of hydrangeas. Among futures cyclamens and roses are conspicuous. It was noted that Ophelia does much better when grafted. Own-root plants form club roots.

• • • •

Fred Goldring, of Slingerlands, N. Y., opines that many growers will return to first principles; in other words, grow more variety and dwell less on one thing. His experience in both lines convinces him that it tends to equalize supply. Though it may require more skill, it brings larger returns and more dependable ones. Retail business still increases and a fine general stock is in evidence.

• • • •

Fred A. Danker, of Albany, N. Y., is a booster of personal service. He was found putting the finishing touch to a choice floral piece. At the same time two telephones needed his personal attention, while the bookkeeper held a pen ready for signing a check. "It is nice to feel one is of such importance," observed Mr. Danker, "though somewhat strenuous at times, particularly at what has been our busiest season."

• • • •

Wm. C. Gloeckner, Albany, N. Y., expects to occupy the new store at an early date. Constant visits are made, looking to having everything up to the minute, for it is a long time since a new flower store was seen in the capital city.

• • • •

Henry Schrade, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., has decided to postpone the building of more glass until things moderate and expresses the opinion that closer attention will be paid to intensive production, so to speak, under glass than ever before and with profitable results.

• • • •

Harry Bensel, of the John Schafer estate, Ballston Spa, N. Y., observed that for scarcity of stock and abundance of orders, this season surpasses anything he can remember. The range is being thoroughly overhauled, a good summer's job.

• • • •

J. G. Barrett, Troy, N. Y., observed that there seems to be no let-up in funeral work; if anything, it is on the increase. There is wider scope allowed the designer and, consequently, more satisfaction to all parties.

• • • •

Sambrook Bros., Troy, N. Y., report a busy season. George Sambrook is much pleased with information received of the institution of a fellowship in a French university in honor of Walter Sambrook, who first served under French colors and later died while in the service of his own country.

• • • •

E. V. B. Felthousen, of Schenectady, N. Y., is convinced that nothing short of $4.50 per dozen for geraniums in 4-inch pots will compensate the grower this season and predicts a scarcity before planting time is over. W. M.

• • • •

"Just what was needed," observed W. H. Showers, Schenectady, N. Y., referring to a warm rain. Memorial day sales are fully up to expectations.

• • • •

Julius Eger, Schenectady, made a fine showing in natural and artificial stock and is also pleased with results.

• • • •

The Rosendale Flower Shop, Schenectady, N. Y., reported telegraph orders, regarding the future. A large number of orders for Memorial day was noted.

• • • •

J. O. Graham, Inc., Little Falls, N. Y., is keeping up along the lines laid down by the founder. Good business is reported and excellent stock noted.

• • • •

A. J. Binley, Glens Falls, N. Y., has had a big run on his box expander and may have to enlarge his factory to meet the demand. The new store proved to be a good investment and means building more glass to meet the increasing demand.

• • • •

Henry Crandall, Glens Falls, N. Y., says that prospects for summer planting at Lake George exceed anything on record and he predicts a shortage of stock long before planting time is over and advises his patrons to place their orders early.

• • • •

J. C. Hatcher, Amsterdam, N. Y., is making a good showing for Memorial day at the two stores, supplied chiefly from the big range at Hoffmans, N. Y.

combined with the home demand, make the prospect for business for Memorial day beyond the average.

• • • •

The Mohawk Greenhouses, Schenectady, are also well prepared to handle the heavy Memorial day business that falls to their lot. Manager Matthews has helped put the Electric City on the map as a flower buying center.

• • • •

Alfred Goldring, Cobleskill, N. Y., said: "We emerged from the avalanche of winter snow into the spring sunshine with a sturdy will and, with the present outlook, shall be able to put all our purposes into practice."

• • • •

Joseph Traudt, Canajoharie, N. Y., has the usual high grade of stock found at his snug range and is full of optimism stock for Memorial day. His own range is in fine shape.

• • • •

Frank Hotaling, Amsterdam, was reported as resting from a serious operation. He expects to be in good shape to handle the Memorial day business.

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

Florists located near cemeteries are busy this week decorating graves preparatory to Memorial day. Pansies are in their prime and potted geraniums are arriving in large quantities. Indications are that Memorial day business will be good this year. Flowers will probably be somewhat higher than they have been for the last two or three weeks, when they were more moderate in price than they had been for a good while. Good roses are now selling at from $2 to $3 per dozen.

Various Notes.

Fred Philips, of Philips Bros., Broad street, has been laid up several days with carbuncles. He first had one on the left side of his lower jaw and then another on the back of his neck.

Push-cart florists are becoming more numerous each week. More of them are seen on the streets of Newark now than ever before. While they sell a cheap grade of flowers, they spoil considerable cut flower business for the regular trade. R. B. M.

UP-TO-DATE INTERIORS.

Necessary For Retailers.

Flower stores have been called "bowers of loveliness," "paradises of flower-lovers," by the newspapers. Some are; others are not.

First impressions last the longest. It is the initial influence which adds new customers to florists. When a customer enters the store, is the impression he receives one that is pleasing? Does the interior of the establishment incite words of admiration?

One of the main selling factors—in fact, some tradesmen say the main factor—is the interior setting. The surroundings should invite a feeling of ease, should be pleasing to the eye, and, most of all, should stimulate the desire to purchase, which is the object of all displays.

There should be that up-to-dateness about the place, showing in a silent manner that the proprietor is progressive, in other words, that he is live. Every big florist's establishment has been built up through progressiveness.

When the customer comes in he should be so affected by the display that he will truly say that flowers are nature's most wonderful product. He cannot but "Say It with Flowers." The color scheme can be designed to show off the stock to advantage and enable customers to make selections with a minimum of difficulty. The proper setting for the refrigerators, plants, wrapping department, cashier, etc., should all harmonize to please the eye.

Business Is Business.

In these days of strenuous competition, the business end of the florists' trade must be elevated to as high a plane as possible, but still be business—to create a love for flowers in the public, to educate it in the many varieties and to make it appreciate them, and, because you are making a livelihood with them, sell them to it.

The first attraction to a customer necessarily is the store front, with its display. Window displays have been discussed time and time again in these columns as the first necessity, but if the interior does not continue, or increase the good impression which was started on the outside, the combination will not spell success.

These remarks apply to the florists in the small communities as well as to those in the cities. That they are applicable is indicated by the accompanying illustrations of the establishment of E. R. Tauch, at Marquette, Mich., who fourteen years ago was situated in a small frame building, but who recently, recognizing the signs of the times, put up the large building shown. The interior views of the store show that he finds suitable those commodious provisions for customers' comfort that at one time were only seen in the big city stores.

The business of Mr. Tauch, built upon the principle of never disappointing a customer, by carrying a large stock at all times and fair and square dealing, has had a steady growth and now Mr. Tauch has one of the most up-to-date flower stores in the upper peninsula of Michigan. Besides cut flowers and plants, he deals in nursery stock and seeds. He has 18,000 feet of glass.

Proper Arrangement in a Flower Store Aids Attendance on Customers.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Business last week was satisfactory and the good weather has brought on a lot of stock. Weather conditions are more settled and a good amount of sunshine is seen each day. The greenhouse men are heavily rushed with spring orders for bedding stock and much difficulty is found in obtaining experienced men to do outside planting. The spring weather coming so late has made the demands at this time much heavier than usual. Prices on bedding stock, which is of excellent quality, have increased considerably, but it is selling well.

The supply of cut flowers meets all demands. Heavy supplies of roses are arriving daily; they sell well. In the smaller roses Baby Doll and Cecile Brunner are good sellers, the former being in big demand.

Carnations are arriving in heavy supply and are of good quality. Sweet peas are also in abundance and meet all demands; prices range from $1 to $2 per hundred. Outdoor narcissi and daffodils are plentiful and sell well. There is a good supply of valley, but the outdoor-grown valley sells more readily. Mignonette, calendulas, daisies, tulips and pansies are plentiful. Myosotis is in good demand. Large quantities of cut and potted Easter lilies are on the market and the supply will be large for Memorial day. Hydrangeas, Canterbury bells and rambler roses are selling nicely as potted plants.

Various Notes.

A large mound of Easter lilies, around which were grouped Boston ferns, etc., with beautiful pots of calceolarias, was seen in the window of George T. Boucher last week. It made a decidedly pretty effect. This store is moving a large quantity of bedding stock this season, with an apparently heavier demand than formerly.

Among the visitors last week were Morris M. Cohen, of Cohen & Hiller, New York; S. W. Morgan, of Le Roy, N. Y., and the representative of Schloss Bros., New York; also Mr. Brown, of Utica, N. Y.

The Rochester Rose Society held its monthly meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Friday evening, May 21. The speaker of the evening was George E. McClure, landscape architect, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose subject was "The Placement of Roses as a Decorative Feature in the Gardens." A. L. Shepard, who is the energetic secretary, gives encouraging reports of the society, with a steady increase of members. The society is planning for a display during the summer season.

The seed stores of the city are crowded with a steady stream of customers all through the day. Hart & Vick report excellent business. James Vick's Sons, who are doing extensive interior and exterior street-car advertising, state they have never been busier. The Maurer-Haap Co., which has large shrubbery storages, is doing excellent business.

Charles W. Curtis, of Irondequoit, N. Y., is growing some wonderful varieties of orchids, which sell readily. They are large and have remarkable colorings.

New Store of E R. Tauch, for Fourteen Years at Marquette, Mich.

Helena, Mont.—Saturday, May 8, was celebrated as Golden Glow day in this city. The Commercial Club distributed 4,000 bulbs of Rudbeckia Golden Glow, procured from the State Nursery Co., selling them at the price of 50 cents for three or $1 for seven. The use of the city's official flower is being stimulated by the offer of prizes for the best kept yards which contain beds of Golden Glow.

Reading, Pa.—An estate valued at $25,000 was left by John H. Giles, whose death during the week of April 18 was recorded in The Review's obituary column April 29. Cornelia S. H. Giles, his widow, was named in the will as executrix. The estate consists of $4,500 in personal property and $20,500 in real estate, including a house, 227 South Seventeenth street; lots at Seventeenth and Haak streets, and greenhouses. The entire estate is left to the widow.

IS it reasonable to expect the best stock when one seeks the lowest price?

EVERY florist should urge his customers to maintain, or even enlarge, their war gardens.

PLANT propagators have every inducement to keep busy. The prospective supply is low, yet the demand was never greater.

THERE is every reason to believe that the Cleveland convention of the S. A. F., in August, will break all records for attendance.

THE greenhouse owner who sells now may realize the utmost on his property, but he loses the opportunity to make better profits than he ever has before.

SOME changes are proposed in freight rates and rulings that will affect all who use that mode of shipment. They are briefly summarized in the Seed Trade Department this week.

THOUGH the United States and Germany are still at war and American troops are on the Rhine, Albert Pochelon, secretary of the F. T. D., has sent out a letter soliciting funds for the aid of German and Austrian florists.

THE surest way to get something for yourself is to do something for others. If you stop to analyze any successful business, whether it be a greenhouse, a flower store or a newspaper, you will find that it has been built on that principle; by serving well it prospers.

THOUGH wages are thought to have reached their peak generally, they will not decline until immigration becomes much larger. While the country's industries have been expanding more rapidly than ever before, the accession of new labor from abroad has reached its lowest mark.

WITH the bankers busy reducing loans to nonessential industries, what chance will a florist have to borrow money this summer? It is plain that there will be difficulty in getting present loans renewed and small chance of any increase in accommodation. Consequently, the thing to do is to be prompt and diligent in attention to collections, to the end that bills may be paid and a surplus created before the vacation season arrives.

NOTHING is gained by calling the other fellow names. Let's all solve our problems together.

THERE is every indication of an impending change in underlying business conditions. How well are you prepared for it?

IS your business potbound? If it is, shift to a larger size by getting increased facilities and some competent assistants. With trained help unprocurable, call in a good man from some other line and make it worth his while to learn.

IT is noteworthy that Bradstreet's weekly report of business failures shows indications of an increase in their number after a long and steady decline. Now is the time for florists to clean up the old accounts on their books. Collections will not become easier.

THE trade has never approached the quiet summer time in such good financial condition as now. With but few exceptions, the trade has taken full advantage of the opportunity this season has offered to make collections and pay bills. Not in years has the trade approached summer with so few liabilities.

THERE is little probability of overproduction in this trade for some time to come. Between the scarcity and cost of labor and the high price of coal, the growers' lot is not likely to be a happy one and it is conceivable that there will be a reduction instead of an increase in producing area in the next year.

A STRONG OPINION.

The opinion is strong that such difficulties as various industries labor under at present, or seem threatened with, are purely temporary and cannot result in any general industrial depression, for the shortage of commodities of all kinds as a result of the war insures a strong demand for a long time to come and the scarcity of labor in this country will keep up wages and prevent possibility of a bread line. A few sentences that sum up this view are those in a statement of a leading business house:

"Man has a great many troubles, but most of them never happened. The coming year is going to be the most prosperous you have ever had. It is going to be the most prosperous we have ever had.

"We make these statements in spite of calamity howlers, overall brigades, panic pessimists and election year bogymen.

"To be sure, prices seem high and there is a shortage of production. But nothing will happen. That is, nothing will happen to us individually unless we all get frightened collectively."

HIGHER EXPRESS RATES.

Added to the increased cost of other items in the florists' business next season will probably be higher express rates. A hearing on the appeal of the express companies for an increase in rates was started last week in New York before the interstate commerce commission. The increase which is sought is understood to be something like twenty-five per cent.

Express officials pointed out that they are likely to face increased demands from their employees. They likewise emphasize the fact that their business was conducted at a deficit of approximately $24,000,000 last year. The twenty-five per cent increase in rates which is sought will, it is believed, add something like $75,000,000 to the companies' receipts. Half of this, however, has to go to the railroads, so the net gain will not be what is called sufficient. New contracts will be signed between the express companies and the railroads September 1.

THE WRONG WORD.

"Do you think we're going to have a panic?"

"Don't talk panic."

"Why not? If we're going to have one, we might as well face the fact. It will make considerable difference to the florists' business if we do."

"But don't talk panic. I don't like that word. Listen to this. I'll read it to you from this paper:

A panic is purely a psychological phenomenon—an attack of nerves in which men lose confidence and get fright-stricken.

A crisis is a different thing. It is a period of business reaction, a period of rest, a debt-paying period in which business recovers from the excesses of overexpansion. During crisis periods—usually two or three years—people live simply, save and accumulate capital.

We are now in a period of tight money, rash speculation, high wages, high prices and high living. This condition will probably continue for two or three years yet before the real crisis or adjustment period comes. During this intensive period prices will remain high because industrial capital is scarce, wages high and the supply of raw materials limited. At the end of this period, when the present volume of buying energy is exhausted and the basic elements for increased production are forthcoming, prices will then begin to recede and business will pass into a period of reaction, rest and recuperation, during which economic energy is generated for the next period of industrial expansion. If men act calmly, even these settlement periods can be passed through without a sharp crisis.

Although we are now passing through a severe credit strain, there are still several months, probably years, of intensive business activity ahead of us. During that time prices may break sharply at times, but they will not come down and stay down. The average annual price level will remain high and recede but slowly—very slowly—for some years ahead of us. Increased production is the only natural and permanent cure for high prices. Artificial pressure may give temporary relief, but since it frightens producers into curtailment of output, it does more harm than good in the long run. Fundamental conditions at present strongly resist increased production and lower prices.

Everyone should think clearly and act sanely now.

"Whether you believe the prediction or not, the advice is good. Call it a crisis if you will, but don't talk panic."

BEWARE THE FLOOD.

Every seller wants orders. But he doesn't want too many orders. If they flood in too fast, he'll soon be "at sea"—may be swamped by them, even drowned in them. For it takes time to send back money orders and checks to the would-be buyers who were too late in answering an ad in The Review's Classified department. It takes time that ought to be put into further production of stock. And it hurts one's feelings—sending back money, just because you have no stock left to sell. But when you advertise in The Review that is a risk you take. As this one did:

Please discontinue pansy Classified ad. Have to have a special secretary to handle all the orders that are pouring in on me and then to return the money to its senders.—H. J. Potomkin, Muncie, Ind., May 20, 1920.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

OBITUARY

Patrick O'Mara.

Patrick O'Mara, general manager of Peter Henderson & Co., New York, died at his home Tuesday night, May 25.

Mr. O'Mara was born in Ireland in 1858 and came to Jersey City, N. J., with his parents in 1867. He worked for Peter Henderson for two weeks in 1868 and in the greenhouses during the spring seasons of 1869 and 1870. He was again working for Mr. Henderson in September, 1871, and continued his connection with the firm of Peter Henderson & Co. from that time until his death, rising eventually to be the executive head of the company. One of the first bits of experience in that steady progress of over half a century was a period of two years as day fireman for twenty-one boilers. He was in charge of the greenhouses at Jersey City until the firm moved its range from there.

Patrick O'Mara was widely known and exceedingly popular in the trade. He was a member of the S. A. F. executive committee in 1893 and became president of the S. A. F. in 1901. He was president of the New York Florists' Club in 1894 and 1900.

Charles Schoenhut.

Charles Schoenhut, one of the oldest members of the trade in Buffalo, N. Y., died suddenly May 19. He was one of the most progressive florists and did a great deal for the advancement of the trade in Buffalo. He was an advocate of one price at the different stores all over the city. He was a member of many clubs and societies, some of which were the Masons, Elks, Eagles, Odd Fellows, Humboldt Club, Boreal Club and the Buffalo Florists' Club. He is survived by his wife and his mother. The funeral was held Saturday, May 22.

William H. Jones.

William H. Jones died Tuesday morning, May 11, at the family home, 355 Eighth street, Lorain, O. He had been in ill health for several years.

Mr. Jones was born in Southampton, England, October 24, 1861, and came to this country with his parents when he was 2 years old. He had been in business in Lorain for a number of years.

He is survived by his wife; three children, Aurel, William, Jr., and A. W. Jones; several sisters, and one brother.

Paul Richmond.

Paul Richmond, the only son of J. W. Richmond, of Sullivan, Ind., formerly of Terre Haute, Ind., died May 7 in the county hospital, after being run down by an automobile while riding his bicycle. He was 10 years of age. His skull was fractured and an operation was performed in a vain attempt to save his life. The funeral was held Sunday, May 9, at the Presbyterian church. The florists of Terre Haute contributed a beautiful offering.

Mrs. Rosa Meinhardt.

Mrs. Rosa Meinhardt, mother of Fred H. Meinhardt, St. Louis, Mo., and widow of J. F. Henry Meinhardt, who was once a member of the trade in that city, died May 18. The funeral took place at the home, 4738 Florissant avenue, Thursday, May 20, with many friends in the trade attending. J. J. B.

E. W. Reid.

E. W. Reid, vice-president of Holm & Olson, Inc., St. Paul, Minn., died Wednesday morning, May 26, after a week's illness.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Potted and bedding plants are the active features of the local market just at present, the demand for the former being greatly accelerated by the approach of Memorial day. Prices are higher than usual for plants, geraniums especially being high. Funeral work continues to keep the supply of cut flowers short, the continued dark, cloudy weather making the supply below normal.

In designs for Memorial day the artificial wreaths, crosses, flat bouquets, etc., of magnolia leaves and waxed flowers exceed anything ever seen here. They have appeared by the hundreds in every department store, many groceries, variety stores, etc., while the flower store windows are massed with them, ranging from $1 to $6.

Various Notes.

Miss Anna O'Connor, secretary for Johnston Bros., will leave about the middle of July for a vacation trip to England and France.

M. B. Saunders has a big run of outdoor work. His entire stock of potted plants for bedding purposes was quickly bought up.

George S. Smith, gardener at the country place of Henry D. Sharpe, at Nayatt Point, for many years, died last week after an illness of several weeks. He was born in England seventy-six years ago and had lived at Nayatt for thirty-five years.

E. Brooke, of T. J. Johnston & Co., reports the biggest month's business he ever had at this time of the year.

William A. Bowers has taken a ten years' lease of his store at 134 Washington street.

J. E. Koppelman has announced his removal to his new place, on Custom House street, after June 1.

Henry Patry has entered the employ of Reubin Popkins, 25 Washington street.

John Johnston, of Johnston Bros., was a business visitor in Boston last week.

Harry Lauderman has been increasing the size of the flower department at S. Kresge's, on Westminster street.

Lucien O'Connor has been receiving congratulations on the advent of a daughter.

Edward D. Miller has opened a branch store at 200 Washington street for Memorial day.

James Hacking, of Central Falls, who has been confined to his house for several weeks, is able to be out again.

The Lowell Avenue Greenhouses have a branch store at the corner of Westminster and Aborn streets.

Charles Hunt is repairing his greenhouses, on Burnside street, and will operate them next season.

Macnair's enlarged store, corner of Broad and Chestnut streets, is one of the finest in the city.

E. R. Seymour, at Warren, is preparing to start up his houses again this season, after their having been idle for two years. W. H. M.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The unexpected happened again last week. The market had been so stiff that it seemed improbable that there would be any weakening before Memorial day, but the long delayed warm weather which arrived early last week had the effect of crowding the market with stock. While demand continued extremely large, it was inevitable that prices should fall. There seldom has been a week when more stock has been sold; the market did a wonderful business, but the money value of the sales was below recent standards.

The rose afforded the principal problem. While there were increased supplies of carnations, roses came in most heavily and it was in this department the principal recession in prices occurred. It was a buyers' market for the first time in many weeks, and full advantage was taken of the opportunity. Of course the heat resulted in many of the roses being open and soft, so that increased effort was necessary to get out shipping orders, but the quality of most of the roses is excellent. Those who have poor roses now stand small chance in the well supplied market.

Next to roses, sweet peas are in largest supply. Of these there have been more than the trade can consume, and low grades are going to waste. It is safe to say the Chicago market never saw anything to compare with the quantity of peas now being handled.

The present week opened with excellent demand, all things considered, but a large part of the energies of everyone

The Chicago Flower Growers Association,

Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

I wish to express my appreciation for the wonderful quality of the stock which you sent me for Mothers' Day.

The business this year surpassed that of any previous year since I have been in the store. I attribute this to the excellent stock that I had to offer to my customers.

Over six hundred deliveries were made and I had only one complaint; in fact, I was constantly receiving calls complimenting the beautiful flowers that were received.

I consider this a credit to your business, as it is to mine, and trusting that our business relations will be as pleasant in the future as they have been in the past, I am,

Yours respectfully
R. WILLIAMS.

This is only ONE of MANY letters we have received recently complimenting our stock and service in the market were being centered on preparations for Memorial day. The present prospect is that the supply of stock will be more nearly adequate than was thought possible before the heat wave came. A return to cooler conditions was regarded as a lifesaver and everyone hopes that we shall have cool weather for the balance of the week.

It is doubtful if this market ever had so many advance orders on hand at any one time as was the case May 24. Not only were the orders exceptionally numerous, but they were of great size. The orders afforded assurance of an enormous week's business, in volume though not in value probably the greatest in the history of the market.

The chief uncertainty is as to peonies. May 24 there was a smaller quantity in cold storage than has been the case at this date in many years. Numerous growers whose crop ordinarily has been cut and put away in the freezer by May 24 this year had not cut a flower at that date. If their crops make Memorial day the flowers will be shipped direct from the fields. In many cases wholesalers have arranged that shipments be made from the growers, the stock not to come to Chicago at all, an arrangement impossible in a normal season. Evansville, one of the chief sources of supply, did not begin shipping in quantity this year until May 20. Carbondale has just begun. Alton and Onarga are not yet ready. It looks as though the peony supply will be short this Memorial day, with a deluge hitting the market about a week or ten days late. There is, however, a distinct disinclination on the part of the buyers to pay high prices for anything except the best flowers. While it is possible to charge $15 per hundred for select, long-stemmed, heavy bunches, it is impossible to get $8 per hundred for short, light Drop White.

There is every indication that roses will meet all requirements and that carnation orders, though heavy, will be fairly well filled. It will be a marvel if the demand consumes all the sweet peas that are offered.

The bulk of the shipping will be done on Friday and Saturday. A good many buyers who ordered shipments for Thursday and Friday have postponed them for twenty-four hours after studying the calendar and learning of preparations for local observances on Monday. The express company has not as yet made any announcement with regard to service, but the Wholesale Cut Flower Association hopes to obtain all-day service for at least three days, as was done at Mothers' day. Practically all the wholesale houses will be open all day Sunday, but only half a day May 31.

A Moving Comedy.

Scene: A doctor's office in southern Indiana.

Enter a Chicago wholesale florist: "Is the doctor in?"

Attendant: "He is with a patient in the consulting room. Will you have a seat and wait?"

Wholesaler sits down.

Enter another Chicago wholesaler: "Is the doctor——" Spies competitor. Beats it.

Consulting room door opens. Out walk the physician and the "patient," who proves to be still another Chicago wholesale florist! Handshakes all around.

The moral: Peonies are scarce this Memorial day.

Various Notes.

Peter Reinberg will demolish five greenhouses at his Robey street range and sell the material.

Since the death of Henry Hilmers, November 29, 1919, the business of the Kenwood Floral Co. has been operated by Paul O. Hilmers, as administrator of the estate. The property has been sold to Miss E. Seward and the estate of Henry Hilmers will have no interest therein after June 1.

22 the sales of the E. C. Amling Co. passed the total for all of May last year.

Arthur Weatherwax was called to Wisconsin last week by the death of a relative and of course his departure was the signal for a flood of orders at the W. J. Smyth establishment. Mr. Smyth put in several exceedingly busy days.

R. B. Howe says the W. W. Barnard Co. has been breaking records in several of its departments this season. In the commission box business 500 more boxes than ever before were put out. Counter trade, while somewhat irregular, because of weather conditions, has been so heavy that the average for a period has been ahead of the best previous day's record.

Oscar Leistner is on his way home from Japan, due at Seattle within the week.

N. J. Wietor says that the transportation tie-up is giving a good many growers cause for worry. During the summer Wietor Bros. are accustomed to take in Pocahontas coal at the rate of about fifteen cars per month, for storage for next season's use. Through April and May no more coal has come than has been needed for daily use and they are some twenty-five cars behind their usual storage schedule. By September 1 they should have sixty cars of coal on the place. Mr. Wietor thinks there probably will be no trouble getting the coal at a little later date, but the cartage of it will present something of a problem.

O. Johnson, formerly of the Batavia Greenhouse Co., now is associated with O. T. Anderson & Co., dealers in investment securities.

Being always on the alert, Poehlmann Bros. Co. last week reprinted in circular form the item headed "Peony Prospects" from The Review of May 20 and mailed it to cut flower buyers with the statement that, although peonies will be scarce, "we are in position to book any amount of roses and carnations."

Frank M. Johnson is the proud possessor of a wonderful new Cadillac touring car.

This is the most unusual of seed and plant seasons, according to the report at Henderson's Seed Store. The lateness of the season made counter trade slow to start and the changeable weather conditions have made the trade erratic. Some days, with bad weather, there is little doing, but the next day there is so much business that it is impossible to wait on all the would-be purchasers. On the whole, sales are exceeding those of other years.

Albert Koehler is in London.

Paul Klingsporn says this will be, without doubt, the record week in the history of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association.

Edward Mallinson, of the Fleischman Floral Co., who as manager also is buyer, has been in high spirits recently. He has been taking large quantities of the finest roses off the market and has obtained them at prices that have made for fast selling at excellent profits. This store buys no carnations except for special orders.

the Memorial day demand, A. T. Pyfer reports that his concern has received orders for cut flowers from as widely separated points as Wyoming and New Hampshire. However, as there were plenty of customers to whom shipping would not be attended by such risks, both orders were declined.

Eric Johnson was born in Chicago, May 30, 1888.

One afternoon last week Herbert Stone, manager of Peacock's Flower Shop, was giving the finishing touches to a gorgeous broken wheel, in which American Beauty and Ophelia roses, pink carnations, pansies, sweet peas, gypsophila, feverfew and magnolia and galax leaves were used. "But," he remarked, "except in a few special cases, people care more now for sprays than they do for designs. That is fortunate, too, because help is so high-priced that we can hardly afford to give time to design work." He added that the trade in cut flowers and funeral work, also in plants, is decidedly good; the store is more active in those lines than in table, wedding or corsage work, which, in the case of the first and second, take the men out of the store too much. When labor costs as much as at present, it must be economized.

Visitors.

A. C. Zvolanek, the widely known grower of sweet pea seeds, spent two days here last week on his way from his home at Lompoc, Cal., to New York, whence he has sailed for Europe. He visited several local sweet pea growers.

C. S. Tait, head of Tait Bros. Co., was here last week as a member of the delegation of representative citizens touring northern cities in the interest of the five southern ports, Wilmington, N. C.; Charleston, S. C.; Brunswick and Savannah, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla.

Mr. Tait says southeastern Georgia can grow narcissus bulbs to compete with any other locality in the world.

L. M. Smith, formerly with the W. W. Barnard Co., and now one of the managers of the M. G. Madson Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis., spent May 24 among old acquaintances in the Chicago territory. He reports an extremely active season, both in the seed department of the Madson business and in the big retail flower store, which is proving a highly successful branch of the concern.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Cut flower prices made a radical decline last week to new low levels for the present year. Several days of clear, warm, summer-like weather sent a largely increased amount of material into the markets and, with no increase in demand, values naturally came down with a thud. Roses suffered worse than any other flowers and the bulk of arrivals sold at $1 to $4 per hundred, with carnations falling as low as $10 per thousand. Other flowers declined in almost like ratio. The usual cold, driving rain storm, now looked for on Saturdays, put in its appearance May 22 and nearly destroyed retail trade. The present week opened with cooler weather, and as we have had no sun for several days, this has materially reduced the supplies of cut flowers, and prices are hardening and will continue to do so the remainder of the week.

Roses are still selling as low as $1 per hundred for short-stemmed stock, but a gradual rise is probable unless warmer weather comes along. Carnations have braced up a little and $8 to $10 per hundred are probable prices for Memorial day. Lilies are lower. Daffodils are nearly over, but a good supply of Narcissus poeticus is available, also of Darwin and cottage tulips. Sweet peas, marguerites, white and yellow calendulas and snapdragons are in good supply. Gladioli are plentiful.

Club Meeting.

At the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club May 18 there was a fair attendance for a busy season, the arrival of a few warm days keeping almost everyone busy outdoors. Two new members were elected. John K. M. L. Farquhar was chosen a delegate to represent the club at the conference of interests opposed to Quarantine 37 in New York June 15. Announcement was made of a ladies' night for the June 15 meeting, when a unique entertainment will be furnished, which will include the song, "Say It with Flowers." A field day will be held at the Arnold Arboretum June 12 and the annual picnic at Cunningham park, East Milton, July 22.

On exhibition was a new power cultivator and lawn mower of Boston manufacture (named the Spry Wheel), which greatly interested many of the members as a labor-saver, with a weight of 135 pounds, gasoline consumption one gallon per day, 1.38 horsepower; it is simple of construction and is proving popular with many farmers, florists and market gardeners.

The speaker of the evening was Professor J. F. De Chant, of the Sheldon School of Business, on "Service." He discussed the three great basal laws, fundamental, statute and conventional, and followed this with the three great elements in service, viz., quantity, quality and reliability or mode of conduct. powers in the business world: First, being in business to serve our fellow men; second, rendering service without profit—this often paid the best; third, rendering service and not accepting profits. In the world of business, money, equipment and man power were three essentials, the last being far the most necessary. Further discussing man power, will, physical, intellectual and executive powers counted, while endurance, reliability, ability and action were commented upon. The speaker stated that the late J. P. Morgan said he much preferred a man of character to one possessing securities. The latter was more likely to be a ne'er-do-well. The desire to serve was one of the greatest things in reliability. For over an hour Prof. De Chant held the rapt attention of his audience and closed by giving some simple rules for improving the memory. He was accorded an enthusiastic vote of thanks.

Various Notes.

At Penn's, advance Memorial day orders are heavy. At this store were some handsome specimens of Calceolarias Stewartii, Baileyi and Medford Gem. Immense numbers of artificial wreaths are in readiness for customers, and these include some tasteful designs. The increased planting of home gardens is also being boomed here effectively.

For several days last week we enjoyed warm, dry weather and tillers of the soil were much encouraged. May 22 came a cold, driving northeast storm and four inches of rain, which will still further delay farm and garden operations, already far behind normal. So serious does the local food situation appear that Governor Coolidge has issued a special proclamation urging people to plant home gardens and has asked for an appropriation for the establishment of suitable camps for college students and boys to assist farmers in various parts of the state. The food situation was never more serious here than at the present time, although it is hard to make city-dwellers appreciate the facts.

calendulas. Of the former he has a grand lot of both Mrs. Sander, white, and the best yellow forms. He has dropped growing both snapdragons and carnations and finds specialization pays the best.

William H. Elliott is at present enjoying open-air life in the Yosemite valley, Cal. Mrs. Elliott and Miss Ruth Elliott arrived at Brighton this week from California. At Brighton a batch of 8,000 chrysanthemums has been planted outdoors. These will furnish the shapely pot plants for which Mr. Elliott has become noted.

E. H. Borowski, of Roslindale, has been propagating a lot of Azalea indica the last year or two and will flower and market a batch of these next season. He has a splendid stock of young begonias and cyclamens.

Artificial wreaths are more in evidence than ever here this season and are offered all the way from 75 cents, for sprays, to $15 and $20. Many are quite tasteful and others are of horrible combinations. Only one or two retailers in the city are now found without these wreaths. Without them the price of natural flowers would ascend to unheard-of heights and profiteering articles would be prominent in every daily paper. These artificial designs, lacking in sentiment as they probably are, seem necessary at this season, for only a fractional part of the orders could be filled with natural flowers.

Lilacs in the Arnold Arboretum will be in excellent bloom for Memorial day. The large ornamental malus collection is now at its best. All deciduous trees and shrubs are blooming with wonderful profusion.

There should be a notable display of iris at Horticultural hall June 5 and 6. The germanica section will be in fine flower for that date. There will also be many other seasonable flowers. May 16 over 4,000 visited the exhibition between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m., principally to view the Burrage orchid display. W. N. C.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

It is a surprising fact that the official record for the first twenty-two days of May shows the temperature to have been exactly the same as last May, within one-half of one degree. Perhaps it is this fact that kept the market as good as it was and not worse.

The weather last week was cool. The beginning and the end of the week were active; mid-week was dull. Taken all in all, the supply far exceeded the demand, with a single exception, peonies.

Peonies form the important subject of the hour. Will they be in for Memorial day? The general opinion is that most of them will not, that we shall have peonies in fair numbers, made up of the vanguard of the local and of the southern stock, but that most of the locally grown peonies will be late. This is important, for it means that the finest peonies will not be in time for their harvest. It also means that flowers are likely to be higher in price than they should be for Memorial day and lower in price than they should be in June, for it is hard to market a heavy peony crop in June. A few warm days this week would be a godsend to the cut flower market.

A Profit or Loss.

The question that is troubling most of us just now is whether we are going to be able to stand the increase in cost of production. That is, whether the advance in salaries that is going steadily on and the advance in coal that is coming will be met by a corresponding advance in the price of our cut flowers and plants. With this thought in mind, the question was put to Leo Niessen. The selection of Mr. Niessen was simply an inspiration of the moment, not planned ahead. Second thought shows that it was a happy thought, for Mr. Niessen has the best interest of our profession at heart. So the question was put. The answer came like a flash. This was a surprise, for Mr. Niessen makes it a rule to take thirty seconds before answering anything, so as to avoid saying foolish things. That showed that he too was thinking about it. Here is the answer exactly as it was given: "No, there is not the slightest assurance that the extra cost will be offset by the extra price, but there is every reason to believe that it will. Everybody's pay roll is increasing and no one can build for anywhere near the cost of the greenhouses now standing. The whole matter is simply a question of supply and demand." Continuing, Mr. Niessen said: "I think the real solution lies in producing more flowers in winter. There is a strong feeling in favor of economizing on coal. This is a mistake. It naturally results in a small supply of flowers during the winter and a large supply in the spring,

A Coming Entertainment.

The Florists' Club will hold what is likely to be the greatest entertainment in its history next week. It will be at the Hotel Adelphia Wednesday evening, June 2, at 8 o'clock. The regular meeting will not be held on the first Tuesday in June, as usual. In its place there will be a high-class vaudeville entertainment and a collation. A brief business meeting to organize the Philadelphia branch of the National Flower Growers' Association will be held at 8 o'clock. At 8:30 the entertainment will commence. It is hoped that all members will come and bring any of their family and their friends that they wish with them. The green room and the gold room of the Adelphia have been engaged. This means that practically the entire first floor has been placed at the club's disposal. It has a seating capacity of 500. Tickets are $2 each.

Various Notes.

Berger Bros. received their first peonies May 22. John Berger is pleased with the business done in their new place.

Robert Craig's return from Porto Rico has been delayed.

The Main Line Flower Association and the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society held an outdoor flower show in the casino of the Merion Cricket Club, at Haverford, May 26.

M. J. Callahan made effective use of tree peonies in his window display last week.

Paul Berkowitz, who has been ill with the florists' malady, rheumatism, is able to be about again greeting his many friends.

Mrs. Robinson is believed to be doing finely with the Virginia Flower Shop, now completing its first season.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., is steadily catching up with the heaviest pile of orders that even this firm has ever handled, something to be proud of under the difficult conditions that now prevail.

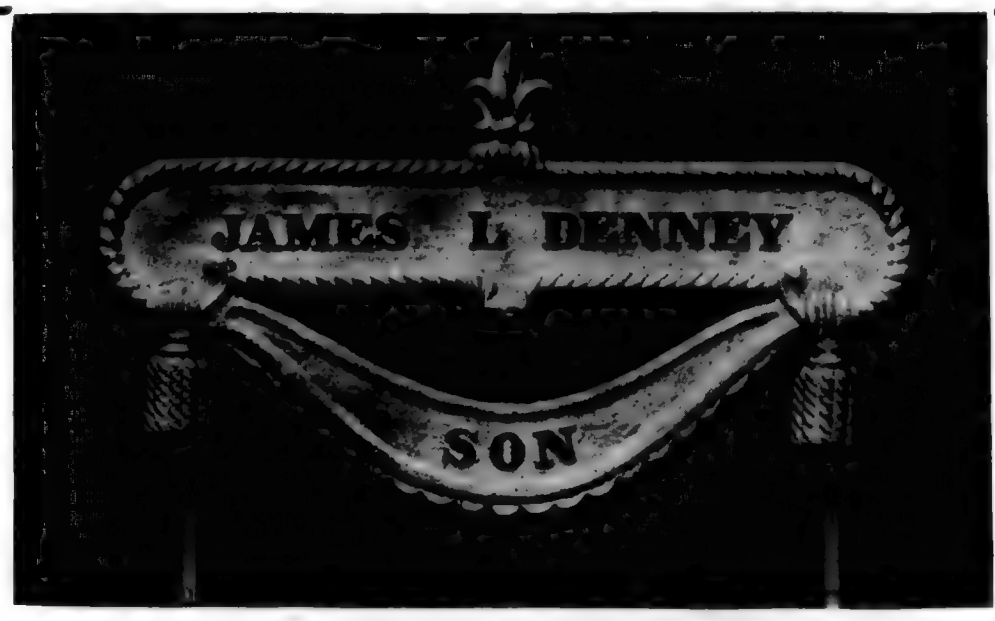
I. Subin and H. Boverman, proprietors of a store at 6003 Market street, were recently awarded $1,200 damages against their former landlord, T. Reese Howard, who, it was alleged, illegally ejected the plaintiffs from their store. The plaintiffs stated that Mr. Howard had defied the terms of a lease granted them and, when they refused to vacate, instituted ejectment proceedings, in the course of which stock in the store was damaged.

ST. LOUIS, MO.



The Market.

The wholesale market as a whole all last week was crowded with all seasonable cut stock. While the demand was excellent, it did not consume the stock daily and the big refrigerators held much after the morning sales were over.

The retailers say the business has not been any too brisk outside of funeral work, as the recent warm weather has curtailed the number of social events, but there are a good many advance orders for June weddings, after which society closes its season.

The large supply that came in daily at the six wholesale markets made it necessary to cut prices even lower than quotations. The big glut was in sweet peas and $2 bought 1,000 good sweet peas; this cleaned up the market fairly well each day.

bringing top prices until the outdoor stock arrives. Loveliness and Mrs. F. Pendleton are the leaders in demand, with America and Francis King second in choice. Chicago White cleans up daily. Texas cape jasmine buds are arriving daily, with good sales. Local consignments of peonies are coming in daily and bring as high as $10 per hundred. The cut should be heavy for Memorial day demands, which are expected to be heavy this year.

Outdoor valley is about over and forced stock is selling better. The supply in Easter lilies and callas was quite sufficient for the demand. Shasta daisies, irises, snapdragons, tulips, calendulas and candytuft have a good daily demand.

Carnations are plentiful for all demands, but the quality of the bulk of them is not of the best, since the blooms are becoming smaller as the season advances.

Roses are also plentiful, with excellent demands all through the week; the quality is fading, but still some are excellent. Prices reached quotations all the week.

The greens, as usual, are all in large demand, especially asparagus, galax and flat ferns. The price on the new crop of flat ferns has gone up to $5 per thousand.

The members of the trade extended their sympathy to Fred Meinhardt in the loss of his mother, Mrs. Rosa Meinhardt, whose death May 18 is recorded in this week's obituary column.

The recent flower show given by the Garden Club of St. Louis was continued a day longer than originally planned and at the close all of the display was distributed to the inmates of the various city hospitals and charitable institutions. The officers and members of the Garden Club wish to express their appreciation and thanks to the florists who helped to make it the success it was, also to the St. Louis Florists' Club and the St. Louis Seed Co. for offering many special prizes, which greatly attracted exhibitors.

The St. Louis County Growers' Association will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday evening, June 2, at 8 o'clock in the meeting hall at the Eleven Mile House. This meeting, according to Secretary Deutschmann, should have a particularly large attendance, as a great deal of important business will come before it, including the installation of the new officers.

Henri Duerinberg, manager of Grimm & Gorly's store, has returned to his post after six weeks' illness in the hospital and his many friends congratulated him on looking so well after so long an illness.

The Retail Florists' Association was to have held a meeting May 17 at Mission Inn, according to Secretary Ruff, but no one showed up.

Claude Wisley, of Murphysboro, Ill., who was a visitor last week, reports that he is building a new store on the main street; it will be ready for occupation soon.

Martin Reukauf, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, was in this city last week to show a complete line of florists' supplies at the Jefferson hotel.

Matt Schilz, representing the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., visited the Missouri side here for a chat with friends May 16.

The W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. received a large shipment of beaded wood for the manufacture of white wooden easels last week and the factory is again working full time, with many orders held up because of the short supply on hand.

The new committee will take hold of the work on publicity June 1 and its first meeting will be held Tuesday evening, June 8, at headquarters.

Two birthdays which are celebrated each year in the wholesale district with the distribution of good cigars are those of Frank Windler and W. C. Smith. The birthday of the former, who is now 30 years old and has been trailed by Dan Cupid for some time, came May 18 and that of the latter, who is a veteran in the matrimonial world and has reached 40 years of age, May 19.

The St. Louis Association of Gardeners will hold its second outdoor meeting next week. Notices of the place and date of the meeting will be mailed in time to all members by Secretary Hugo Schaff, who says that the importance of this meeting should attract a large attendance.

The big banquet hall at the Planters' hotel has been engaged for June 24, when the members of the Florists' Club and their friends will celebrate the thirty-fourth anniversary on that date with a banquet. The arrangements for this big event have been placed in the hands of the new publicity committee.

The Market.

For a week the market has been extremely dull, but not more so than is expected at this season, when the great outburst of outside flowers is apparent. One has only to watch the exits from the great railroad terminals to see the immense quantities of lilac, iris, flowering shrubbery and the like that are being brought into the city and to realize that an army of flower lovers is being abundantly supplied without recourse to the florist. Of course, this is a condition which is annually presented, but business in the staple lines of the florist is affected by it. It is the same in our flower markets—buyers for the retail stores find the offerings of lilac most generous and take advantage of them, a $5 transaction measured in bulk meaning much toward window and store embellishment at small cost.

Chief in staple lines, roses are in good supply, but the demand is anything but good, seasonal commodities having the preference. American Beauty in special grades is bringing $50 per hundred for the best, with lower grades in proportion. Hybrid teas have declined a great deal in price, but the quality is really wonderful for the time of year. Premier, Columbia and Hadley are most in demand and bring prices slightly in advance of other varieties in the same class.

Carnations are in fair supply only and arrivals are not showing particular quality, despite the favorable weather. About $3 to $5 for the best is the price range, with lower prices on clearances.

Cattleyas are not plentiful, but sufficient to go around; the best flowers are bringing 50 cents each, a pretty good price when quality is considered.

Lilies are plentiful and clearance is at times difficult. About $6 to $10 is the price range, with concessions on anything like quantity orders. Lilies of the valley are quite plentiful, the greenhouse-grown stock being augmented by frame produce, but the former has preference at $6 per hundred sprays for the best grade. Gardenias are still coming in, but the quality of most arrivals makes them a negligible offering and few flowers bring the maximum price, $2 per dozen.

Sweet peas are abundant and the cool weather is extending their season considerably. Some of the growers are sacrificing plantings in order to provide for following crops which must be prepared for now. The best arrivals still command $2, with poorer grades down to 50 cents per hundred.

There is still a large quantity of tulips coming in. This year the supply seems to be unending. When of good quality, 50 cents per bunch seems to be the prevailing price.

There is an abundance of miscellaneous stock. Snapdragons are plentiful and some prime stock is available at 75 cents to $1 per bunch, with inferior stock moving at as low as 15 cents. Outdoor flowers are swelling the list. Peonies, iris, lilac and lilies of the valley form a large part of the offerings.

The Market.

With a temporary lull in the demand for cut flowers, following the spurt of Mothers' day, the trade is preparing for Memorial day trade. The best demand is for potted plants, particularly geraniums, which are selling for from 20 cents to 50 cents apiece. Salvia has come into the market and is selling at $1.20 per dozen. Carnations are plentiful at $1.50 per dozen, with roses selling at $3 per dozen. Sweet peas are still plentiful and are selling for 35 and 75 cents per bunch.

Several beautiful floral pieces are being made by local florists for the Memorial day trade in the shape of crosses of pink and white roses and other fancy sprays.

The trade is doing a rushing business in all kinds of plants for spring planting. Rose bushes are selling especially well; 2-year-old rose bushes are bringing $1.25. D. H. P.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

CONTINUOUS ADVERTISING.

W. E. King, East Santa Cruz, Cal., is just adding one more voice to the multitude when he says that it pays to advertise. Mr. King has run a 1-inch advertisement in the daily papers for the last six months and has found that it is an excellent drawing card and has made arrangements to run it daily for a year. He increased his space to two inches for the week before Mothers' day. Mr. King has been in business in the one place for over thirty years.

LOMPOC, CAL.

There are, in this vicinity for seed this year, perhaps 200 acres of sweet peas, where in some other seasons there have been over 1,000 acres. For instance, A. C. Zvolanek & Sons have less than fifty acres this year where in their record season they grew over 600 acres. The principal reason for the decline of the industry is the aphis, although its recurrence and devastation have not been so serious here as at certain other former big growing centers, but another factor is the high cost of production; suitable land now commands an annual rental of $55 per acre and labor is not to be had short of $5 for eight hours. Thus far the crops here look well, although the rainfall this season was only nine inches.

A. C. Zvolanek has gone to Europe for a six months' visit at the old home in Bavaria, and for a tour of England and the continent. Although he is supplying sweet pea seeds direct to many thousands of florists, Mr. Zvolanek feels relieved from the necessity for attention to business by the presence of his sons, who are following in their father's footsteps. Edward, the elder son, is 28 years of age and has charge of all field work, while William, only recently returned from France, where he was attached to General Pershing's headquarters until they were removed to America, has taken charge of all the office and sales work.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

As usual before a holiday, stock is piling up around the wholesale houses and carnations in particular have been overplentiful. Retailers report an average business. There is every prospect of a big Memorial day trade, as flowers will be plentiful, and it is hoped that the weather will not be unduly hot.

Roses are arriving in better shape and the arrivals of gladioli have increased. There is a big demand from out-of-town points for wreaths of magnolia, statice and strawflowers.

Club Meeting.

At the meeting of the Los Angeles Florists' Club called by President Armacost to consider the advertising appropriation, about twenty members were present. There was little discussion and apparently a fairly comprehensive scheme will be carried through. By the end of last week about $8,000 had been promised and the publicity committee is working on the details of copy and contracts.

Various Notes.

Donald McLaren, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., San Francisco, was visiting friends in the city last week.

C. J. Groen, of Montebello, has taken additional land not far from his nursery. He is growing many novelties in the line of freesias, gladioli and other bulbous stock and is going to erect more glass.

The many friends of E. J. Reynolds, formerly of San Francisco and Denver, will be interested to know that he is now manager of the Art Flower Shop, at Long Beach.

The L. A. Floral Co. continues to be headquarters for the early gladioli in both dwarf and standard varieties. Large quantities are being shipped out daily.

Fred Westrum, manager of Wright's Flower Shop, says that he is well satisfied with the way business is keeping up. Mr. Wright is still putting in a good deal of time in the desert in connection with his mining interests.

Peter Morgen, of Huntingburg, Ind., has been visiting this city and neighboring places. He was much impressed with the great progress made here since his last visit, twelve years ago. Speaking of the nurseries visited, he is loud in his praises of the establishment of the Howard Rose Co., at Hemet, and that of Roy F. Wilcox & Co., at Montebello.

The Finest Strain in America

SOW them now for midwinter and early spring blooming. Seed saved from an unrivaled collection of pot grown plants, remarkable for their compact habit, enormous size of blooms and splendid range of colors.

We have spent years of patient labor in bringing this strain to its present state of perfection. Flowers four to four and one-half inches in diameter are common and in some of our latest types, petals are three-quarters inch across.

Colors include all shades from purest white to darkest crimson, with all intermediate shades of blue, lavender, pink, purple, scarlet, and gorgeous giant flowered bicolored varieties. Seed carefully hand picked, strong in germinating qualities, the very best you can buy.

Azaleas and similar plants will be scarce during the coming winter. A batch of Cinerarias will find a ready sale if well grown.

cordingly. The weather is directly responsible. Cold days following a hot spell the last of April shortened up the supply and continued low temperature served to hold back the blooming of seasonable stock generally, until the last few days. Now everything seems to be bursting into bloom at once, flooding the market with stock. There is a marked decline in values as a result of the oversupply and it is difficult to effect a clearance. Late in the day the wholesale market is piled high with stock, whereas a short time ago would have found hardly a flower in sight after the early morning visit of the retailers.

Roses still predominate in the daily offerings; consequently their position is weaker than most other items, although sweet peas, carnations and Easter lilies are not far behind.

With Memorial day approaching, present conditions cannot endure many more days, which is some consolation. Orders have already been booked for quantities of stock for out-of-town shipment and indications point to heavy local requirements. There is no question but what stock in the aggregate will be abundant, but the shortage of both gladioli and peonies gives cause for apprehension. If roses could be substituted for these flowers on shipping orders all would be well, but, as one of the wholesalers points out, nothing can take the place of either of these items for Memorial day to any extent.

As nearly as can be ascertained, there is only about a half crop of peonies this year. In some instances the buds formed, but have not developed further and some growers report only four or five blooms where in former years there would have been ten or a dozen. Furthermore, one of the largest growers lifted his peonies last year and transplanted; so he has no crop this year. In the face of this shortage, everyone seems to want peonies, an especially heavy demand coming from the Rocky mountain states.

There will be plenty of the small-flowering Bride gladioli, but such varieties as Peach Blossom and Blushing Bride will be scarce. Aside from the effects of the quarantine on gladioli, for the last two years a number of the growers in this vicinity have sold their bulbs to eastern growers, thus accentuating the shortage here. Of the large-flowering varieties of gladioli there will not be enough to supply the demand by any means. They do not bloom outdoors in this climate early enough for Memorial day and the trade has to depend largely on greenhouse supplies. This year one of the largest growers under glass tried an experiment which did not turn out well. He planted earlier than usual and his plants went blind. What he planted two months later have done all right.

There is a splendid crop of the Ulrich Brunner rose and the fact that it does not hold up for long-distance shipping is much to be regretted. Such flowers as stocks, marigolds, gypsophilas, strawflowers and other miscellaneous offerings are plentiful. Easter lilies will be in good crop for Memorial day.

Various Notes.

In making shipments to far-distant points, care is taken to route them so as not to call for transfer at the larger and more congested centers, such as Chicago. The shippers have to sign a release and take all the responsibility of damage in transit, but they report fairly good service if precaution is taken.

J. A. Axell reports business holding up, with all indications for a banner Memorial day call for flowers. The only thing that is troubling him is how to get stock to fill his orders on gladioli and peonies. It is no longer a question, he says, of working up demand for flowers on the old established flower days, but a question of being able to get stock to fill orders and get efficient help to handle the business. Some of the houses, he says, are figuring on training more girls to relieve the situation.

Domoto Bros. say orders for Memorial day are more than double the business handled last year. They have a new crop of Easter lilies coming on for this day, and expect to have a fine cut all through June.

Enomoto & Co. will have a big supply of flowers for Memorial day, but they do not anticipate any difficulty in cleaning up, as orders are already booked for a large part of the supply. Roses and carnations will be featured prominently in the absence of gladioli and peonies.

Gen. A. J. Gooch and Mrs. Gooch are back in town looking after Memorial day business, after a vacation up the Russian river. As soon as the rush is over, they will close up and leave on a two months' auto trip to Oregon. Mr. Gooch reports a heavy demand for lavender statice and is also filling a big call for gypsophilas. Some large tulips from Salem, Ore., attracted much attention at the Gooch establishment last week. They were brought down from the northern city by C. B. Clancy, who bought out Carl Ruef's greenhouses and store at Salem. Mr. Clancy went to Pasadena, Cal., from here, his trip to California being largely in the interests of the coming rose show, which is held in Portland each year. Last year he decorated a number of the automobiles which participated in the parade at that event and his work was highly commended.

Mrs. Copeland and her daughter, who conduct the business on Sutter street formerly operated by the Misses Hannon, decorated the tables for the banquet given at the Civic auditorium last week in conjunction with the foreign trade convention held in this city. Covers were laid for 1,500 people, this being considered the largest event in San Francisco since the Panama-Pacific international exposition. In the decorations large quantities of flowers were used, including some fine baskets, utilizing large numbers of American Beauty roses, delphiniums, snapdragons and other seasonable stock.

E. Rosaia, pioneer nurseryman of Colma, Cal., is selling his place and retiring from business. For about twenty years he has been a heavy contributor to the local market of a wide assortment of cut flowers. He has five or six sons, all of whom are in the florists' business. Three are located in Seattle, Wash., and it is understood the father will make his home in that city after

The Market.

Generally unchanged conditions existed in the market last week, there being about the same volume of local receipts to figure on, nearly as heavy California shipments as for the week ending Mothers' day and enough business to keep the floor stocks well cleared. The prices have been maintained on most offerings, hydrangeas being about the only exception to this rule. They are getting well past their high point and there are so many new spring lines seen that they sell rather slowly.

Most of the stores have had a brisk sale on bedding stock, but the individual sales are lighter than they have been in previous years. This is the natural consequence of the higher prices, since in former years geraniums were on sale as low as 50 cents per dozen plants, while this year the trade has been forced to charge several dollars per dozen; pansy plants are about double the prices of previous seasons and other bedding plants are up in proportion. At the same time, the increase in the number of new homes last year means that altogether about as many plants will be sold this year as in 1919.

Local peonies are arriving and have been commanding a ready sale, although deliveries of California stock are not expected until after Memorial day. The splendid clean-up of all southern shipments Mothers' day was naturally reflected in the orders placed for Memorial day.

Local growers of sweet peas report mainly a between-season period and Yakima growers have been getting their innings, as they are now the biggest commercial shippers of the northwest. Their stock shows wonderful color, although its shortness of stem limits its use to a certain degree. The prices on sweet peas have not broken as other spring lines have become more plentiful.

The sale of the various spring bulbous offerings has been holding up well and some fine crimson, deep red and yellow Darwins have been arriving from the various local greenhouses. Potted tulips have been a little less active, but the sale of calceolarias has been notably large. Yellow California irises and baby roses have been ready sellers.

There has been a marked increase in social events and this has helped the sale of corsages and boutonnieres. The local cut of gardenias is much heavier, and has combined with a nice showing of orchids to care for this business well.

Growing conditions have been more favorable to the production of roses, but some varieties still have to be brought in from the south. This is not true of Columbia, Ophelia or Ward, but can

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

Market conditions are about normal for this time of the year, with the exception of several varieties of outside stock, which are much behind time, due to the continued cold and cloudy weather. The peony situation does not look promising for Memorial day; however, the growers all have their hopes and feel confident of meeting the demand. Sweet peas, roses and carnations have been most plentiful during the week and the demand has been satisfactory. The demand for orchids and American Beauties was not so large.

Everyone is looking forward to Memorial day and the first question asked is, "How are your peonies coming along?" Out-of-town orders are coming in fast and, from all indications, there will be an ample supply of stock to meet the demand. Large amounts of bedding stock came in last week and all cleaned up well. Local ferns are also arriving in large quantities.

Various Notes.

The Washington Florists' Club baseball team lost its first game this season, May 16. Arthur Shaffer, manager, was injured during the game.

The Louise Flower Shop had a quite appropriate window display during the recent horse show which was held in this city. The display consisted of a large horseshoe made up of white flowers. It was placed in the center of the show window.

Stanley Holland had an exceedingly sad experience last week in the loss of his wife.

The rotogravure section of the Sunday Star May 23 contained an interesting picture of the grave of Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt in France, showing the handsome floral piece placed there for Edward S. Schmidt, of this city. Mr. Schmidt is an old member of the Washington Florists' Club. G. V. S.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.

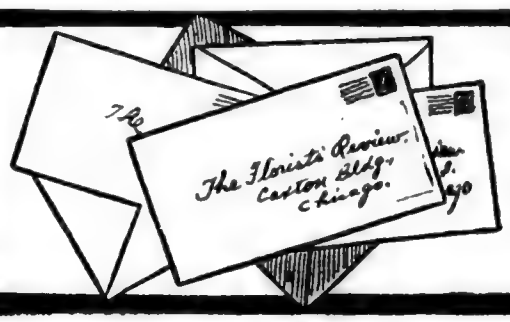
The Market.

Since Mothers' day the cut flower trade has been rather quiet. The supply has been good, but, on account of the smaller demand, prices have dropped. Outdoor flowers are now appearing. Lilacs are abundant, some lilies of the valley are to be had and irises are just commencing to bloom. Carnations are in good supply, roses are plentiful and some fine snapdragons are being cut. Among the other cut flowers are sweet peas, mignonette, pansies, calendulas, violets, marguerites and Easter lilies.

A few small weddings call for flowers and funeral work holds up well. Everyone is busy making preparations for Memorial day.

The weather has been unusually cold and rainy for this time of year and so there has been little outdoor planting up to the present time. Everyone, therefore, is exceptionally busy now. Florists report that they have fine lots of bedding plants and a large number of orders booked for cemetery work, but as we seldom have more than one or two pleasant days together and on many days the rain comes down in torrents, it is hard to get the graves and mounds planted.

Various Notes.



The Arcade Florist reports that general business is good. Funeral work holds up well and bedding plants are going rapidly.

At the Park Garden & Flower Shop geraniums, vincas, etc., are abundant, in fine shape and going well.

James Horan & Son report a number of small weddings. Funeral work keeps them busy. Cut flowers are plentiful, but on account of the cloudy weather outdoor stuff is scarce.

George Pflomm has a number of orders booked for cemetery work, but, on account of the fact that it has been so cold and stormy, he has only just started his outdoor planting.

In DETROIT it is Breitmeyer's

Your customer will appreciate Breitmeyer service and you will receive no complaints.

For the benefit of those florists who are still delaying becoming members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association we would submit the following figures:

Easter, 1920, we received orders from 195 florists for a total business of $1120.25.

We sent orders to 562 florists, the orders amounting to $3050.20.

During the 12 months ending March 30, 1920, we received 1549 orders, amounting to $10,462.30.

We sent 2767 orders, amounting to $18,671.17.

When you consider that one florist did a telegraph and mail order business of nearly $30,000 in one year, think what the aggregate business for the 10,000 florists in the United States and Canada should be.

These figures must convince every florist of the necessity of belonging to the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association.

RETAIL STORE MANAGEMENT

WHAT THE LEADERS IN THE TRADE ARE DOING

GETTING F. T. D. BUSINESS.

That many things can be accomplished by earnest effort is brought out by the results which were secured by the BluMaize Blossom Shop in Ann Arbor, Mich., a town slightly over 15,000 in population and on the map mainly because it is the seat of the University of Michigan.

This store made an effort to get much telegraph business at Easter and, when the results were seen, one of the proprietors, Alex Lurie, said that with the proper effort he could double his Easter business at Mothers' day.

Towards this end a full-page advertisement was placed in the local newspaper, giving prominence to the telegraph delivery feature. A special direct wire was installed in the store by the telegraph company and the orders came. After the rush was over and things became quiet in the store, it was found that besides the seventy-five letters sent out with orders, 170 telegraph orders were sent.

The following letter was received by the proprietors of the store from the manager of the Western Union Telegraph Co., at Ann Arbor:

Referring to the telegraph loop placed in your store for May 7 and 8 to handle Mothers' day messages, I find, after checking up the number of messages handled from your store for the two days, that there were 170, which I am sure you will agree was fine. Inasmuch as some of the messages contained more than one order, I believe that the 170 messages contained at least 200 orders.

I am glad that you did so well with this proposition and will be looking forward for a "repeater" on the next occasion of this kind.

I also want to take this opportunity to thank you for using our service on this occasion, as well as in your many other orders, and I hope that the commendable manner in which these messages were handled comes up to your expectations.

The size of the town does not limit or help the progressiveness of florists. Getting telegraph business is a matter which should be considered by every florist.

WHERE PAYMENT COMES IN.

Many florists recognize the value of making a new customer, but not so large number readily grasp the means of making them. An advocate of special sales remarked, "I make good money on the sales though the margin on each transaction is small. The real payment comes in the new customers made."

Speaking of another way of securing new patrons, Henry Penn indicates what the amount of that payment may actually be worth in dollars and cents. In this connection he says:

"Have you felt the importance of delivering a telegraph order to the patron in your city? If you put it up with a bit of personal attention, you have the possibility, at least, of creating a new customer permanently.

"Do you appreciate also that a department store figures every customer that enters its doors costs the store in the neighborhood of $3.12 just to get the customer in? Now, here is another channel of new business that not only gives you entrée, but also gives you a possible customer. Give your telegraphic orders as well as your own orders every attention possible. It pays."

The leaders in the F. T. D. have urged that each order be delivered with the utmost attention and care, no matter what the amount, and their urgings were for just this reason. There may not be much margin, if any, on an order of less than $5, especially if it is to be delivered in a big city or at a time when flowers are high in price. But there is adequate and real payment if a new customer is made.

HEEPE CO. HAS PRIVATE WIRE.

The Western Union Telegraph Co. was so impressed by the volume of business transacted by the Heepe Co., at Akron, O., for Easter that a private wire was installed in the show window of this concern for Mothers' day.

The operator furnished was considered one of the best on the Western Union staff. Still she found it impossible to do more than handle the outgoing messages. In the seven days preceding Easter the Heepe Co. sent 537 messages and in seven days before Mothers' day 575 messages were sent.

The Heepe Co. is reputed to have one of the finest flower stores in the country. Both members of the concern, E. A. Heepe and Henry Heepe, deserve credit for having built a store and maintained a business that is right up to the minute. That is their reputation in Akron, which is declared to be the fastest growing city in the world. J. A. C.

GREETING NEW ARRIVALS.

Novel window displays often bring new business and create new uses for flowers. A window shown by a florist in Seattle, Wash., recently should be productive of much business in any town. To spread the idea that flowers can best say anything that needs be said; that flowers can say things which are better unsaid when spoken, is the object of our slogan, "Say It with Flowers." A most opportune time to "Say It with Flowers" is when a new president or a new first lady of the land arrives in the world. Instead of getting in wrong by saying that the newcomer looks like papa, when the fond parents think that the important person looks like mamma, the easiest way to say something and not "put your foot into it" is to "Say It with Flowers."

This was the message of the Seattle window. In the front of the window was a flat basin in which pansies and other bright-colored flowers were floating. Standing in this pool of water was a stuffed stork. White ribbons ran back to a life-sized doll seated in a baby buggy and a card suggested the advisability of greeting the new-born baby with flowers. Cradles made up in various combinations of popular flowers, as gifts for new arrivals or their parents, were shown in various parts of the window.

CATER TO MORE PEOPLE.

A little 16-page booklet, called "Florists' Problems," is issued by Wild Bros. Nursery Co., Sarcoxie, Mo., the third number bearing date of May, 1920. There are a number of sound suggestions in its pages. One of the short articles is headed, "A Lesson from the Movies." It reads:

"The Universal Film Manufacturing Co., in one of its advertisements in Printers' Ink, gives this advice: 'You cannot continue to exist by catering to one class. Consider the number of people who do not go to the motion picture theaters because they do not see there what they want to see. A varied program will attract more patronage.'

"This applies as well to the florists' business. If we would keep our old customers buying regularly, we must give them variety. Others who have not been buying will be attracted by an unusual display and, once you have made the first sale, you have an opportunity to make them regular buyers. A point not often considered by the florist is the effect of variety in attracting the attention of those who receive the gift. One of our customers today told us of a gift of peonies last Mothers' day and of how they were commented on more than all the other flowers, because they afforded variety.

"Equally important is variety of prices. A few florists may successfully cater only to the high-priced trade. But the average florist cannot afford to so limit his sales. He must be prepared to fit all pocketbooks in his trade territory. Medium price should not mean low quality. A number of flowers, first-class of their kind, can be used for the medium-priced trade. The important point is to give them good value and make as many flower buyers as possible, not alone for present business, but to build up for the future."

BUSINESS IN THE BERKSHIRES.

Though Pittsfield, Mass., is a city of over 40,000, it still has some of the delightful characteristics of a New England town, with its one main street, North street, its many good-looking, comfortable homes, its growing industrial life and its surrounding Berkshire hills. The atmosphere is one likely to develop a flower-loving spirit. And Pittsfield people, both the blue-blooded First Families and the red-blooded workers in the woolen mills and the General Electric Co. works, are of the kind to buy flowers. They have the money and they want the flowers.

So it is small wonder that F. I. Drake & Co. have had to open a larger store to take care of increasing business.

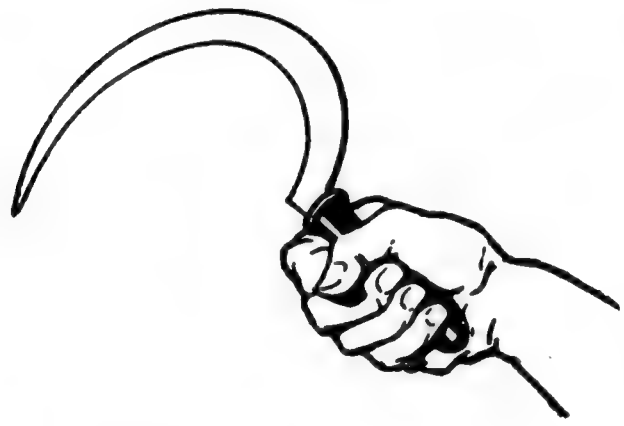
This firm, which has been in existence for over thirty years, consists of Foster I. Drake and Max R. Engelmann. Their store is on North street and they also have one of the most complete ranges in that vicinity. They consider their membership in the F. T. D. one of their most valuable assets; the telegraph delivery business in a city like Pittsfield would be likely to be large, especially in view of its nearness to the summer colony at Lenox. Nor is it surprising that, as they report, their Easter trade set a record for them, with no apparent effect from the high prices and no complaint from the public.

ADVERTISING BY BOXES.



Unrealized Possibilities.

Equal in importance to artistic funeral offerings in the retail store is the artistically arranged box. Perhaps there is no other way in which such advertising results can be obtained as through a box of flowers, which, when opened, brings delight to the eye of the recipient. In every case there are two things that will bring pleasure to the one receiving it; first, the flowers themselves and, second, the card of the sender; and ninety-nine times out of a hundred the next thing one does is to look at the lid of the box to see from what florist it came.

When packing a box remember that first impressions are everything and there is just as much art in packing the box as there is in anything else connected with the business. Have a nice box; this is important, as too much care cannot be used in selecting your stock of boxes. Then have something distinctive about them; this can always be arranged for in the printing. And have "Say It with Flowers" in a conspicuous position, for in every instance the sender is saying something in this way, something that is entirely too personal for any but two people to know and often something that some big, strong man has not had the courage to say in person. At such a time she will read the slogan and will know just what message he is trying to convey.

A Twice Told Tale

At a delightful little dinner given by Philip Breitmeyer when the F. T. D. last met at Detroit, one of the guests told a "Say It with Flowers" tale that I'll never forget.

So many of you may not have heard it that I believe I will try to retell it. If you don't mind I will, while telling it, assume it happened to me.

Always as a boy I had loved flowers. So much so that I used to steal away to a nearby town and wander around among the flowers of the State Asylum grounds.

The gardener and I became fast friends. One day found a new gardener who turned out to be a wonderful fellow in his vast store of facts about flowers, particularly their poetic lore.

We were by a pansy bed about which he had said most beautiful things, when all of a sudden he turned to me with a fiendish look and flourishing a grass hook, said: "Sometimes I have an almost uncontrollable desire to kill someone. Guess I will kill you."

Well, sir, my hat rose right up so my hair was thoroughly ventilated.

Didn't dare run, because I knew he would catch me. So I just started saying it with flowers. Smiling the best I knew how, slowly raised my hand to his shoulder and said: "My dear fellow, anybody with the love of flowers in their heart the way you have, wouldn't take the life of anything."

He promptly dropped the murderous hook, his face all changed again.

Running down across the lawn came three men who grabbed him and mid yells and struggles carried him to the asylum. He was one of their worst cases who had slipped away, put on the gardener's overalls and hat from the greenhouse and returned to the flowers he so loved in his sane days.

Come to think of it, that was saying it with flowers almost as quickly as by F. T. D.

good paper and tied with braid; some florists go so far as to slip a sprig of some green under the braid, such as leucothoe, or at Christmas time a sprig of holly or mistletoe. These are small details, but they pay big returns. Your box is now ready for delivery. Get it off as soon as possible, so that the recipient may see it as fresh as possible.

Perhaps it is a corsage bouquet you are going to deliver; be as particular as to details in this as in any box you pack. Don't forget to have a large pin stuck in the handle; have it tied with the proper ribbon and your handle or stem foiled; in many cases, where an expensive gown is to be worn, have a corsage protector. arrangements with the candy people so that you can make a profit on the candies. While you are educating the public to "Say It with Flowers," the candy man is working just as hard to "Say It with Candy" and the fancy grocer is trying just as hard to push "Say It with Fruit." In almost any of the fancy groceries in any large city you can see baskets of fruit arranged, which are most attractive, and the fancy grocers do not hesitate to add flowers if they are requested. Competition is becoming keener, not only in your own business, but outside of it, for the same trade. There is an old proverb, "Fight fire with fire." In these days the florist who is going to succeed must use his brains; don't be afraid to develop novelties. These are but suggestions. Think something out along these lines and then push it. You will be surprised how quickly it will become known. You have the goods and, if you will use a little thought, there is no line that can beat you. Tate.

The Market.

Indications are that there will be a short supply of peonies for Memorial day. The weather was cool until the last few days and plants have been backward. Two days last week registered in the 80's and this helped the crop. Growers say that two or three more days of the same temperature would help immensely. Only the early varieties will be in bloom under the best conditions and probably few of these. Besides adverse weather, the hail storm wrought heavy damage to the peony crop, as it did to other things. Carnations will be short in this market. Roses will be plentiful. There will be a fair supply of spring stock.

Various Notes.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. will have enough carnations to care for its local trade and will have plenty of roses, as these are now in crop. Advance orders have been heavy for Memorial day.

pottery and Victorian paintings, which were recently received. Miss Kline, bookkeeper in this store, has been ill several days.

Martin Reukauf, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, and Morris Le Vine, of Lion & Co., New York, called on the trade recently.

The T. J. Noll Floral Co. has taken a 5-year lease on the double store room at 1117-1119 McGee street. Workmen are busy now and will have the place in good shape in about ten days. Something like $6,000 will be spent in improvements. A new ice machine will be installed, but Mr. Noll has not yet decided on the kind. Telephones have not been put in as yet, but the company has promised service within a few days and in the meantime city trade is being cared for.

Mrs. Nellie Asmussen, of Pope Station, near Lansing, Kan., was seriously injured May 21 in a collision between a Leavenworth interurban and a Thirteenth street car in Kansas City, Kan. Mrs. Asmussen was returning to her home after having brought some sweet peas to Kansas City. She was taken to Bethany hospital, where her condition is said to be dangerous.

The growers whose greenhouses were demolished by the hail storm the early part of this month are still cleaning up and getting rid of the ruins. They six men working on bedding orders and they are busy all the time. Among his customers is a man to whom he has sold for twenty-two years and his first sale was made when he was working for another florist before going into business for himself.

R. S. Brown & Son are having record business in bedding work and have had a good deal of funeral work lately. The warm weather has caused a rush for bedding plants and porch boxes, which has meant hard work for the florists who do these lines.

Luncheons and dinners, with a good many corsage orders, have kept Ed A. Humfeld busy since Mothers' day.

Miss Lou Boggess has been making wreaths every night for two weeks and in her spare time through the day, anticipating orders for next Sunday.

In the Mothers' day rush Mrs. Hedges had one customer, a man, who tish Rite consistory on the Kansas side last week.

Eric Johnson, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, was in the city a few days last week.

Tucker Smith and Harry Blake, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., were visitors May 21.

Peas and snapdragons will be among the crops that Adolph Mohr will have for next week.

Samuel Murray has some fine gloxinias in his store and more of the plants coming on. He was the only florist who had these for Mothers' day.

Excellent business last week was reported by the Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co. Each day saw a clean-up. Supplies and cut flowers are coming in daily and the force is busy.

The Pinehurst Floral Co. will have about 15,000 peonies for Memorial day. This will be about one-fourth of that firm's crop. Until Saturday, May 22, the crop was uncertain, but two days of warm weather brought the buds out so that the first cut was made.

The safe of the Rosery was robbed Monday, May 17, of about $80 by a stranger who came into the office and asked to be allowed to use the tele-

Kallay Bros. have just completed a large landscape job in Cleveland.

W. H. Nichols & Son report business good and are shipping many perennials.

H. G. Norton, of Perry, O., shipped two truck loads of pansy plants to Cleveland recently.

Fred Endress & Son have had a particularly prosperous season. They have been in business only a few years, but they are making rapid strides.

Joseph W. Kallay is putting in a large landscape planting for Mr. Osborne, of Willoughby, O. It is a $3,700 job.

Thomas J. Murphy has sold large quantities of perennials, pansy and English daisy plants, etc., this spring.

Carl Barto, of the Storrs & Harrison Co., says that this firm has had an excellent season and at present is having a big rush for garden seeds, a demand delayed by the lateness of the season.

could be had. Green goods continue to be about the scarcest article on the market.

Roses were in good supply and the quality all that could be desired. Carnations were about equal to the demand and, as for quality, they could not be better. The lilac crop lasted longer this year than usual, owing to the cool weather. For two weeks there were plenty of these to be had and they sold well.

Outdoor valley is at this writing at its height and the florists are using it in every way. All of the outdoor shrubbery is in bloom and is being generally used. Every box that is put up contains some shrub blossoms and Darwin tulips. This change is appreciated, for they are seasonable.

There have been several funerals recently that called for a large amount of funeral work. A significant point about the prominent funerals is the fact that when one inquires if a florist had many orders for a particular funeral it is not customary to say how many offerings a firm had, as was once the case. The florist will now tell you how many truckloads he had.

The Advertising Campaign.

The advertising campaign is certainly beginning to tell. It is being spoken of by the public, especially the $2 Saturday box, and now that outdoor stock is to be had, it is an easy matter to make an attractive box at this price. Spring flowers are seasonable and will be much appreciated. This box can be pushed for all it is worth, for the majority of buyers are those who have seen the advertisement and, in a great number of cases, were not flower buyers. Feature these boxes in your window. Cut the advertisement from the paper, paste it on one of your letterheads and, with a red pencil, put parentheses about it and paste it on your window; or, better still, have several of them. This will be more apt to attract attention and people will stop to read and a well arranged box before their eyes will often make the sale.

Various Notes.

In a walk down Charles street last week I was particularly attracted by John Cook's window. It was decorated principally with outdoor shrubbery and everything was arranged in tumbler baskets. I never realized that a bunch of bridal wreath and Darwin tulips could be made into such an artistic basket. There was the old blue iris and small baskets of valley. The stock was arranged with care and the baskets looked ready for delivery for some society function rather than like stock stored for the day.

Mrs. Fannie G. Hill has entirely recovered from her recent indisposition and is back on the job, looking better than ever.

Samuel Feast & Sons had another attractive window. As is usually the case, there were some fine blooming plants to be seen here. Pink azaleas held the center of the stage and there were some fine primroses. Inside, everyone was busy with funeral work and, while May is considered an unlucky month in which to be married, this firm has had more

May weddings than ever in its history.

In a recent chat with Tom Stevenson, of Stevenson Bros., he was telling me of their new trial house which was recently completed. This is a Lord & Burnham semi-iron house, 21x100 feet. I asked him what was the idea and his reply was: "This is a house that will hold 1,000 plants and our idea is, when we try out a new variety, to have it in a house by itself, where we can give it any treatment we desire without inter-

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Works While You Sleep.

Every day brings further proof of the efficacy of our campaign. The beneficial results are indescribable almost, in so many directions does our slogan work. There is one direction in which florists themselves can give the slogan tremendous publicity, at the same time calling attention to their own establishments—the installation on their grounds of the official billboard signs provided by the publicity committee. These signs are furnished at $50 each, direct from the factory in Indiana, and if they were to be purchased singly they would cost considerably over $100 each. The material alone would cost the $50 asked for them. If ever the time should come when a purchaser felt he had no use for the slogan, he would still have the sign, adaptable to any other purpose. And it's a good sign, too. Just think of it, a sign twenty feet long, seven and a half feet wide, constructed of galvanized iron on a wood frame and weighing about 300 pounds. The slogan is painted in the official colors, three coats of paint being used to insure permanency. It is easily set up and, once installed, shouts for business day in and day out, moonlight nights included.

Immediate Shipment.

We can take care of a number of orders for immediate shipment; in fact, our shipments can be affected only by railroad troubles, such as have hampered deliveries for some weeks, but which are gradually disappearing. At one time we had thirty or more signs awaiting the lifting of an embargo, but we believe that all are moving to their destinations as fast as their routings become clear.

Any florist who wants to do a good turn to himself and, incidentally, add to the publicity for the slogan, should get a billboard sign. In appearance it is handsome and, unlike most such signs, conveys a message rather than an exploitation. Now is the time to install one, when everybody who can get upon four wheels is enjoying the great outdoors.

The time is also opportune for increased support of our campaign fund. With advertising contracts already entered into covering the summer months, months when florists must continue in business just as at other times, our committee is busy planning for the months to come after September and, without the necessary funds, they can accomplish little. If we are to get into the more prominent magazines next fall, contracts must be made months ahead;

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, E. C. Dungan, Philadelphia, Pa.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

So serious have been the depredations of the aphis that the present acreage of sweet peas for seeds in California is the smallest in many years.

Two well known Chicago seedsmen celebrate birthday anniversaries this week. Peter Hollenbach was born May 26, 1850, and Charles Dickinson May 28, 1858.

REPORT of the death Tuesday, May 25, of Patrick O'Mara, widely known as the general manager of Peter Henderson & Co., New York, appears in the obituary column of this issue.

A. C. ZVOLANEK, sweet pea seed grower of Lompoc, Cal., has sailed to spend six months in Europe. He is a Bavarian by birth, but an American citizen for over a quarter of a century.

A. L. AABLING, president of the Aabling Seed Farms, Inc., Seattle, Wash., is receiving the condolences of the trade over the death by asphyxiation last week of Mrs. Aabling. She had been preparing their dinner on the maid's day off and was evidently overcome by the escaping fumes before she realized the danger. Mrs. Aabling was 55 years of age and is survived by her husband and a son, William, at present a student at Reed College, Oregon.

SEEDSMEN in New York are bitter in their complaint against traffic conditions. With the close of the planting season practically here, all orders now received are naturally rush orders, and the distributers find it exceedingly difficult to get seeds out. A. C. Deleot, shipping clerk for J. M. Thorburn & Co., 53 Barclay street, said that he was not taking any chances on freight at all, but was sending everything, even to carload lots, by express. The express service, also, he said, was exceedingly unsatisfactory, had been ever since the consolidation, and would be until there was competition.

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Program at Milwaukee.

The American Seed Trade Association will hold its thirty-eighth annual convention at Milwaukee, Wis., June 22 to 24, with headquarters at the Hotel Pfister. The program as announced has been made brief in order to give time for the transaction of important business. The opening session begins at 10 a. m., Tuesday, June 22.

In the announcements of the convention notice is given of three proposed amendments to the by-laws, as follows: That the dues and initiation fee be increased; that appropriations be referred to the executive committee, and that provision be made to admit seed trade associations to membership.

The Program.

The program is as follows:

Badges with the name of the wearer are being provided again this year and will also bear the number of the firm which the wearer represents. With the announcements were sent out cards which the members of the association are urged to fill out and return to the secretary, C. E. Kendel, 216 Prospect avenue, Cleveland, O., before June 10, indicating who expects to attend. Those who plan to be present are also advised to make their hotel reservations early. The rates at the Hotel Pfister are as follows: Single room, without bath, $2.50 to $3.50; with bath, $3 to $7. Double room, without bath, $3.50 to $4.50; with bath, $4 to $8. For each additional person in a room, the charge is $1 in addition.

PROPOSED FREIGHT CHANGES.

Hearings are being held at Chicago before the consolidated classification committee in regard to certain proposed changes, on which hearings have already been held in New York and New Orleans. A number of the proposed changes have had consideration by members of the seed trade from the angles which affect them.

A change in the rules is proposed whereby the name not only of the consignee but also of the shipper must be marked upon each package or bundle of freight.

It is suggested also that a package which weighs less than twenty pounds will not be accepted at the rate shown for such articles, but will be advanced to one class higher than larger shipments. In the present wording of the rule only bales, boxes and crates are mentioned, not bags, but it is thought that they will also be included to make the rule inclusive.

Shipments of beans in bags other than what are termed standard railroad bags will be advanced one class. The bag specified measures when empty 19½x35 inches and the contents must not weigh more than 100 pounds. Since it is customary to ship two bushels of beans in the bags now used by the seed trade, the weight of which is approximately 120 pounds, effort will be made to have this bag included in the railroad standard bags, or else seed beans,

KELWAY'S POLICY.

The Review has received the following letter from Kelway & Son, Langport, England:

"We have before us your issue of April 15 and must thank you for the very full review you have given our catalogues. We notice one statement which might be misconstrued in view of our widely advertised policy in the trade today; viz., your remarks that one of our lists is intended for the gardener and the other for the farmer. Our aim is to get into touch with seedsmen, seed merchants and those engaged in the purveying of seeds of any kind and our price lists are published in full and complete detail so that they may form a reference book throughout the year to members of the trade.

"We might say that in England we were the pioneers of this 'wholesale only' policy and were the first to institute the system of passing on orders received from retail sources to our nearest customer in the seed trade. Maybe you could find a small space just to put this right and we thank you in anticipation thereof."

VEGETABLE SEED CROPS.

The general condition of vegetable seed crops in the United States, exclusive of California, is below normal, as reported to the bureau of markets of the Department of Agriculture. The weather has been cold and otherwise unfavorable for the development of crops which have been planted. This factor, together with the uncertainty of labor, has also delayed the planting of late-sown crops.

Practically no seed crops have been planted in Connecticut, New Jersey and other growing sections in the east except the relatively small acreage of biennials. These crops, which include beet, carrot, onion and turnip, are making a fair growth at this time. The growing condition of peppers for seed in Georgia is below normal, because of excessive rains and continued cold weather.

ing districts of the Pacific northwest the crop is now being planted under fairly favorable conditions. Seeding as a whole will be completed later than in a normal season. The crop in California is not so promising as earlier in the season, because of the abnormally heavy rainfall during March and late frosts which followed. The damage is estimated to be twenty-five to thirty per cent and reports indicate that the satisfactory yield which was expected will not be obtained.

Growers in Colorado are fifteen to thirty days late in planting their vine crops, but the soil is in excellent condition and there is plenty of water for irrigation. Reports are conflicting as to the labor situation, but on the whole there seems to be no great shortage. The wages being paid, however, are higher than last year and some growers are inclined to reduce the acreage of those crops which require the most hand labor. The condition of the watermelon seed crop in Florida is reported about ninety per cent of last year and eighty-five per cent of normal, because of excessive rains and cold weather.

The unusually small percentage of the cabbage seed crop in the Puget sound district that survived the winter has made fairly satisfactory progress this spring, but is not in as good condition as at this time last year. The crop on Long Island has made slow growth since transplanted.

COMPILATION OF SEED LAWS.

In accordance with the resolution of J. M. Lupton, chairman of the legislative committee, adopted at the 1918 convention of the American Seed Trade Association, a compilation of the seed laws of the United States, both federal and state, has been made by the association's counsel, Curtis Nye Smith. The compilation will be published in loose-leaf form, so that seedsmen may have them for reference, if a sufficient number of subscriptions is forthcoming. The cost depends upon the number of subscriptions. Those who wish copies should communicate with the counsel of the A. S. T. A. at once.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

A. A. N. CONVENTION PROGRAM.

Discussion, Not Addresses.

For the forty-fifth annual convention of the American Association of Nurserymen, to be held in Chicago June 23 to 25, no formal program of papers and addresses is being prepared. Instead the time will be devoted to discussion of business subjects. As the association has grown into a business organization, it is the wish of the officers and presumably of all the members to make this a business meeting. In order, then, to leave a clear track for the business that has to be transacted, no formal program of prepared papers and addresses has been arranged.

"Somehow," says Secretary Watson, "it has never seemed just the right thing to parcel out the time of the convention in advance; on the other hand, to bring up each subject in turn, with the floor free to every member, with ample opportunity to discuss each subject presented and to introduce other subjects, seems a direct way to secure the participation of all members in the work of the convention."

That members will have some program to discuss is rather eloquently indicated by this list of subjects that the association has in hand right now:

Market development.
Publicity.
Costs.
Seedlings and raw materials.
Inspection and quarantine.
The landscape gardener.
Standardization of plant names.
The planter's viewpoint.
Coöperation with pomological and horticultural societies.
Nursery training in agricultural colleges.
Business ethics.
Advertising.
Credits and collections.
Surplus and shortages.
Relations with professional landscape architects.
Coöperation with seedsmen and florists.
Standardization of grades.
The agricultural and horticultural press.
Legislation.
Packing.
Tariff.
Federal and state competition.
Transportation.
Express weight limits.
Arbitration.
Storage.
Compensation by the government for stock destroyed as a precautionary measure.
Provision for plantings around federal buildings.

"The whole idea in this plan," says Secretary Watson, "is to see that every member has the fullest opportunity to bring forward any subject of interest to him and of possible interest to the trade and the association, to see that ample opportunity is afforded for full discussion and mature deliberation before acting on any matter affecting the policy and activities of the association.

"Letters received already indicate that members have enjoyed a busy and prosperous season and that they intend to use some of their well earned profits in attending the convention. Nurserymen will be on hand who have not been at a convention in five years. It will unquestionably be the largest turnout we have ever had."

Preceding the business sessions there will be a get-acquainted dinner at the Congress hotel on the evening of June 22 at 7 o'clock, to establish an atmosphere of fellowship that will expedite the business sessions.

Hotel Arrangements.

The Congress hotel has been selected as headquarters for the convention. The meetings will be held at 10 a. m. each day in the Florentine room of the hotel. Since all Chicago hotels are crowded, reservations should be made early. The rates at the Congress are:

Rooms with bath for one person, $5 per day and up.
Rooms with bath for two persons, $7 per day and up.
Rooms without bath for one person, $3 per day and up.
Rooms without bath for two persons, $5 per day and up.

The hotel management has generously placed at the disposal of the ladies a large and pleasant room adjoining the convention hall, where they can arrange to meet their friends and make up their parties for sight-seeing or whatever program they wish to carry out. A maid will be in attendance and every provision made for their comfort. "Bring your wife," urges Secretary Watson, "she can vote now."

AMERICAN PEONY SOCIETY.

Arrangements for Show at Reading.

With regard to the coming peony show, to be held at the Berkshire hotel, Reading, Pa., June 10 and 11, the following information from B. H. Farr, of Wyomissing, Pa., will be of interest to intending exhibitors and to visitors generally:

"As hotels are and will continue to be crowded, it is of vital importance that visitors who contemplate staying overnight should make reservations at the Berkshire hotel in advance. I have already received some notices of reservations to be made and shall be glad Electros of this illustration free with each order for 1000 or more if requested.

Have you seen a garden bordered with

Box-Barberry

this spring? Every plant bright and green—not a dead one. A strong contrast to the northern Buxus bordered garden, now either dead or sadly winter injured, brown and dejected looking.

Mr. Siebrecht, the veteran plantsman, on seeing the garden the other day shown in accompanying illustration, exclaimed with his characteristic enthusiasm: "Magnificent! There is a fortune in it for the nurserymen."

We offer you well rooted dormant summer frame cuttings ready to set out direct into the nursery without further expense to you at

Many of the leading catalogue firms have already contracted with us for their supply for the ensuing season, and others are buying these frame grown plants for their own planting, preparing for the enormous demand which is sure to follow.

It is a safe statement that BOX-BARBERRY will soon be the plantsman's best seller.

"In the second place, flowers for exhibition from a distance can be sent in my care, addressed B. H. Farr, American Peony Society, Berkshire hotel, Reading, Pa. Exhibitors whose blooms open in advance of the date of the show can send them to me five to ten days before the show and we will place them in cold storage, which can be done at the nominal charge of 25 cents per package of any size for any length of time. That is the way I have had to handle most of the flowers I have sent to previous exhibitions. Our storage plant here is dry storage and an exceptionally good one and flowers will keep in perfect condition for some time.

"The clerical work of the show is being taken care of by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, which is furnishing all the entry cards and will have charge of the entry books and make out the exhibitors' cards during the show. David Rust, secretary of the society, will be present with an assistant during the show for that purpose.

"It is especially necessary that intending exhibitors should notify us in advance of the classes in which they expect to enter. Such notice may be sent to me or, to save time, directly to David Rust, secretary of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Finance building, Philadelphia, Pa."

SEATTLE NOTES.

be said of Cecile Brunner, Rose Premier and White Killarney. Some especially colorful Ophelia has been coming from local growers and short-stemmed Russell is also plentiful. The sale of Ward has been heavier, as production is on the increase again and this flower offers the buyer a chance to break away from the ordinary offerings.

Local gladioli are showing as fine color and strength of stem as have ever been seen and the stock moves out almost as fast as it can be cut. The stores have been especially heavy buyers of this offering, using it in tall baskets and vases as a window trim. Snapdragons are still scarce and below the demand, but arrivals have been increasing somewhat.

Good quality and strength of stem are to be seen in the late deliveries of carnations, although white stock has been the best keeper of the local deliveries. Spokane Laddies are not quite so plentiful as they were a few weeks ago, but will be up to normal on deliveries within a short time.

Various Notes.

Some of the best tulips seen in the local markets recently have been handled by Rosaia Bros., their yellow Darwins being long keepers and of especially fine color. These were offered both cut and in pots. This firm has also been featuring local peonies. An increased supply of Ward roses was shown in wall baskets and vases in combination with dwarf California oranges and foliage, making a nice novelty. The hydrangea season is considered about over, with only a few choice De Moto plants still available for large decorations.

A number of big weddings have been handled lately by the Hollywood Gardens and several especially elaborate wedding bouquets were made up. The increased supply of gardenias, orchids and lily of the valley made these flowers favorites here. This firm is bringing in some fine gladioli from its own greenhouses and also some excellent snapdragons.

A nice business in bedding stock and an increased call for cut flowers are reported by the Fremont Floral Co. As the result of the completion of new road-work, the greenhouse and salesroom of this firm are on one of the most popular drives, a fact conducive to heavier sales of late.

Effective arrangements of lilacs and other distinctively spring offerings in the display windows of Kenney's Home of Flowers were seen last week and baskets using these combinations have been especially good sellers. The use of salal, broom and fruit blossoms has also been popular, but the supply of fruit blossoms has been lighter since the high winds and rains of two weeks ago.

Henry Day, manager of the Orpheum Floral Co., has been bringing in good-sized quantities of Russell roses and yellow irises from California; these arrivals were received in much better shape than was the case several weeks back. Baby roses have been arriving and have been active sellers when featured in the sales windows. Another attractive novelty shown by this firm was Bridesmaid roses.

Harry Crouch, of the Woodlawn Flower Shop, offered a well liked novelty last week. Corsages were made up of Darwin tulips in the deeper shades, backed with either maidenhair ferns or their own leaves. These offered the buyer something unusual, kept well and were comparatively low-priced. Miss Josephine Peterson is away on a short vacation.

McCoy's featured the spring idea in one of the display windows effectively last week, using moss to hide the flooring and a white picket fence to break up the square effect of the window. In front of this fence, with the pots concealed in the moss, were arranged various spring flowers, while ferns and taller greens were set behind it.

Some short-stemmed Ophelia roses which excelled anything shown of late in point of color have been offered by Anna F. Burns, of the Burns Floral Co. H. M.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. is cutting some superb cattleyas, which, while worth much more, are bringing only $9 per dozen. American Beauties are arriving, and a few outdoor lilies of the valley, which are demanding $6 per bunch of 100 sprays.

According to the report issued last week by Gifford Pinchot, chief forester of the Pennsylvania department of forestry, more than 70,000 young forest trees were planted on private lands in Allegheny county this spring. These trees were supplied without cost to the thirty-three planters in that county by the state forestry department.

Thomas McKee Elliott has resigned as secretary of the Elliott Nursery Co. and is contemplating an extended western trip.

E. F. Beirmann, proprietor of the South Side Floral Co., 1713 Carson street, reports satisfactory trade, considering the off season.

F. H. Riegelmeier, 1830 Carson street, is also exceedingly busy with general work.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob J. Fuchs, 1710 Carson street, are contemplating an extended trip to the Pacific coast, also including Arizona, during the summer months.

East Liberty florists are curious to know the proprietor of a new flower store, advertised to open upon the completion of a building now being renovated on Shady avenue, just off Penn avenue. The enterprise will occupy the first floor of the building, but no clue is given as to the identity of the owners. E. E. S.

Fertilizer Company Enjoined.

The McIntyre Floral Co. was recently successful in securing from the Chancery court a permanent injunction prohibiting the Prairie State Fertilizer Co. from rebuilding its factory near the range of the McIntyre Floral Co. The latter company claimed that the process of crushing certain kinds of rock, in connection with the manufacture of fertilizer, released large quantities of sulphur, which settled on the greenhouses and seriously darkened the interiors. It was also claimed that the health of the people living or working in that vicinity was injured by their breathing the fumes which were given off. A short time ago the buildings of the fertilizer company burned down; it planned to rebuild in the same place and the injunction was sought to prevent this happening. The chancellor held that the operation of the fertilizer plant was a nuisance in the eyes of the law and issued the injunction.

DULUTH, MINN.

The Market.

A review of the business for the month of May shows that it has been quite good. Not only was Mothers' day the best in years, but the general run of business, in plants, seeds, etc., has been exceptionally good.

Roses and carnations are plentiful and the quality good. There are plenty of good sweet peas, for which there is a great demand. Tulips, mignonette, calendulas, Narcissus poeticus, peonies and snapdragons compose the list of sundry flowers.

Memorial day is looked forward to with great anticipation and, since it is on Sunday, a great volume of business is expected.

Various Notes.

The seed department of the Duluth Floral Co. had a record business during May. It also has a good showing of magnolia wreaths for Memorial day.

J. J. Le Borious says that he will have a heavy crop of carnations in cutting for Memorial day.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

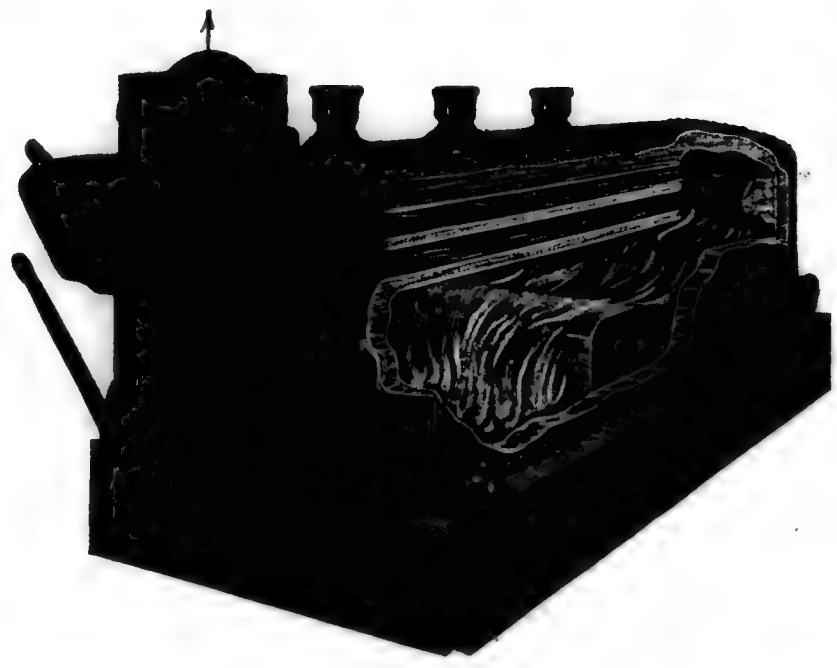
CIRCULATION WITHOUT PUMP.

I am building a greenhouse, 40x100 feet, with two feet of concrete and four feet of glass in the side walls and both ends of glass. It is sixteen feet high at the gables. I should like to maintain a heat of 60 degrees when it is 20 degrees below zero. I shall use 2-inch pipe for coils. What size of boiler should I use? I shall use soft coal. Would you advise using a pump or circulating machine to get quick circulation? G. Mc.—Can.

To heat a greenhouse 40x100 feet to 60 degrees under the severe conditions stated, use a boiler rated for about 8,500 to 9,000 square feet of glass or 2,800 to 3,000 square feet of radiation. It should have a grate with at least eight square feet of surface and nine feet would be even better. This will require a chimney fifteen inches in diameter and thirty-two to thirty-six feet high, measuring from the point where the smoke pipe enters.

For a house 100 feet in length, a good circulation can be secured without the use of a pump, provided the top of the boiler is below the level of the greenhouse floor.

There should be either two 4-inch flow pipes or one 6-inch and the returns should be of the same capacity. One 6-inch flow pipe and two 4-inch returns would be a good combination.



For the radiating surface use seven 2½-inch flow pipes, placing one upon each plate, another three or four feet below the ridge and the others on the purlin posts. Each of the seven flow pipes should supply a coil of four 2-inch returns. The outside coils may be either on the side walls or under the side benches, if they are next to the walls, and the other coils may be distributed under the other benches. The flows, as well as the return pipes, should have a slight fall, but this should only be sufficient to keep the air from pocketing. With this arrangement and with the expansion tank connected with the highest points in the flow pipes, there will be no occasion for using air valves.

BOILER TUBES AS FLOWS.

I have a range of five connected greenhouses, each 14x80 feet. The height is seven feet to the eaves. The side walls are two and a half feet of cement and four and a half feet of glass, as shown in the sketch I am sending you. What horsepower boiler would be correct for steam heat? What is correct for hot water heat? How many 4-inch boiler flues should be used in the heating system? Is it better to have the heating pipes

The immense amount of direct self-cleaning heating surface and the thin vertical waterways cause this type of boiler construction to heat water quicker than any other form of boiler.

Hundreds of Florists' Review readers are using the Kroeschell Boiler and mighty is their praise. The year of 1920 has brought us an enormous number of new customers who have seen our boiler in operation at other places. We attribute the large sales of this season to the good work the Kroeschell Boiler is doing everywhere. With our policy—"the customers' interest first"—perfection of construction—factory to user prices—honest and "true blue" boiler ratings—you simply cannot lose.

whether steam or hot water is used for heating.

To heat a range 70x80 feet to 60 degrees in zero weather, a boiler should be rated for at least 3,000 square feet of hot water radiation, which will require a grate of about ten square feet.

While ordinarily it is preferable to run the flow pipes overhead—that is, either on the plates or purlins, or at a point two feet below the ridge—this is done when 2½-inch or 3-inch pipes are used. With 4-inch boiler tubes as flow pipes it would be best to place them just below the plates.

The five houses would have six walls and you might run a 4-inch flow pipe on each wall near the plate. The returns should consist of three 4-inch pipes on each of the outside walls, or under the outer benches. Upon each of the other walls there should be four 4-inch pipes. If preferred, two of these pipes may be under the benches on each side of the posts.

Instead of using the 4-inch pipes, it is preferable to use one 3-inch flow upon each wall and four 2-inch returns on the outside walls, with seven returns on each of the other walls.

For heating the house with steam, use one 1½-inch flow on each wall, with four 1¼-inch returns on each outside wall and six returns on each of the other walls. If solid beds are used, some of the returns may be upon each wall and the others either on the sides of the beds in the walks, or on the purlin posts.

BRUNSWICK, GA.

From a tradé point of view the most interesting place in the vicinity of this southern city of 60,000 people is the irrigated tract of 225 acres, devoted to bulbs, plants and cut flowers, operated by Tait Bros. Co. C. S. Tait is one of the older business men of the community; the company takes its name from his two sons, H. S. Tait and A. L. Tait, who are associated with him. Beginning in an amateur way, the growing of bulbs has increased until it is a large business and one which has prospered with war and the rise in prices. As an item, the production of Paper Whites has increased to the point where 250,000 will be delivered to florists for forcing this season. The planting for 1920 crops includes 300,000 other narcissi, King Alfred being a specialty, with other good trumpets, Barrii conspicuus, etc.

It was for hippeastrums, or amaryllis, as the trade still knows them, that the Tait farm first attracted attention. The hybrids possess a range and brilliance of color that make a patch of them a sight to remember, in addition to which the size of flower of some of the later ones is something to marvel at. This season's planting of this specialty amounts to 150,000 bulbs, at least 20,000 of which are blooming size.

Then there are three acres of tuberoses and seventeen acres of gladioli, this being perhaps the most southern point at which the gladiolus is being grown in quantity for bulbs, all of which are sold in the trade.

Considerable quantities of cut flowers are shipped, some of them this season as far north as Wisconsin, but the bulk of the cut stock is marketed in Washington and Baltimore.

DUROPLASTIC

The Famous Plastic Asbestos Glazing Cement

DECORATION DAY is generally conceded to be the winding up of the Spring season by all Greenhouse men. This affords an opportunity to spruce up and make many needed repairs about the greenhouses of damage suffered by last winter's storms. When one considers that repairs made to greenhouses are really an asset of importance and are deductible on the report of income returns at the end of the year, it is a wise move to make expenditures of this kind.

Duroplastic is the glazing cement that should be considered, on account of its ever-elastic. absolutely waterproof and airproof properties. Will outlast putty from three to four times. Prices on Duroplastic: Black—1 gallon @ $1.95; 5 gallons @ $1.85; 15 gallons @ $1.75; 38 gallons @ $1.65. White—5 lbs. @ $0.23; 25 lbs. @ $0.21; 130 lbs. @ $0.19; 400 lbs. @ $0.17.

Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held in Pembroke hall, Glen Cove, Wednesday, May 12. President Twigg occupied the chair. Messrs. Dungee, Donovan, Turkington, Lutton and Van Ginoven were elected to active membership and two petitions for membership were received.

Jesse Frampton, Thomas Scott and Charles Parr judged the monthly exhibits and made the following awards: Twelve pink Darwin tulips, William Churchill, first; twelve mauve Darwin tulips, Edward Harris, first; twelve mixed Darwin tulips, Edward Harris, first. A cultural certificate was awarded Joseph L. Winsock for a fine plant of calceolaria. It was announced that the tulip show would be held in Pembroke hall Wednesday evening, May 26.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the open discussion of the damage done to trees and shrubs last winter. Mr. Reed, of New York, gave a short talk.

The exhibits for the next meeting, June 9, will be twelve hybrid tea roses, three heads of lettuce and twelve mushrooms. P. W. Popp offers a special prize for the best decorated basket of flowers exhibited by an assistant gardener.

The Market.

The weather has been more favorable the last week and stock is showing up well for so late in the season. Sweet peas have suffered most, owing to the dark weather, but will be of fair quality for a few weeks. Snapdragons are showing rust and are of poor quality. Gladioli, however, have filled in the gap and are ready sellers, the quality of Halley, America, Pendleton and Panama being exceptional.

Double white feverfew of excellent quality, indoor-grown, can now be had and sells on sight. Roses have been scarce for a day or two, owing to a wreck on the railroad. The train which brings most of the stock to this city, among the shipments being those of the Joseph H. Hill Co., of Richmond, Ind., was wrecked. The baggage car was completely demolished and flowers and baskets were strewn along the track. Most of the stock that was thought to be salable and was salvaged from the wreck, later turned out to be bruised too badly for any use. Some of the retailers were badly handicapped by this and there was some scrambling to fill orders for several store openings.

Various Notes.

Lous Kyrk is receiving the first cornflowers of the season.

The William Murphy Co. receives daily shipments of high-grade gladioli.

C. E. Critchell reports business as excellent. Roses are leaders here.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange is handling a good grade of miscellaneous stock.

H. W. Sheppard has been busy with funeral work. Orders are coming from all points of the compass. H. E. K.

The Market.

Stock has been plentiful, but has not been a drag on the market, because the demand has been good. Easter lilies are an exception, as they have been moving slowly. Callas are not abundant.

Roses continue in the usual supply and range from $4 to $16 per hundred in the commercial grades. Fancies run higher. Carnations have been in good supply and prices have dropped to $4 and $6 per hundred.

Gladioli are scarce, the miniature varieties being in the majority. Sweet peas are fairly abundant and are of good quality. Outdoor valley has arrived. Calendulas are deteriorating and are about over. Snapdragons are in good supply and sell fairly well. A few miscellaneous flowers are available, including tulips, delphiniums, daisies, marguerites, etc.

Bedding stock is now in great demand. The temperature, having suddenly risen, has caused great activity in this line. There seems to be a heavy supply, but indications point to a good season.

Various Notes.

J. C. Nielsen, of Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, and his wife motored to Indianapolis recently.

Thomas Woodard, of Edinburg, Ind., was a visitor last week.

E. E. Temperley spent the week-end in Shelbyville, visiting the florists there.

At Least Unlock the Door and Look In Suppose you heard that your neighbor florist, over on the other side of the town, had a wonderful new machine that could make two flowers out of every one he grew outdoors, all summer long.

Two bunches of sweet peas, two dozen asters, two stalks of gladioli, for every one he had ever been able to grow before.

And that this new machine would put twice as many flower leads on his carnation plants, by the time he wanted to bench them, as he had ever been able to get before.

And then suppose that this fellow who was getting double crops should run across you some day and hand you the key to the place where this wonderful machine of his was at work, and tell you to go in and see things for yourself.

Wouldn't you at least unlock the door and look in?

We have the testimony of scores of honest florists and gardeners that they are getting two and three times as many marketable blooms from their flowers by using Skinner System Irrigation, as they ever got without it?

Full information about what the Skinner System is, why it doubles profits, and how you can use it, no matter how large or small your place, is contained in our new catalogue, "RAIN for the Asking."

Don't you think it would be worth your while to unlock the door and look in and see how it works, by sending for a copy?

And why not send now, while you have it in mind?

CHRYSANTHEMUM PLANTS.
Rooted cuttings from sand and soil.

Early Frost, Polly Rose, Oconto, Chas. Rager, Nonin, Roman Gold, Marigold, Pacific Supreme, hieftain, Pink Seidewitz and Red Seidewitz, $3.00 per 100, $27.50 per 1000.

Wm. Turner, J. Nonin, Mistletoe, Yellow Turner, Yellow Rager and Dr. Enguehard, $3.50 per 100, $30.00 per 1000.

Golden Mensa and Single Pink, $2.00 per 100, $17.50 per 1000.

Unaka, White Patty and Pink Patty, $1.50 per 100, Net. $15.00 per 1000, Net.

Unaka is the best early pink, large fine flower, sy and strong grower. It should be in every tail Chrysanthemum collection.

Pink and White Patty are almost indispens- ble. Large, fine, full double flowers when sbudded and grown one or more flowers per nt. They are also very fine grown as sprays ithout disbudding and produce quantities of od blooms. They are excellent pot flowers.

We have a very large stock of these three rieties; having a large surplus both rooted ttings from sand and branching plants from il, equal to potted stock. While they last, order to make room at once, we will make e plants from soil the same as rooted cut- ngs, the very low price of $1.50 per 100, 5.00 per 1000, NET.

Geneva Floral Co., Geneva, N. Y.

CYCLAMEN

FERD FISCHER,
Wiesbaden, Germany

ANNOUNCES

IN AMERICA

My customers of former years and all other growers of Cyclamens will please take notice that, owing to the disturbed condition of communication and of shipping direct

I HAVE ARRANGED

with the

AMERICAN BULB CO.,
172 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, to handle my entire crop of Cyclamen seeds this season.

My seed this season will consist of:
Three varieties of Salmon.
Three varieties of Red.
Pink.
Pink with Red Eye.
White.
White with Red Eye.
Rococco in variety.

Mr. Koehler, of the American Bulb Co., has visited my place this spring and has told me he found it the best he has seen in Germany, with the finest varieties and the stock in best condition.

ALL ORDERS

FOR 1920 CROPS

FERD FISCHER'S FAMOUS

CYCLAMEN SEED

SHOULD BE SENT TO

AMERICAN BULB CO.,
172 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Ferd Fischer, Wiesbaden

Cyclamen from 3-in., ready now for 4-in., good strong plants from best strain of seed, the following colors mixed, Salmon King, red, pink, white and white with eye, $20.00 per 100. Also a few twice transplanted seedlings, $8.00 per 100. Cash with order.
C. G. Locke, Arkport, N. Y.

CYCLAMEN

Cyclamen have been sold by personal solicitation and advertised in the Florist's Review for many years under the name of Augspurger. The strain that I offer has been established as one of the best commercial strains and after all, that is the safe foundation to build upon. Plants are grown by growers who have grown Cyclamen for years and stock is good. Cyclamen have proven to be one of the best plant sellers the past season and there is nothing in sight that will displace them this season, therefore prepare now for next season's supply. This is the ideal time to buy, to grow on your stock. Can offer in salmon, light pink, light red, dark red and few white. Plants will be packed right.

Size	Per 100	Per 1000

SEEDS

I would kindly invite you to correspond with me in reference to your wants in seeds, especially in Cyclamen, Pansy and Asparagus Plumosus Nanus and Asparagus Sprengeri. The Cyclamen I offer is one of the best commercial strains on the market and yet the price is moderate. New crop ready about August 1st. I am pleased to quote as follows: Cyclamen, Giant English strain.

All at $12.00 per 1000, in single or hundred thousand lots, except where noted.

Salmon King, salmon pink.
Princess May, pale pink.
Vulcan, deep crimson.

Persicum Giganteum, white with red eye
Persicum Rose, rose with deep eye

ROLF ZETLITZ CO.,

Dayton, Ohio.

A CHOICE STRAIN OF

Cyclamen seed, will create the greatest pleasure for the grower, when they make that beautiful show of large well colored, long heavy stemmed flowers, standing erect above such silvery lined foliage as our choice strain will produce and is the only way to avoid disappointments, when they come to bloom.

We have that strain of which I am sure there is no better, and can not be surpassed, at least that is the conviction of our many customers.

Scarcity of such extra good seed, will put price much higher the coming season, for early sowing, purchase now so to have it on hand.

The following colors are now available: Christmas Red, Defiance, dark blood and bright red, dark and light salmon, $2.00 per 100, $18.00 per 1000. Our cultural directions go with all orders, in them you will find a life-time experience. Cash please.

C. Winterich, Cyclamen Specialist, St. Petersburg, The Sunshine City of Florida.

STURDY CYCLAMEN

Do you want strong, stocky Cyclamen plants, out of the ordinary quality, not spindly plants, grown in too high temperature, but sturdy plants, with stamina in them; ready to grow into great big specimen plants, that should carry 20 or 30 or more giant blooms at a time, about Thanksgiving and Christmas.

We have them. You want them. What does it matter if you pay us a few cents more per plant, if you can get a dollar or so more per plant when you sell them next winter. You pay us 35c for a 3-in. pot plant in June and sell the same plant in December for $5.00 and up.

We ship in paper pots and send cultural directions. Salmon King, Salmon Queen, Crimson St. George, Grandiflora Alba, blood red and other varieties, 2¼-in. pot plants, $15.00 per 100, $135.00 per 1000; 3-in. pot plants, $35.00 per 100, $315.00 per 1000. Cash or satisfactory references.

VINES ON TREES.

I should like to know if vines, such as Begonia venusta, yellow jasmine and wisterias, will kill trees that they climb on. We have them here that cover the tops of the tallest pine trees. I cut them back several years ago to within twenty feet of the ground, but now they cover the trees again and if they do no harm I do not want to cut them back. A. B.—Fla.

There is an important point which enters into the answering of this question and it is whether the effect of the vines or a fine specimen tree is the object most desired.

While it will take a long time for a vine to kill a tree, unless the vine is kept well within bounds it will eventually ruin it as a fine specimen.

If for any reason a tree starts to let up on its vigorous growth and it is not desirable to remove it entirely, then vines can be allowed to grow up into it to serve the purpose of creating a natural effect. M. P.

BORERS IN WILLOW TREE.

I am sending a piece of the inside of a willow tree which was blown down sometime last winter. This tree was planted near a summer cottage by the bank of the Detroit river and must have been 50 years old. Until last winter it was a beautiful tree, showing no sign of disease, but after it had fallen I discovered that the inside of it was all like the piece which I am sending you. I thought perhaps you could tell me what was the matter with it.
T. L. B.—Mich.

The wood sent was completely perforated with the tunnels of borers, which frequently attack those and other trees and shrubs. C. W.

TIME TO SOW ASTER SEED.

I am planning to grow Vick's Late Branching Asters on a large scale and wish that you would tell me when to start the seeds. We usually have a late fall here, near the lake. O. J.—Wis.

The seeds of Vick's Branching asters should be sown not later than June 1; a few days earlier would be better.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

City's First Iris Show Coming.

The first iris show ever held in Minneapolis will take place in June in the lobby of the Northwestern National bank under the auspices of the American Iris Society and with the assistance of the Northwestern Peony and Iris Society. Many commercial and amateur growers have given evidence of a lively interest in the coming event and are arranging for exhibits. Medals, ribbons, a sweepstakes cup and other awards are being arranged for. Information concerning entries may be obtained from Professor Leroy Cady, of the University of Minnesota Farm School.

Beacon, N. Y.—The Home Garden Brigade, which was founded by Benjamin Hammond several years ago, is today one of the largest organizations in the state. Its numbers have been greatly increased this year.

FOLEY GREENHOUSES

Harlem Avenue Range of Frank Oechslin, Chicago

THE same care and sound judgment which Mr. Oechslin applies to all of his business ventures, are naturally used in the selection of his greenhouses.

Some years ago he purchased his first Foley Houses, this addition practically completing the old range on Quincy Street.

Within a short time additional growing space was necessary, and the Harlem Avenue site was selected for future expansion. Excellent growing conditions and many other advantages made it the ideal location.

All of the houses in this new Model Pot Plant Range are of Foley Construction, a fact which we are naturally proud of.

THEN USE

Federal Elastic Cement

"The glazing cement without an equal" to tighten your greenhouse

Federal Elastic Cement is put up in all sizes from 1 gallon cans to barrels—one gallon is equal to three gallons of putty. It is cheaper than putty and will last at least from two to five times as long. It holds the glass, thus reducing breakage. These are just a few of the many reasons why you should use Federal Elastic Cement for your glazing work. Placing your order now assures you of having your supply when needed.

Our advice on all glazing problems is free to you.

Federal Elastic Cement has no equal for coating over brickwork boiler settings.

Clear Cypress Free from Sap

—2 x 2¾, fine for bench cross pieces and stringers. This lumber cost $180.00 per 1000 feet. It is the same as we use for millwork. It has small dowel holes in it, but on account of its being clear, straight grain lumber, it is as strong as 2 x 4 pecky and will last twice as long. And—

You get about 30 per cent more pieces, on account of the size.

About 50,000 linear feet in stock for immediate shipment.

This is a Big Bargain.

Greenhouse Builders

it is an Iron framer.

Here are the Fasanellas themselves, even to the youngster, looking up at the construction with appreciative eyes.

An Object Lesson In Business Building

When you come to think about it, it's a wonder the Italians are not the greatest greenhouse growers of all. No nation better understands how to get the most out of a little ground.

It is from sunny Italy we get the three-story crop. The grape vine at the top; some small fruit, like currants, in the spaces beneath the grapes; and between the rows, vegetables.

Do we hear of the lands of Italy being exhausted? Not a bit of it. Not any more than we do the lands of China, which have been cropped and recropped with the same crops for not hundreds, but thousands of years.

We Americans, how we do pin flowers on ourselves for being the most advanced nation of the world! But in agriculture and horticulture, we have yet a long, long way to go to catch up with Old World intensive methods.

With Italy's heritage in their blood, of making much out of a little, the Fasanellas came to this country and made everything count, until they could count enough dollars to buy what they now call a "shack of a greenhouse." But how they did make those shacks pay!

At the same time they were building a business; they were building a confidence. A confidence that when they had enough dollars to think of buying a big Lord & Burnham iron frame house, there were those who were willing to back them.

And so now, these two hustling people of ancient Roman lineage have been sending to the New York market as fine carnations as anyone.

Already with a vision for building a business big enough for their boys, they are planning for more houses.

And right here, let it be known that Mrs. Fasanella doesn't do any looking on. She is right in the thick of things, being both a mate and a partner in every sense of the word.

The snug little home we built for them, adjoining the greenhouse, is as neat as wax, as is the greenhouse.

All of which only shows what can be done if you only have the determination to do it.

FLORISTS' SUPPLIES

Staple and De Luxe

TRADE visitors to the Chicago Market, as well as buyers who have entrusted us with mail orders, appreciate that our Supply Department carries a stock

Unexcelled for Extent, Variety and Quality

In the upbuilding of this department it has been our purpose to inspire and justify the confidence which leads to orders to us whenever honest, dependable merchandise is wanted at fair prices. We now invite the whole trade to make use of our exceptional facilities—a letter or telegram to Poehlmann's will result in quick shipment of anything needed.

Our aim is to handle none but standard quality merchandise —we never have been willing to cut quality to quote lower prices.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Owing to the very great increase in price of all materials used in packing of plants, we find it necessary to make a small charge for same, as follows, much lower than the percentage plan:

Full size cases.....$1.50 each
Three-quarter size cases..... 1.00 each
Small size cases..... .50 each

Would suggest taking plants in paper pots whenever possible. It is a big saving in both packing and express charges.

Why We Suggest

THAT YOU USE ONLY

MADE-IN-AMERICA BASKETS and WREATHS

Sentiment does play some part in our business relations. WE KNOW THE AMERICAN PUBLIC PREFERS TO BUY "MADE-IN AMERICA" goods instead of "MADE IN GERMANY" or any foreign country, for that matter.

Patriotic Americans take just pride in home-made products, particularly when they excel the imported—they are anxious to see their country prosperous, for to them it is "AMERICA FIRST, LAST AND ALL THE TIME."

ON STEADY EMPLOYMENT, AT FAIR WAGES, FOR A FULL DAY'S WORK, depends the prosperity of this country. FOREIGN GOODS DRAW MONEY OUT—AMERICAN-MADE GOODS KEEP MONEY IN THE COUNTRY—they keep OUR WORKERS EMPLOYED, themselves and their families prosperous and happy, with INCREASED BUYING POWER because of STEADY EARNINGS.

Sprinkleproof Chiffon

Emphasizes the beauty of your flowers. It is strange that many florists are very particular regarding the freshness of flowers, whereas they will tie on floral pieces the ordinary sticky, wilting chiffon. Instead of improving the appearance of the flowers, it really detracts. By using our well known SPRINKLEPROOF CHIFFON, controlled and distributed exclusively by us, your floral designs arrive at their destination in perfect condition. The chiffon is not affected by moisture and adds beauty to your floral work. You cannot afford to use ordinary wilting chiffon when you can purchase the well known Sprinkleproof at prices within the reach of every florist, large or small. At your service.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

BLUSHING BRIDES BRING BUSINESS

The hackneyed phrase, "Here comes the bride," means more to the florist than a few notes from the famous march which accompanies the bride down the aisle. When a girl becomes a bride, flowers play an important part in the occasion. That is why June is so profitable a month for florists.

JUNE is the bride's month, not because there are so many more of her kind at this time than there are in other months, but because she receives more attention at this time than at any other. And in this greater attention, flowers play an important part. June is the fashionable time to get married and it is the fashionable people who use a profusion of flowers. The weddings of June average of better quality than do the weddings of the rest of the year, considering them from the florist's viewpoint. They call for more and better flowers.

A period of prosperity unparalleled in the history of our country, not limited to any one portion, but extending nation-wide, has had its effects upon all classes. The wealth per capita at the present time is much higher than it was a few years ago. And with this wealth, social affairs have surpassed previous splendor. To say that weddings this June will be more than usually gorgeous would be putting it mildly.

Free Spending.

The high prices of everything during the war and the higher prices since its close have educated the people to spend larger sums freely. To meet these high prices, more money has been in circulation and more has been and will be spent. For the weddings this June a large amount will find its way into florists' coffers.

There is no time that a florist handles orders when his product and workmanship receive such critical attention as at a wedding. The flowers are subject to as keen scrutiny as the bride's gown. There is so much sentimentality attached to a wedding that if every little thing does not please, a cloud is thrown over the occasion. The work of a florist on an occasion of this kind is sure to "make or break" him.

June weddings give the florist an opportunity to put his work before discriminating eyes and if it pleases, he is sure to hear about it and if it does not, there is no doubt that he will hear about it in more than one way. It should be remembered that every person present at this momentous occasion is a possible flower buyer and there is no better time for advertising. A pleasing wedding decoration is as good a form of advertisement as any other, perhaps better, because of the personal contact with prospective flower buyers.

The wedding order takes in so much that the florist who is really an artist is given an opportunity to give his creative genius full sway. The decorations at the home and at the church and the making up of the bouquets all require expert attention. Like everything else fashions, prices, politicians—the style of decorations changes. People have not the same ideas about house and church decorations that they had a few years ago. Of recent years the customer looks largely to the decorator for advice and suggestions. It is different from the time when the customer had everything planned and allowed the florist merely to execute the order. But although now the decorator uses his own ideas, the effect must please the customer.

In the large cities, the apartment hotel has taken the place of many homes. These hotels, though different from the ordinary transient hotel, are public places where fashionable people congregate, hold dinners, dances and all manner of social functions. A decoration in one of these hotels means a large order to a florist. It usually takes more than the usual amount of stock and of course the work must be of the highest possible grade. And aside from the immediate remuneration for such work, the advertising value of an excellent decoration is of considerable importance.

After Business.

Has it ever occurred to anyone what a wedding would be without flowers? Can such a thing be imagined? One would say that it is possible, but of course not probable. But with this knowledge that there is almost an absolute necessity for flowers, does the florist rest and wait for the orders to come to him? Some do. A feature of this business is that it is selling something that a person wants. What could be easier than selling something a person must have?

It is not every florist, however, who gets many wedding orders. But why not? It rests entirely with him. There is so much to these June opportunities that every florist should make an earnest effort to get the business. To be indifferent to wedding work is a grave mistake. It is letting Opportunity skin her knuckles knocking upon your door. It pays back many times more than the investment. The usually large sum involved in the one transaction is added to by the favorable comment of the work and the new customers because of it. That such an idea as that the busy season for florists ends with Memorial day should have been prevalent so long is to be wondered at. The month of June can be made a quite busy one.

Advertising Mediums.

Going after the business and attracting the attention of the public to wedding flowers, and especially to your offerings, is a matter of much importance. The one principal way, although it has many variations, is advertising. There is no doubt that the newspaper is the best medium and those who intend to get a good share of this business do not limit themselves in using display space.

Another medium is the wedding booklet. A handsomely printed and well worded booklet, sent to all customers on the mailing list, containing facts about wedding flowers, customs and illustrations of decorations, is sure to bring results. The results may not come from the customer to whom the booklet has been sent, but from a friend of the customer. It might also be sent to the home of any marriageable young lady whose address can be procured. This booklet, it has been proved, is an unusually good medium for getting wedding business.

Window Displays.

Then there is the window decoration, which nearly every florist who is located in a busy place has every year. Some florists make a specialty of creating new ideas in window decorations for getting wedding business. This medium, which is most commonly used, does not reach the largest number of prospective wedding flower buyers. To get the wedding business, advertising must be placed so as to reach the largest number of those who are going to use the flowers. The window attracts many who are not in need of flowers for that special purpose. But although the window may not reach some of those who are in immediate need of wedding decorations, a good display will surely bring your name to mind when there is need. It is the lasting impressions that the florist wants to make, both in window displays and in the wedding decorations, bouquets, etc. It is his work which brings his store to mind when flowers are needed.

"Here comes the bride" means here comes the florist's opportunity.

GARDENERS' CONVENTION.

At St. Louis in September.

The dates for the annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners have been set for September 14 to 16, at St. Louis, Mo. The Marquette hotel has been selected as the headquarters and meeting place of the convention and the following committee is in charge of the local arrangements: Program, George H. Pring; reception, Hugo Schaff; entertainment, Ernst Strehle; decoration, John Moritz; publicity, Prof. H. C. Irish.

This convention of the association will be the most important in its history, as several matters which will have much bearing on the future of the gardening profession will be presented to the convention for consideration. The subject of examination and classification for the gardeners, which was referred by the Cleveland convention to the next convention, will be submitted for final action.

Good Attendance Expected.

As the convention of the American Association of Park Superintendents will be held in Louisville, Ky., September 9 to 11, a good attendance is looked for at both conventions, as many members are affiliated with the two associations. The dates have been arranged so that members may attend both meetings.

The following country estate owners have recently subscribed as sustaining members of the National Association of Gardeners: W. R. Coe, Oyster Bay, L. I.; J. Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan and W. E. Kimball, Glen Cove, L. I.; E. H. Inman, Atlanta, Ga.; F. M. Sackett, Louisville, Ky.; H. E. Converse, Marion, Mass.; Mrs. C. G. Rice, Ipswich, Mass.; Mrs. W. Stursberg, Great Neck, L. I.; E. F. Price, Port Chester, N. Y., and A. C. Loring, Mound, Minn.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Community Contribution.

The publicity fund is augmented this week by a check from the St. Louis Florists' Publicity Committee for $434.70, a further contribution of twenty-five per cent of money collected by the committee for publicity purposes. Altogether this makes $1,205.70 contributed to the campaign this year by the St. Louis florists. Secretary J. J. Beneke writes that the committee is looking for a big increase in their fund this fall, which means further support to the national campaign.

There are many more communities which could give combined aid to our fund. Some of these are, of course, small in so far as the number of florists is concerned. But if only half a dozen florists would get together and make a joint subscription, it would be quite satisfactory and show a good feeling toward a movement designed only to benefit the trade.

Other Trades' Interest.

The good results forthcoming from our campaign have excited the jealousy of other trades. A particular instance of this is found in the Keystone for May, a trade paper in the jewelry trade. In this number, occupying a full page, is a poetic effusion under the heading, "Say It with Jewelry," illustrated with a picture supposedly showing the advantage of jewelry as a gift that is permanent over one of flowers, quickly perishable.

These jealous interests may pervert our slogan as they will, but "Say It with Flowers" was well conceived, and it cannot suffer so long as we keep on exploiting it. There has always been a language of flowers, and flowers speak this language as nothing else in this world's goods can. Flowers are more than gifts; they are messengers entrusted with the sweetest messages possible of conveyance. In sickness, sorrow and joy they speak—could anything else supplant them?

It is this sentiment that our publicity has been promoting. Flowers were never considered in this light as they are now. Look over our beautiful advertisements, which have appeared in the national magazines, and it must be admitted that they touch the sentimental side of their readers; they place flowers in a different category from that in which they have ordinarily figured. They excite a desire to possess or use flowers under conditions not previously considered, and they remind readers of forgetfulness in the matter of many little courtesies which go to make up the spice of life.

Support Needed.

This has all along been the prime object of the campaign—to induce a greater and more intelligent use of flowers. And it is for this purpose that the support of florists has been asked, support which should enable us to finance the cost of this most necessary publicity. There is no getting away from the fact that the campaign is exerting a wonderful influence for our good, and it should be the absolute duty of every florist, no matter where located, to contribute to the fund whatever amount he can. As we have so often said, such a contribution is an investment pure and simple, and pays mighty good interest. Our committee is sorely in need of further funds to arrange for a vigorous continuance of the campaign, the best movement ever inaugurated in the florists' industry.

If you, reader, have not subscribed already, won't you favor the committee and incidentally yourself by sending a check to the secretary forthwith? Don't worry about the amount—you can send more later if you wish to do so.

The Market.

Almost ideal weather conditions, a late season for outdoor flowers and an increasing custom of grave decoration made Memorial day this year break all records. The situation is summed up in the statement that there was a big demand, with a fair supply and prices approximately the same as a year ago. Probably the feature of the present year's situation was the remarkably large number of designs in magnolia leaves and artificial flowers that were used. Every department store, corner grocery and notion store offered these designs in great number and variety, ranging in price from 98 cents to $6 and $7. Some of the pieces handled by the downtown florists were remarkably handsome and brought good prices.

Potted plants for cemeteries on Memorial day have been growing in favor for several years and the demand was especially large for plants in 3-inch to 6-inch pots. Geraniums were well in the lead in popularity and retailed at from 75 cents to $1.50 per plant. Many of the florists had pans containing three or four plants that brought from $2 to $7.50.

The quotations of the market Saturday morning, May 29, ranged as follows: Carnations, $10 to $15 per hundred; roses, $4 to $25; sweet peas, $1 and $2; callas, $2 and $3 per dozen; valley, mostly field-grown, $2 to $5 per hundred.

Various Notes.

J. E. Koppelman is moving from his store, 47 Eddy street, to enlarged quarters in the building purchased by him several months ago, on Custom House street.

Theodore Peterson, of Hogg's Greenhouses, on Benefit street, had the table decorations, palms and potted plants and nearly a dozen large reception bouquets for the big Knights Templar reception, dinner and ball Thursday, May 27.

M. F. Pollock, who recently gave up her store on Beacon avenue, is now located at 249 Pine street.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Tacoma, Wash.—In the case of Acme Floral Co. vs. Hayden-Watson Floral Co., the receiver, E. K. Murray, has filed his report showing receipts and disbursements and a list of claims, including disputed ones, together with propositions for compromise of them. The receiver asks that a thirty per cent dividend be declared. The court has set June 9, at 10 a. m., as the time for passing on this report.

SHRINERS WILL NAME ROSE.

At Portland Meeting.

During the forty-sixth annual session of the Imperial Council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, to be held at Portland, Ore., this month, a new and unique ceremony will be staged.

Among all the new roses which have been tested upon competitive conditions in Portland's international rose test garden, the one which showed unusual merit was a white rose produced by Captain George C. Thomas, Jr., of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.

For a number of years Captain Thomas has been endeavoring to breed a new line of climbing and semi-climbing roses which would withstand the severe eastern winters.

His new white rose, under the rigid tests given in Portland, has proved its worth, as it scored 94 points out of a possible 100, the bush producing in one summer and fall 189 blooms. This rose was declared the best rose produced by an amateur and therefore entitled to the special trophy of the Portland Rose Society and also a silver medal from the park bureau of the city of Portland.

The rose, when it was judged, had not been named and, at the request of Portland friends, Captain Thomas turned it over to the Imperial Shrine committee to be named in connection with the ceremonies of the annual session in June.

The committee has selected as the name for this rose that of W. Freeland Kendrick, of Philadelphia, who is the Imperial Potentate of all Shrinedom.

Christening Ceremony.

This rose will be formally christened with elaborate ceremony by Mrs. George L. Baker, wife of the mayor of Portland. At the same time, another rose, almost as fine as that produced by Captain Thomas, will be named Imperial Potentate. This rose is the production of Albert Clarke, widely known rose breeder of Portland.

W. Freeland Kendrick, as Imperial Potentate, will act as sponsor for this rose and the ceremony has been so planned that Mrs. W. Freeland Kendrick, the wife of the Imperial Potentate, will also figure in the event.

The christening ceremony and the awarding of the prizes to Captain Thomas will be staged Wednesday, June 23, in the large rose garden at Peninsula park, where there are 15,000 rose plants in bloom. It will be conducted by the Royal Rosarians, an organization of the leading business and professional men of Portland, who act as the official hosts for the city during the annual rose festival. There will be more than 200 dancing girls present during the ceremony and there will be showers of roses from aeroplanes.

Accommodations have been arranged for 20,000 people to see the event, which will take place around the huge fountain in the center of the sunken rose gardens, which cover more than four acres.

NEW GROWTH IN OKLAHOMA.

Much is said nowadays about the need of making the florists' trade or profession more attractive to the coming generation. That it has been distinctly attractive in the past is indicated particularly by the large number of its members who entered it in their early teens and then stayed with it. Greenhouse work especially, the direct and continuous contact with growing plants, the care of them from seed or cutting to final bloom, is bound to give pleasure to people who are themselves young and growing.

One example of this happy characteristic of the trade is afforded by W. E. Pitt, the proprietor of the Ada Greenhouse, Ada, Okla. Mr. Pitt has been connected with the trade for the last seventeen years, or ever since he was 11 years old. He was reared in Texas, but left home at the age of 17 in order to learn more about growing flowers. He went first to Canada and later worked in Illinois and other states. Then he was made manager of a large business in Texas and left there only in order to go into business for himself.

Mr. Pitt has been in Ada for six years. He started the Ada Greenhouse with five acres of land and did all the work himself. He now has ten acres of the best land in the vicinity of Ada; he has three large greenhouses and is building another; he furnishes, he says, flowers to twenty-six cities and towns, and he employs seven persons. Much of his success he attributes to his wife, who is bookkeeper and office manager. His specialty is carnations, to which he devotes five acres of his land and much of his glass.

SCALE ON FERNS.

I am sending you a frond of Roosevelt fern infested with a tiny insect which, in spite of solutions, sulpho-tobacco soap, insect powder and smoking with Nico-fume, continues to thrive and spread all over my large-fronded ferns, ruining the appearance of them and finally killing the plants. Please tell me how to get rid of them. I have cut entire plants down, trying to check them, but they appear again just as before, as soon as the new fronds are out. I have also scraped off the top soil and soaked it with sulpho-tobacco soap solution, but in vain. E. R. B.—Tex.

This scale insect is a quite troublesome one to get rid of, especially when the plants are planted out on a bench, as apparently was done in this case.

The reason for the insects' prompt reappearance after the plants were cut down was probably the fact that some of the mature scales, which are light brown in color and flat in shape, were left on the old stems of the plants, and from them came a new generation of insects.

Try weekly sprayings with a solution of Rose Leaf extract of tobacco, using one pint of the extract to one gallon of water and doing the spraying about sundown. W. H. T.

BROWN SCALE ON FERNS.

I am sending you a specimen of a fern leaf, which you will notice has a pest on it. I should like to know how to get rid of this pest. I have tried a number of remedies, but without any success. It seems to be gaining progress and destroying the plants. J. G. K.—Md.

The nephrolepis leaf in question is badly infested with the common brown scale insect, also known as turtle scale.

This insect spreads rapidly and frequently appears on ferns, but may be kept in check by the regular use of tobacco extract diluted with water in the proportions suggested on the packages of these preparations. Rose Leaf Extract of Tobacco is good for this purpose and Black Leaf 40 may also be used, but the weaker solution of the latter will answer.

Dipping the plants in the solution at intervals of ten days to two weeks will reach more of the insects, but careful spraying will also have effect in time. W. H. T.

GERMINATION OF SWEET PEAS

By H. D. BROWN,
Of Purdue University Experiment Station,
La Fayette, Ind.

GROWERS have experienced difficulty in securing a satisfactory germination of sweet pea seed, particularly with the white-seeded sorts and some of the newer introductions of the dark-seeded varieties. The experimental committee of the State Florists' Association of Indiana, at a meeting in September, 1919, requested the experiment station at Purdue University to investigate causes of low germination and possible remedies. Preliminary experiments were therefore started at the university greenhouse. One of the senior students assisted in securing the data reported in this article.

The investigation as undertaken can properly be divided into two phases; first, a study of different methods of germination, and second, a germination test of some of the principal varieties. The first phase was divided into five parts, as follows:

Methods of Germination.

1. Effect of soaking the seed in water for different lengths of time.
2. Effect of chipping the coat of all seeds not swollen after soaking in water.
3. Treating the seeds with sulphuric acid.
4. Comparison of the germination in a warm and a cool house.
5. Comparison of the germinations of seeds planted in sand and in soil.

Three varieties were selected for this phase of the work; namely, Mrs. M. Spanolin, Lavender Orchid and Bridal Veil. Mrs. M. Spanolin was chosen because it was thought this variety would act as a check on the results obtained from the germination of the other two varieties, which commonly give low germination. Fifty seeds were used for each test.

As had been expected, the variety Mrs. M. Spanolin gave a rather uniform germination throughout the experiment, regardless of the treatment, while the other two varieties varied from no germination at all to 100 per cent germination with the different treatments.

Soaking Seed in Water.

Sufficient lots of each variety were counted and soaked for six, twelve, eighteen and twenty-four hours in warm water. The seeds were immersed in water heated to 140 degrees and placed in the rose house, where the temperature of the water doubtless fell to approximately the temperature of the air. After the soaking, some of the seeds were planted directly in the soil in the sweet pea house, while other lots were planted in 2½-inch pots and sprouted in the rose house and in the sweet pea house. Except in a few unexplainable cases, the soaked seed gave better germination than the checks not soaked. The germination was somewhat better in the soil of the ground bed than in the pots, probably because the pots were occasionally allowed to become too dry.

Better germination was secured in the cool house than in the warm house. Seeds of the varieties Bridal Veil and Lavender Orchid, when soaked for twelve, eighteen and twenty-four hours and planted in soil, gave fully as good results as unsoaked seed in sand, proving that sand is not always necessary for best results.

Chipping the Seed.

A considerable number of seeds failed to swell after the six hours' soaking, but after the twelve hours' treatment most of the seeds had swollen. The seeds of the variety Mrs. M. Spanolin absorbed water more slowly than those of the other two varieties. The seed coats of one lot of seed were chipped in the cases where the seeds had not swollen after the period of soaking. Although this practice resulted in a slightly higher percentage of germination in some instances, the difference was not great enough to warrant its use with any of these varieties.

Sulphuric Acid Injurious.

The three varieties were each treated for two, five, ten, thirty and forty minutes in commercial sulphuric acid (spg. 1.83) and rinsed in running water immediately after treatment. The two minutes' treatment had no injurious effect on any of the varieties. Longer treatments, however, reduced the germination of Bridal Veil and Lavender Orchid to almost nothing, while the Mrs. M. Spanolin was not affected by even the forty minutes' treatment. Sulphuric acid is not recommended.

In Warm or Cool Houses?

In general, better germination was secured in the cool house, or sweet pea house, than in the warm or rose house, although germination was hastened in the warmer house. This holds true for all varieties, regardless of the previous treatment. The greatest differences were shown by the varieties Lavender Orchid and Bridal Veil.

In Sand or Soil?

Bridal Veil gave no germination in soil in the rose house and ninety per cent germination in sand, and a germination of fifteen per cent and eighty-eight per cent for soil and sand in the cool house, clearly indicating that this variety germinates much better in sand. Lavender Orchid gave a germination of twenty-eight per cent in soil and seventy per cent in sand when grown in the rose house, and fifty-six per cent and seventy-eight per cent when germinated in the cool house, also clearly indicating that sand was a better medium for its germination. The variety Mrs. M. Spanolin shows no better germination when started in sand.

Tests of Sixteen Varieties.

The second phase of the work was mainly a germination test of some of the commercial varieties. The seeds were all germinated in sand in 2½-inch pots in the rose house. Three lots of each variety were selected, as follows: One lot of large seed, one of average-sized seed and one of small seed. In general, the large seed gave by far the best germination, the medium-sized seed next best and the smallest-sized seed the poorest germination. The varieties germinated as indicated in Table 6, on the following page.

From the foregoing experiments, it is evident that there are a number of factors which must be considered in the most effective sweet pea germination, and that some varieties require much more care than others.

The results obtained so far indicate the following facts:

1. Sand is a better medium for the germination of some of the varieties ordinarily giving poor germination.

2. A higher percentage of germination is usually obtained in the sweet pea house than in a warmer house, such as the rose house, even though germination is hastened by the higher temperature.

3. Soaking the seed in warm water for eighteen hours proved highly satisfactory, and seed so treated gave good germination when planted in soil even in the rose house.

4. The use of sulphuric acid is not recommended, as it is liable to injure some varieties, especially if the treatment lasts for more than two minutes.

5. The large seeds usually give better germination than the smaller seeds of the same variety.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

Memorial Day.

Satisfaction with the Memorial day business up to Saturday, May 29, was expressed generally, with another good day to come. It was doubtful if stock would hold out over Sunday noon, for the demand had been heavy and several crops have been short. The peony crop was far below normal. Carnations have been short in this market since the storm in the early part of May and roses were scarce. Business was good all during the week. It increased each day as the week advanced. Stock was handled in better shape than usual and never was cleaner than this year. Usually a large quantity of stock is thrown away because it is soft and will not stand up, but this season was cool and plants had a good growth and favorable weather brought good, healthy blooms.

Various Notes.

The Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co. was successful with its shipments of carnations. They all went through in good shape and customers were well pleased. Business was heavy all week and the last three days were rushing. The sales of ferns averaged 20,000 per day for the week and there were just enough peonies.

Meyer Lieberman sold 2,200 peonies in three hours. His partner, Morse Galamba, and a couple of men took a truck and visited several growers outside the city late Saturday afternoon, May 29. They succeeded in buying about 2,000 peonies, all of which they cut themselves.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. sold out in plants and cut flowers. It had an assortment of choice hydrangeas, which went well, and a cut of 15,000 for the week.

Longview Farm is interested in the T. J. Noll Floral Co., which will insure this company of the entire output of Longview's $100,000 range, in addition to other growers who are now operating about 200,000 feet of glass.

The Pinehurst Floral Co. had plenty of good roses from the greenhouses for Memorial day. Until Saturday, May 29, it had enough carnations to fill orders and peonies sufficient to give all customers a few. Large orders for peonies had to be turned down.

J. G. Eggleston had a large supply of ivy geraniums, which he sold at $1.50 and $3 per dozen, according to size.

Work has been so heavy at the Muehlebach Flower Shop that another young woman has been added to the force, Miss Thelma McKee. Mr. Neff had from one to three decorations every day last week. Wednesday, May 26, he had a wedding for which the bride's bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting orchids. Bouquets for the bridesmaids were old-fashioned affairs, eighteen inches across, of white, pink and lavender sweet peas, and there were boutonnieres and a number of corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker Smith, of Pleasant Hill, were in Kansas City Friday, May 28.

The T. J. Noll Floral Co. will install a Lipman automatic refrigerating machine at a cost of $3,000 in its new wholesale house, 1117 McGee street.

Some of the department stores had peonies on sale Saturday, May 29, for $1 per dozen. One store advertised 20,000 at this price, which was less than the retail florists had to pay.

William Wade, of Pinehurst, shipped an order of peonies to Yankton, S. D., and the customer wired for another order, as the flowers were received in such good shape.

One of the features of the amateur flower gardeners' show, to be held June 12 at the Hotel Muehlebach, will be an exchange table. Anyone with surplus plants or bulbs may trade or list them for exchange. J. E. K.

IN SEARCH OF REMEDIES.

There are two matters in my mind which are of grave importance to the trade. The first is of wholesale dealers or commission houses shipping on special occasions to individuals who are not bona fide retailers. This certainly is working hardship on the legitimate dealers, because if we do not get our business for special occasions, when are we to do any business? There certainly should be some step taken to correct this condition.

Also I want to get the ideas of other florists in regard to people growing and selling plants in the spring without any license. Every spring heretofore I have sold in the neighborhood of 300,000 tomato plants in quantities of a half-dozen to 15,000 to a customer. This year I shall not sell 30,000 in all. Why? Because every old man, and woman as well, who cannot do a day's work grows a box or two of tomatoes, peppers, eggplants and cabbages and sells them to anybody. They even advertise in the papers and erect signs on the house door and sell to the grocery stores. They undersell us, as they pay no license and grow only what they can attend to themselves, while we pay for our city water by meter and pay state, county and city taxes. The clerk of the court says that they can sell what they grow without any license. Well, we grow ours, too, but we buy wire frames and put two or more things together, to make designs, and are therefore manufacturers. In my own town there are three or four old women making big money out of plants; yet they pay no tax. But it cuts into our business in the neighborhood of $1,000 in spring sales. Can anyone suggest a remedy for this? These people use city water without cost and sell plants without a license; in other words, we put up the money to run the city with and the little fellows get the profits. What is the remedy? Murray Sands.

WHO PUSHES UP PRICES?

STOP PASSING THE BUCK.

In The Review May 20 Frank Smith, in commenting on a letter of mine which appeared two weeks previously, asks whether I can suggest any better method for solving the problem of high prices than that the retailers should refuse to buy when growers charge unreasonably high prices.

I have no definite method to offer, except in a general way, and that is that retailers and growers should cease passing the buck to each other and instead get together and evolve a constructive policy, whereby our business might be stabilized and the good will and confidence of the public fully won. This can be easily accomplished if we go about it in the right way.

J. Fred Ammann is doing great work in bringing about the organization of the growers' association. A similar nation-wide organization of retailers might be undertaken and accomplished by some progressive, broad-minded and wide-awake retail man. What we need is harmony and coöperation.

Verily in union there is strength.

S. S. Skidelsky.

MISS JARVIS AND A FUND.

Before we let this affair about Miss Jarvis and Mothers' day go to sleep until next year comes, or before we raise that fund suggested by Max Schling to use against her propaganda, which was not tactful of her, let me say that I should like to see a fund raised—I cannot think of a better method than that suggested by Mr. Schling—but put to a different purpose.

I do not know the lady, but her idea is doing everybody some good and people do get paid for good ideas. Perhaps she is not particularly broad-minded, but do not the florists act in the same way?

I cannot head this list with $100, because we have only a small business, but I will head it if there is the slightest inclination on the part of a few others to join in.

MOTHERS' DAY MEMORIES.

Grower Guilty; Retailer Responsible.

Now that Mothers' day has become a matter of record and memory and the claims and denials relative to inflation of value in carnations and other flowers, gouging of the public by mercenary florists, holdups, profiteering and what not, have been made, upheld, refuted and disputed, one little parting shot may clarify the smoke-laden atmosphere of the battle field and permit a clearer perspective of the matter in general.

The retailer feels that the grower and the wholesaler are the responsible parties in the causation of ill-advised inflation of flower values for Mothers' day. And the retailer is right. To no other source can the root of the evil be traced. As a grower and wholesale distributor I speak, and in making my charge general enough to include every grower and wholesaler in the country, I do so feeling I know whereof I speak.

But the guilt chargeable to the grower and wholesaler is the effect of a condition and not the cause of it. The condition is the tendency of the average retailer to take advantage of circumstances and events to add to the price away over that warranted by the cost price of the flowers he purveys.

Month of Abundance.

For instance, May is a month of abundance in flower production under glass. Growth is rapid and luxuriant and general production soars upward and over the peak of the records of other months. Prior to the period inclusive of Mothers' day prices, values of all flowers are deprived of profit by the adverse influence of a supply in excess of demand. Down, away down, go wholesale prices and the records of the commission houses too often contain that phrase so bitterly hated by the grower, "Job lot—so much;" generally the "so much" is so little that the express and commission charges almost cancel it. All this time, however, the retailer blithely pursues the even tenor of his way with $1, $2, $3 and $5 per dozen as prices on roses and $1.50 and $2 per dozen on carnations. This procedure, and I speak advisedly, does not conduce to the promotion of the "peace on earth, good will to men" spirit in either grower or wholesaler. No, sir! To them the eternal fitness of things has received an awful jolt and all is wrong. The dog-eat-dog and everybody-for-himself policy finds lodgment in his mind. Then comes Mothers' day. "Oh, boy! Now we can soak it to the retailer—and, believe me, we'll do him up brown. What did carnations sell at last year at Mothers' day? What? At $10 per hundred! That was not enough! Make it $15 this year. Yes, make it $15 and even though they kick they will pay it." And they sure do pay it. Some without a word, others with a kick or two, others with threats, but—they pay it, all of them. Then the dear public is walloped right behind the ear. The brunt of the whole misunderstood relationship between grower, wholesaler and retailer is foisted on to the long-suffering public. Detrimental to the mutual interest of all branches of the florists' trade? Surely it is, but how are you going to remedy it?

Cream to go Around.

I, as a wholesaler, would be tickled to sell carnations and roses Mothers' day for a flat price of $80 per thousand straight through, regardless of grades. But will I do it? No! Not unless I am quite sure that the retailer will not value my goods at more than $2 per dozen. I am not going to let him lap up the cream and myself be satisfied with the milk—not in this day and age of the world. If he intends to get the public, believe me, I am going to get him. But if he plays fair with me and the public, I'll play fair with him. But he must not capitalize my credulity and play me false.

There is a wide gulf separating the wholesaler and retailer in commercial floriculture, a gulf that must be bridged with good will built on the solid foundation of mutual confidence. The problems of the trade at large are the problems of each individual in the trade, whether he be grower, wholesaler or retailer, and public service is the goal of our aspirations. Our success will always be in direct ratio to the service and satisfaction we give.

Fair Play.

A price of $15 per hundred wholesale for carnations Mothers' day is $5 too much. And $3 per dozen retail is too much. Equalization of demand among all available flowers will render unnecessary a consideration of the fine fallacy of "demand in excess of supply warranting expansion of value." Adroit salesmanship consistently employed will wean the public from the idea that the carnation is emblematic of motherhood veneration. Fair play and confidence in the trade will work miracles where chicanery and sharp practice have failed.

It behooves us to eliminate greed from our consideration of the demand for flowers that springs from the filial love in the hearts of men and women. Let us be satisfied with small profit that grows large in the volume of business that comes to us Mothers' day. Let us show the people of the country that the petulancy of Miss Anna Jarvis and her associates is born of anger at the fact that the fine practice they encouraged has grown so general as to become too preponderant for one frail woman to nourish as her own.

But, most important of all, let it be agreed upon, by all in the trade—grower, wholesaler and retailer—that a set profit based on cost will be honorably adhered to; by so doing our trade will

The Market.

Perfect weather greatly favored Memorial day trade this year, cloudless skies and temperatures nearly normal for the season prevailing for some days before the great holiday. The season here, as elsewhere, is quite late and outdoor supplies of flowers were small, while a number of indoor crops failed to flower on time. The week ending May 22 saw the lowest prices of the year, but an entire change occurred the following week and flowers made excellent prices all along the line. Fancy flowers were not wanted. The demand, however, for short and medium quality stock seemed insatiable. Roses were in great demand. Short-stemmed flowers made $6 to $8 per hundred and there was an excellent demand for mediums up to $12 to $14 per hundred, but long-stemmed flowers made little, if any, more. Colored varieties, as usual, sold the best, whites dragging somewhat. Carnations were off crop with many growers; $10 per hundred seemed an average price, but $12 was easily secured for select flowers. There was an immense supply of Matchless, which sold as low as $6 in some cases. As usual, a lot of pickled flowers appeared; many which were sold were going to sleep at the time.

Yellow marguerites sold up to $8 for the best and calendulas had a good sale. Stocks were fewer than usual. The best stalks sold at $10 to $15 per hundred; short-stemmed and single-flowered ones went cheaper. Candytuft realized $1 per bunch and double feverfew sold quickly at 50 cents to $1 per bunch, as did Gypsophila elegans. Callas and lilies, in common with other white flowers, were not in good demand. Darwin tulips were not abundant and were eagerly bought at $8 to $12 per hundred. Poeticus was the only narcissus available. Snapdragon was abundant at $6 to $12 per hundred. Of the large-flowered gladioli a big crop appeared and sold at $2 to $4 per dozen. Other flowers included bachelor's buttons, Spanish iris, lilac, mostly of the quite common varieties and not of good quality, forget-me-nots and sweet peas. The last named made up to $5 per hundred and all flowers of good quality readily cleaned up at $3 to $4. There was a good call for asparagus and common ferns.

Sales of pansies, daisies and forget-me-nots in baskets were large and the warmer weather sent in a flood of orders for geraniums and other bedding plants. Hydrangeas and roses were the two leaders among flowering plants.

Sales of artificial wreaths and sprays were simply enormous, far exceeding those of any former year, and their aggregate value must have been several times that of natural flowers. They are becoming a recognized necessity at Memorial day. Without them the cut flowers would rise to unheard-of figures and simply kill Memorial day business for florists.

June 1 saw a decided change in the flower market. Supplies were not large, as all country growers had heavy retail home orders to fill. Roses took the most decided drop and carnations will go much lower as the week advances. White is the ever predominant color. Lilies, snapdragons, stocks and other crops which failed to flower for Memorial day are hard to move at any price. Sweet peas continue in good demand and for yellow and white marguerites, Spanish iris and bouvardia there is a good call. For cattleyas there is little demand. Some gigas are now seen, as well as Mossiæ. Outdoor lily of the valley is still fine and is much superior to the forced article in flower and foliage.

Various Notes.

There seemed to be a general agreement among retailers that business for Memorial day was better than ever before and the necessity of charging higher prices turned an increased number to artificial wreaths, many thousands of which were sold. Weather conditions were simply perfect and proved a boon to everyone after our long spell of cold, dark and rainy weather.

Henry Penn has been elected president of the Brotherhood of the Temple Ohabed Shalon, of Boston, to lead a good citizenship campaign throughout the United States. Extensive plans are being made to extend the organization and build temples in every large community in the country. One of the first will be built in Mr. Penn's home town, Brookline.

The board of directors of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society at its last meeting, held May 24, voted to hold a great rose show in Boston, April 5, 1921, with $6,000 in prizes. The first prize for a rose garden will be $1,000. Other seasonable plants, in addition to roses, will be features, but it is planned to have the best indoor exhibition of roses ever seen in the United States.

J. Eisemann, the Beacon Florist, reports an extraordinary Memorial day business. He sold thousands of artificial wreaths, these going to all parts of New England. His designs were in good taste, which could not be said of all the others in the city. He also had a heavy call for natural flowers.

May 30 and 31 the lilacs were in magnificent bloom in the Arnold Arboretum and many thousands of visitors enjoyed them. All trees are profusely flowered this year. Usually the large malus collection has passed before the lilacs open, but this year, on account of climatic vagaries, the two flower together and such ornamental apples as floribunda, Toringo, Scheideckeri and spectabilis were at their best on the same dates as the lilacs.

The Boston Floral Supply & Snyder Co. had a bumper Memorial day business and reports that sales of baskets, artificial wreaths and natural flowers broke all previous records.

Wax Bros., for their first Memorial day on Temple place, were almost overwhelmed with business and found that the removal from Tremont street did not cripple their trade in the least.

Local peonies will not appear in the market for some days yet. Such as were seen here for Memorial day came from Philadelphia and sold at fancy prices. The local crop, thanks to abundant rains, looks remarkably well and growers hope they will be available ere June weddings pass.

There will be a fine iris display at Horticultural hall June 5 and 6. The first flowers of germanica opened with us May 28. Rhododendrons will not be open for June 5 and a small number only of hardy azaleas will be available.

At Penn's the Memorial day trade went far ahead of all former years, and it was a case of night and day work for a much increased staff for several days to keep abreast of the orders. The special Memorial day wreaths, extensively advertised throughout New England, met with a tremendous sale.

For the field day of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club in the Arnold Arboretum, June 12, members and friends are asked to be at the Forest Hills gate on the arborway at 3 o'clock. This gate is easily reached by steam, elevated and surface railroads from Forest Hills, from which it is only five minutes' walk. There will be a wealth of interesting and attractive trees and shrubs flowering on the date named. Members are buying tickets freely for the entertainment, collation and dance to follow the club meeting June 15.

The annual peony show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will be held at Horticultural hall June 19 and 20.

The Chestnut Hill Garden club held a successful flower show May 25 at the Chestnut Hill Country Club. Some of the largest and most successful exhibitors were Peter Arnott, gardener to E. S. Webster; W. C. Rust, gardener to Mrs. C. G. Weld, and Donald McKenzie, gardener to E. B. Dane.

May gave us an excess of precipitation and deficiency of clear days, especially during the first half of the month. The maximum temperature was 86 degrees, May 27, and the minimum 30 degrees, May 5. On only seven nights did the minimum temperature exceed 50 degrees.

W. G. Wyman, of the firm of Littlefield & Wyman, was elected president of the Abington Board of Trade at the annual meeting, May 26. W. N. Craig addressed the members on "The Necessity of Increased Food Production in New England." W. N. C.

THE RICH DADDY.

It seems peculiar sometimes, when you think of it, that those who have the most money want to get the most for it and are quite particular where it goes.

One of the wealthy men of our town came into my store for some flowers to take home to his wife, as it was their wedding anniversary. I suggested some nice Russell roses, saying that it would be nice to have one for each year they had been married.

He asked the price and I told him that they were $6 per dozen. He thought that was too high. So I said that those were the kind that his son always bought.

"Well," he said, "my son has a rich daddy, but I haven't."

He then ordered half a dozen carnations of mixed colors and a quantity of green in a box.

Can you beat it? George Ecke.

Muncie, Ind.—O. H. Brown will open a store in this city the latter part of June.

Orlando, Fla.—Fred W. Fletcher, whose letterhead says, "A florist for twenty-five years," reports: "Am having a great season, working harder than ever before in my life; no help to be had at a price possible to pay in this business."

OBITUARY

Ernest Albert Michel.

Ernest Albert Michel.

Ernest Albert Michel, of Kirkwood, Mo., died at his home May 26 at 3:30 a. m. He was born in Germany in 1845 and was thus 75 years old at his death.

Mr. Michel had always been an especially active man in the florists' business. He was the oldest member of the trade in St. Louis and was the head of the first florists' establishment in St. Louis, on Broadway near Pine street, under the name of Michel Bros. & Kern. This was fifty years ago.

The Michel Plant & Bulb Co. succeeded the old firm and moved to 1010 Olive street; it also operated a greenhouse range at Magnolia and Tower Grove avenues, now the Bourdet Floral Co. From here Mr. Michel moved to Kirkwood, where he started a nursery and grew outdoor flowers for the local market.

His son, Eugene H. Michel, who was with his father until that time, moved his family to Riverton, N. J., having accepted the management of the new range of Henry A. Dreer, Inc.

The father was one of the first members of the trade to join the St. Louis Florists' Club thirty-four years ago, but was not a member at the time of his death. No one in the trade was more respected or had more friends than Albert Michel, as he was better known to his friends.

Mr. Michel had an attack of influenza last fall and was confined to his home with a recurrence of the attack this spring, which caused his death.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Eugene H. and Frederick Michel, and four daughters, Mrs. C. C. Kendall, Mrs. B. Nehrling and Anna and Emma Michel, who were all present at the time of their father's death.

The funeral took place May 27 from the residence on Geyer road, in Kirkwood, Mo.; the interment was at the old St. Marcus cemetery.

Many in the trade attended the services at the home and extended their sympathies to the bereaved family. Many beautiful floral emblems filled the room. J. J. B.

Maurice Fuld.

Maurice Fuld, widely known in the trade, especially in and about New York, was found dead in his apartment Friday morning, May 28. He had been engaged in his business as usual during the day previous and had appeared to be in good health. The cause of death was said to be hardening of the arteries.

Mr. Fuld was born in Babenhausen, Germany, March 20, 1873, and received his education in the public schools of Frankfort-on-Main. In 1888 he started at Quedlinburg to learn the seed business, remaining there three years. Later he spent two years in a nursery in the south of France, where he interested himself particularly in perennials. He came to the United States in 1894 and filled positions in seed stores in Boston and New York, in 1907 becoming manager of the store of W. W. Rawson & Co., Boston. In 1910 he joined the staff of Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, as manager of the company's nursery and trial grounds at Andalusia, Pa., and also as advertising man. In the fall of 1913 he became a partner in the firm of the Knight & Struck Co., at Flushing, N. Y., subsequently establishing the mail order business at 7 West Forty-fifth street, New York, in which he was engaged at the time of his death.

He attained some prominence as a lecturer on horticultural subjects before garden clubs, and some of his lectures were staged in novel surroundings. On one occasion he engaged the parlors of a prominent New York hotel, wherein he installed fruit trees of large size in order to demonstrate to his audience the principles of proper pruning.

He was a man of genial disposition, and identified with everything that made for the good of the trade. He was a member of the New York Florists' Club and a life member of the S. A. F. He was unmarried and is survived in this country by a sister in Baltimore, where the body was shipped for burial. J. H. P.

Edward W. Reid.

The death May 26 of Edward W. Reid, vice-president of Holm & Olson, Inc., St. Paul, Minn., briefly recorded in the obituary column of The Review May 27, came as a great shock to his business associates and to his many friends, who had so recently seen him apparently in his usual, vigorous, healthy condition. He was ill only a week.

Mr. Reid was born at Bridgeport, O., fifty-six years ago. In his early life he was associated with his father in conducting a fruit farm at Bridgeport. Later on the growing of small fruit plants was begun and this developed into a general line of nursery stock. Some thirty years ago a mail order business was started and successfully conducted for about twelve years, the last catalogue appearing about 1901. Many of the older members of the nursery trade will remember the Upland Nurseries, as the business was then called.

Seeing a wider field for activity in the growing northwest, Mr. Reid removed to St. Paul in the spring of 1902 and associated himself with L. L. May & Co. as manager of the nursery and landscape departments. In the summer of 1910 he severed his connection with L. L. May & Co. and went to Holm & Olson, Inc., to establish a landscape department, of which he became manager. A few years later he was made vice-president of the company, an office which he held at his death. The Park Nurseries, a branch of Holm & Olson, Inc., were established and a mail order business of large proportions built up under his management. Many of the finest homes in the city and throughout the northwest bear silent tribute to his artistic ability in planning and executing plantings.

Funeral services, which were attended by several hundred friends and associates, were held at the residence, May 28, interment being made in Roselawn cemetery, which adjoins the city on the north.

Mr. Reid was married about thirty years ago to Laura Speer, who survives. He had two children, Harold S., who was associated with his father in the business, and Lois, a teacher in the public schools.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

IF you haven't started closing Sundays, begin this summer.

THERE will be plenty of business, from weddings and graduations, to keep florists busy this month.

SEND clippings of your Memorial day advertisements to The Review. And tell us how they pulled business.

THE florist's is an all-the-year-round business nowadays. Summer is an off season chiefly for those who make it so.

BETTER clean up on collections before customers go away for the summer. Money will not be easier when they return.

MANY members of the trade complain of slow mail service; it hits them when letters go slowly and again when parcels are delayed.

THE confidence upon which a business is built is not that of a confidence game, but the faith established by performance of good service.

THE records established by holiday sales this spring should remove doubts as to the extent of the trade's grip on the public's heart and purse.

MEMORIAL day plantings will have reminded many people of porch and window boxes. Now is a good time to develop business in that line.

SPEAKING of a retailers' paper, the Pink Part of The Review contains, in interesting reading matter and in advertisements, the equivalent of a successful such publication.

WHAT did you learn from this Memorial day's business? Make a note of it for your guidance next year. Would it benefit some other florists, do you think? Then tell them about it through The Review. Let us hear from you.

S. A. F. MATTERS contained in the society's Journal for May are those which have already appeared in the same form in The Review and other trade papers. So liberal is the space devoted to the society's affairs by the latter that the Journal adds little to the information gained through weekly channels by S. A. F. members.

WORK up the window box business. That field has been developed but meagerly in comparison with its possibilities.

IF you don't make expenses in the warm months, you have to do that much greater business during the winter before you have any profit. By keeping up trade in summer you can swell your year's income.

DESPITE poor weather, bedding plants are almost all sold. The shortage would have been much more apparent had the spring been better. But the warning is loud enough: Propagate all you can for next year.

PRICE-CUTTING, traffic congestion and tightening credit have caused uncertainty in business calculations. But replacement orders will follow the first, the second is gradually disappearing and the third is curtailing speculation. So the result should be improved conditions for this trade.

A DAY OF INDICATION.

In the triduum that formed the observance of Memorial day this year the trade found its opportunity to make the last of the spring's holidays the same record-breaking sort that the previous ones were. The weather during May 29, 30 and 31 was of the best, although showers fell in some localities on Monday afternoon, too late to be hurtful. The warm sunshine brought out throngs to the cemeteries to patronize florists, who sold all the stock they had.

The dark days earlier in May diminished the supply of greenhouse stock and unfavorable weather in the peony districts limited the shipments of that flower, though in some places the quantity that was available exceeded anticipations. The dependence upon wreaths and artificial stock was greater because of the shortage of natural flowers. These substitutes saved prices on stock from ascending to extraordinary heights and it was well so, because Memorial day is a day of lower-priced orders than other holidays and the public would not buy at Mothers' day prices.

The records noted in the various flower centers last week will surprise any who thought Memorial day was on the wane, so far as this trade was concerned. The indications these records afford should be encouraging as to the strong hold the trade now has on the public. The flower industry will never go back to a pre-war basis; we must realize how we have grown and adjust our views to meet the new conditions. In the holidays of this spring the trade has passed record after record, despite dubious business views on the part of some. It is time for the trade to draw up its base to form a new line of attack and cease to think of retiring from the advanced position it has won.

TEMPERING THEIR SPIRITS.

One of the most notable things in the present business situation is the change of attitude on the part of labor. Where, only a short time ago, a strike would follow the slightest displeasing action of an employer, whether he was right or wrong, the slackening of business in some industries is said to have brought a willingness on the part of the workers to "talk things over" first.

The necessity of laying off factory help on account of the transportation tie-up, the slowing up of the consumer demand and the shortage of materials seems to have had a salutary influence upon workers in general. The doubt of business men as to the outlook has spread to their employees. As a result the latter are not inclined to maintain the high-handed manner so characteristic a short time ago.

NOT A GENERAL DECLINE.

One should keep his eyes open in these times and not be fooled by generalizations. One of these that is being commonly made is that prices are on the downgrade. Are they? One reads of cuts in prices by nationally known firms. Does he stop to consider just the nature of the reductions and the reasons therefor?

Certain it is that dry goods and wearing apparel have undergone reductions quite generally. But the reason is not a decrease in production cost. The cold spring and backwardness of the warm weather that sends people into the stores for new clothes were responsible for an overstock in mercantile lines, which had to be unloaded, even at a sacrifice. Hence the temporary reductions in these lines.

In some articles of food there has also been seen a lowering in price. These are chiefly, however, vegetables of which a crop has come to market suddenly. Only scattering items were affected. There has been no general decrease in the cost of food.

Not till production catches up with the demand, till transportation enables proper distribution, till foreign needs are satisfied and domestic markets fully supplied, till labor is no longer at a premium in almost all industries—not till that time will florists see that general lowering in prices which they hope for. And there is no immediate indication of such conditions.

HEARINGS ON FREIGHT RAISE.

Hearings before the interstate commerce commission began at Washington last week in regard to the increase in freight rates. The raises asked for by the railroads amount to a trifle less than twenty-four per cent in western territory and a little more than thirty per cent in eastern and southern territory. The case presented by the railroads is so strong a one that in all likelihood their requests will be granted by the commission. It is generally conceded that the roads have not sufficient income to allow them to make needed improvements, particularly in equipment. The demands of the railroad workers are adding to the size of the pay rolls to such an extent that the deficits made under governmental control are certain to grow bigger. The income of the roads has fallen so low that in order to secure money they are obliged to float bond issues at high rates of interest and market them below par. Under these circumstances it is almost certain that the increases in freight rates asked by the roads will be allowed. In that case florists will pay from a quarter to nearly a third more freight on coal, fertilizer, etc., next fall than they have this season.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

H. O. S., Ark.—The Review can supply any horticultural book at publishers' prices. Gas escaping in a greenhouse is fatal to the stock.

TORONTO, ONT.

The Market.

Business is keeping up wonderfully well for this time of the year. Usually when the garden flowers appear there is a slackening of the sale of greenhouse stock. This year there has been no such let-up. Growers state that they are having fine cuts, but that they are unable to fill the demands. This is partly accounted for by the demand for flowers for the races, there being a profusion of flowers among the ladies in attendance. One firm had the order for keeping the Jockey Club decorated and the flowers were replaced each day. Most of the florists benefited to a considerable extent by the demand for corsages.

There has also been a big demand for design work for funerals, although there appears to be little sickness in the city.

Florists handling bedding plants and rose bushes are doing a good trade at a fair figure.

Various Notes.

An order-in-council has been passed by the Dominion government prohibiting the importation of corn and corn broom and many kinds of flowers from certain eastern states, to prevent the introduction into Canada of the European corn-borer.

Arrangements are being made for the usual big retail picnic at Center island July 14. The many friends of the retailers are invited to be the guests of the club at the picnic, including supply men, growers, etc.

The Hamilton convention committee, under W. E. Groves, has completed arrangements for a most helpful and social time at the C. H. A. convention, to be held there August 10 to 13 inclusive. Many friends from the United States have signified their intention of being present and it is hoped that the delegation from south of the border will be a big one. They are assured of a warm welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. James McBean have gone to Scotland to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Higgins have moved to their summer home at Long Branch.

Mrs. S. A. Frost has been visiting at Sanford.

The school children celebrated Empire day by decorating the monuments and May 24 the veterans again decorated them. Many florists had a large number of designs made up for this purpose.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

After several days of rather dull trading last week, the market on Thursday began to pick up a bit in anticipation of Memorial day business. Immense quantities of lilac, iris and sprays of flowering shrubs have come into the city in various ways, gifts of commuters to their city friends, and the market felt this influx considerably. The demand faded away to the minimum and clearances were made only at sacrifices, much material being taken by the cheap stores and the street men. Prices, naturally, fell away considerably. Roses, lilies, carnations and herbaceous flowers suffered alike.

Friday, May 28, all was changed, the demand becoming good and movement of stock quite lively. The same conditions continued through Saturday, when the demand for Memorial day requirements became quite active. One or two of the wholesalers opened Sunday morning to receive shipments and fill orders, and Monday considerable business was done in the early morning hours. Altogether the Memorial day demand was quite satisfactory, and the supply was ample. There were no peonies from local growers, although many came from the south, of rather indifferent quality, and commanding a top price of $10 per hundred for the best.

Roses were only in fair supply and prices moved up a notch or two, the range being $3 to $15, with $20 and $25 for extra fine stock of the better varieties. In some cases American Beauty went beyond quoted prices, the supply not being particularly heavy, but prices Monday were as quoted, $50 top for specials.

Carnations met a good demand, moving well at $6 to $8 for the best. Much stock of the old white, Boston Market, was noticed, moving at $3, with $4 for selected stock. Clearances of all carnations were effected without trouble. Monday they were somewhat scarce.

Cattleyas are not in heavy supply. The best gigas commands as much as $1.50 per flower, other grades and varieties selling from 75 cents down to 35 cents. Gardenias are arriving in quantity sufficient to meet the rather small demand, but the quality is away off and much stock goes to waste.

Lily of the valley is plentiful, with quantities of outdoor stock available. Indoor-grown sprays move at $1.50 to $5 per hundred, with $6 for selected stock. Easter lilies are abundant, but met a fair demand for the holiday at $6 to $8 per hundred. Sweet peas are plentiful and the quality is unusually good for the time of year; the best sprays move at $2 per hundred.

There has been a fair supply of daffodils for some days, despite the lateness of the season, which have been moved at 35 to 50 cents per bunch. A few Darwin tulips continue to arrive, and there are small shipments of gladioli from the south, which move at $1.50 to $3 per dozen.

The supply of herbaceous flowers is large. Lilac is in heavy supply and much goes to waste. The best brings 25 to 50 cents per bunch, the latter covering the white variety, Marie Legraye. Iris, daisies, calendulas, snapdragons, lupines, stocks, delphiniums and pansies are chief among the offerings.

Various Notes.

The funeral of the late Patrick O'Mara took place Friday morning, May 28, services being held at the residence at Jersey City, N. J., at which there were present from the trade: Robert Craig, Philadelphia; C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.; A. L. Miller, Paul and Henry Dailledouze, John Leach, Robert E. Berry, Walter Sheridan, A. T. De La Mare, C. B. Weathered, A. F. Faulkner and John Young. A solemn requiem mass was held later at St. Patrick's church, Jersey City.

The trade was shocked Friday, May 28, by the news of the sudden death of Maurice Fuld, the well known plantsman and seedsman of 7 West Forty-fifth street. He was found dead in his apartment Friday morning. The cause of death is said to have been hardening of the arteries. Fuller notice appears in the obituary column.

Anton Zvolanek, the sweet pea seed grower, of Lompoc, Cal., was in the city several days last week, calling upon his many friends and business acquaintances. He sailed Saturday, May 29, for Europe, intending to visit his old home in Bohemia and also to make a trip through Russia if possible. He expects to return by way of South America and the Panama canal.

Robert Craig, Philadelphia, arrived in New York from Porto Rico Tuesday, May 25, and called upon several of his friends. He had been on the island since early in February, his departure being delayed a month owing to inability to get a steamer. Kentias are being grown there in great numbers for the American market, he said, the climate suiting them admirably and Quarantine No. 37 not affecting their exportation.

S. B. Wertheimer, who has made an extended tour of Europe, arrived in New York May 31, on the steamship La Lorraine.

Recent visitors were J. A. Peterson and Mrs. Peterson, Cincinnati; Patrick Welch, Boston; J. K. M. L. Farquhar, Boston; Arthur Zirkman, of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia; I. Rosnosky, of the American Bulb Co., Chicago.

Charles Weber, of Lynbrook, L. I., is building a bungalow at Long Beach, with conservatory attached, which he will use to house his retail store at that resort.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

It is a safe assertion that never in the history of the Chicago market were such vast quantities of flowers moved as in the final week of May. In the matter of money value the Memorial day trade did not equal Mothers' day or Christmas, because of the much lower average prices, but for bigness of volume nothing like last week's business ever has been known. Prices were high enough so that nearly all wholesalers had sales exceeding those of Easter and in some cases the prices put them up with Mothers' day and Christmas.

There was general surprise that the quantity of stock was so large; the receipts of flowers not only were enormous, but they exceeded practically everyone's expectations. Of course the penultimate week of May had been made memorable by a sudden increase in supply, which had caused a sharp fall in prices. This no doubt was the reason why the market was so heavily supplied for Memorial day; as the spring weather, long overdue, brought the flowers to the cutting point the growers stored them up to meet the big demand that was assured for the last few days of the month. When stock is stored up in considerable quantity it always means a difficult market. It was so last week. Before the Memorial day demand began to be an influence in clearing the market many iceboxes were filled with soft, sleepy stock the growers had held to the limit of its endurance. Such stock never has any other effect than increasing work and decreasing values. There were sleepy carnations and soft roses that were unfit for shipping, too poor to appeal to even the lowliest city storekeeper and which, if sold at all, had to wait for the peddlers who buy only after they see what the weather is on the morning of Memorial day. The way the pickled stuff pulled down the averages will give the growers great pain.

There really was no shortage of any kind of stock. Naturally, with the demand so enormous, some orders could not be filled exactly as given, but this was more because of lack of time than because the flowers would not be available. The shipping was tremendous and took the greater part of the receipts. The principal shipping houses worked far into the night May 27, 28 and 29, sending truckloads of flowers to the depots in the small hours, long after the express company ceased to give service. In several houses the men did not go home Thursday or Friday nights, but got three or four hours' sleep in a neighboring hotel.

The peony is the special flower of Memorial day. The season was so late a shortage was feared, but none developed. While the quantity handled was not so large as in some other years, it was sufficient. Prices were well maintained on all peonies that were of quality to appeal to the retailer and a large and satisfactory business was done. The quantity of peonies in cold storage was the smallest in many years; nearly all the peonies were fresh cut and were shipped the day they arrived from the fields. There were a few that were put up with the usual care, but the majority showed the scarcity and inexperience of the labor with which the growers are contending. Some of the growers also might as well make up their minds to replant; such old favorites as Queen Victoria, a splendid keeper, is quite outclassed and never will sell when the larger, heavier varieties are available. Peonies did not begin to accumulate until after the Memorial day demand subsided: now they are going into cold storage in large quantities because of the impossibility of selling them on arrival at any reasonable price.

There were two grades of roses that were in oversupply at Memorial day, the open flowers that could not be shipped and the long stems for which too much money was asked. Both grades were sold below what the growers probably expected to get for them. Rose crops were, probably, at their height and all varieties were available in quantity; the short and medium grades sold in huge quantities at excellent prices for the season.

There were more carnations than had been expected, but not too many for the orders. The only carnations that were slow to move were those that had been held so long on the plants or in the growers' cellars that the wholesalers were afraid to ship them. It was a curious fact that it was easier to sell good, crisp carnations at $80 per thousand than it was to move the sleepy stuff at 2 cents apiece, and sales were reported as low as $7.50 per thousand, though it would be better for the trade as a whole if such stock could be thrown away.

Sweet peas were in large supply, but seemed to have passed the peak of the pick the week before. The sweet pea is not showy enough for cemetery use and was among the flowers least easy to sell. There was little bulbous stock, but with the large supply of peonies, roses and carnations it was not in special request. Such items as giganteum and calla lilies, mignonette, snapdragons, daisies, feverfew, pansies and valley shared in the large volume of business, but would have brought better prices had not the big leaders been so plentiful. Orchids were in little request. Considerable quantities of gladioli arrived unheralded and were not easily sold at the prices asked. Cape jasmine was in moderate supply and sold well. There was a scarcity of cut ferns.

Considering the tremendous quantity of stock handled, the market was well cleaned up by the Memorial day demand, but flowers began to accumulate almost as soon as the rush was over. Fortunately, the weather remained comparatively cool until May 31, which was a warm day and resulted in large arrivals of flowers on the first and second days of June. Prices have fallen since Memorial day to the lowest point of the year. It is a buyers' market now.

Memorial Day with Retailers.

Although the wholesalers are unanimous in reporting a record Memorial day, retailers are not so enthusiastic. The success of the wholesalers was the result of an enormous out-of-town demand; many of the city retailers bought lightly. The downtown stores had no more than an ordinarily good Saturday and did nothing at all Sunday and Monday. The nearer one's location is to a cemetery the better the business done, but not even those whose places adjoin the cities of the dead were wholly satisfied. The fly in their ointment was the army of peddlers who camped on the curb and sold the rubbish of the market, but even this highly undesirable competition did not prevent the cemetery florists doing a wonderful trade Sunday and Monday.

Various Notes.

The express company gave three hours' extra service for three days, May 27, 28 and 29, but there was no service at all May 30 or 31 and only to 2 p. m. since then. The wholesalers got their stuff to the depots the best way they could after the company's short hours. Many of them are beginning to wonder how much longer they must put up with a public carrier whose business day ends at 2 p. m. Incidentally, there was no mail from Saturday noon to Tuesday morning.

Hilmer V. Swenson states that the S. A. F. Service Bureau, of which he has charge, together with the office of the Allied Florists' Association and that of H. V. Swenson & Co., will be removed, July 1, from the Manhattan building to larger and better quarters on the Link, just south of the new bridge.

"One by one the good old stand-bys pass on," remarked N. J. Wietor as he marked Killarney and White Killarney off the price list never more to appear there. With the passing of Memorial day these two old bread-winners were thrown out by Wietor Bros., the space to be replanted with Premier and Columbia. They also have discarded Richmond.

H. C. Wendland is on a pleasure trip to the Pacific coast.

Peter Reinberg will go to San Francisco to attend the Democratic national convention. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Reinberg and their son, Charles, 14 years of age.

E. F. Winterson, Jr., has a new car.

A. Miller, of the A. B. C., is on a southern trip.

L. C. Sherer reports that on a pre-Memorial day trip he sold over 100,000 peonies in two days, including what probably was the market's record order for this season, 50,000 to one customer.

The Allied Florists' Association contributed $368 from the collection boxes in the various members' shops to the Tribune's fund for decorating the sol-the cut of roses, especially Premier and Columbia, from young plants will be large this summer. Considerable space still is given to Beauty for the summer crop.

A novel and yet simple system of keeping track of peonies is being used by A. T. Pyfer & Co. They supplied each consignor with small, strong shipping tags on which the consignor's distinguishing number had been printed. With one of these tied into the string on each bunch of peonies all chance for confusion is removed.

P. C. Schupp says that the sales of the J. A. Budlong Co. were as much in the first four months of 1920 as in the first five months of 1919, while May shows an increase of over forty per cent. He believes production again next winter will be far short of the demand, no matter how great it may be during warm weather.

H. B. Kennicott reports that the crew of Kennicott Bros. Co. worked until 2 a. m. for three nights last week. They were packing peonies.

May 28. He made large purchases for Memorial day and personally inspected the stock as it was being selected and packed. According to Mr. Courtenache, the flower business in Toledo is increasing both fast and steadily.

Peter Morgen, formerly in the greenhouse business at Huntington, Ind., was here for the Memorial day rush. He says he has made an arrangement for taking over the peony business of Dr. A. J. Knapp, of Evansville, Ind., next autumn. Dr. Knapp will retain the enthusiastic interest which built up, from an amateur collection, a commercial plantation of seventy-two acres for cut flowers, but Mr. Morgen will, he states, relieve the doctor of the business cares and eventually take over the property. The days spent here were devoted to watching the sales of the stock in the several commission houses handling it, to get a line on the popularity and behavior of the varieties grown. Mr. Morgen expects to spend part of the summer in Europe.

I. M. Hoffman, of La Porte, Ind., was in Chicago May 28. He is a busy and progressive member of the fraternity. The observance of Memorial day, he says, broadens every year and he feels that it will be the largest of our special flower days for all time. Mr. Hoffman says every florist should interest himself in local memorials, monuments or tablets, for those who fell in the world war. These will provide a place for the home people to place wreaths, etc., not only May 30, but on birthday and other anniversaries.

Sam, no longer Sprinkleproof, but spreading sunshine, was here Memorial day.

Because of poor weather, the peony supply for Memorial day was short, but stock such as lilies, cornflowers and carnations took the place of the peony. Gladioli are arriving in good supply and are cleaning up readily. Sweet peas are not good, owing to the dark weather. Blooming shrubs are arriving and help out nicely, especially for cemetery work. Roses seem to be in good condition and, as usual, find a good sale. The price ranges from $6 to $25 per hundred. Carnations are still holding their own at $6 to $8 per hundred. Since the season on outdoor valley is over, the indoor stock is finding a ready market at $8 per hundred. The Memorial day business this year has exceeded that of all other years.

Various Notes.

C. E. Critchell is still receiving some fine cape jasmines from the south and also some good gladioli.

From the manner in which Arthur Becker, of the Avondale Floral Co., has been flying around the market, that firm appears to be doing an unusual amount of business.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange is receiving some fine snapdragons.

G. A. Beckmann, Middletown, O., motored to Cincinnati to get Memorial day stock.

H. W. Sheppard has had plenty of graduation work in the last week and also some funeral work. G. H. K.

C. E. Critchell has announced that during June, July and August his store will close Sundays and at 5 p. m. week days. "Cincinnati has adopted the one hour more daylight plan, which is one hour ahead of central time," reads his notice.

H. E. Klunder has left the employ of H. W. Sheppard and returned to Toledo.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The last week of May began dully, with listless trading and stories of surprisingly cheap sales, and ended with a great rush for Memorial day. Flowers arrived in large quantities and went out about as fast as they came in, right up to the close of business Saturday night. The strength of the demand lay in the shipping orders. They came largely from the battle town up the state, but they came from everywhere most generously. Usually the local business amounts to little at Memorial day. The fashionable city stores do not feel the demand then and the suburban stores that do feel it draw largely from their own neighborhood. This time it was different. The local business was excellent. The cemetery and suburban buyers bought heavily in the wholesale houses, while in the center of the city stores were busier than usual. This was due to the one big disappointment of Memorial day—the peony missed the train. Of course there were peonies. Some came from Virginia; some came from places right here. But there was no quantity of these. Orders were almost invariably cut, while the orders refused were far more numerous than the orders accepted and sent. Who can tell of the orders that were not given because it was believed useless—a sheer waste of time?

Prices varied more than usual at a holiday. This was partly due to the great difference in quality of the stock offered, but mainly to the difference in methods employed. The men who make the market at Christmas and at Easter felt that with the quantity of stock available high prices were not justified, while those who suffer most in times of depression felt that this was a chance to square up that must not be neglected.

Peonies brought $15 and even $20 per hundred. They were really fine. Carnations brought $6, $8 and $10, with Laddie at $12 to $15 and white away down and hard to sell at that, for cheerful colors are wanted for Memorial day. Roses sold at from $3 to $10, with a few fancy at $12 to $15. Russell went at $25 and Beauty at $62.50. The bulk of the roses went at from $6 to $8. Generally speaking, other flowers sold extremely well, while greens were actually scarce and extremely high in price.

Taken all in all, it was a wonderful

Memorial day, due to superb weather and a late spring.

The Plant Market.

The month of May is an important harvesting season in spring plants. The first fortnight was dull, owing possibly to the late spring. The last two weeks have been exceedingly active, ending with a great Memorial day rush. The plantsmen have been handicapped by the scarcity of labor. In many cases they have also complained that their plants seemed to respond more slowly than usual. The result has been that a large amount of stock has not rounded into shape in time and is still on hand.

There has also been difficulty in getting the orders out in time. Taking these drawbacks into consideration, business has been excellent, probably larger than usual.

The demand for pansies and roses was heavy early in the month. The demand for geraniums in bloom—they must be in bud or flower—was big during the fortnight just ended. Fancy stock, such as well colored dracænas and pandanuses, have been unusually popular. Crotons promise to sell well during June. Ferns and hanging vines have been popular. Prices have advanced in proportion to the increased cost of all production.

Sang-froid.

It is generally poor form to use a French word where a good English word will do the work. Still there are exceptions — coolness seems unseasonable, suggestive of refrigeration, perchance.

how that work is done. Mr. Grakelow is both buyer and salesman for his large and rapidly increasing retail business. While much of his ordinary selling is delegated to his lieutenants, he is the largest business getter for his attractive shop and he does practically all the buying. It so chanced that the correspondent of The Review happened to meet Mr. Grakelow in a wholesale commission house doing some of his Memorial day buying. The way it was done merited admiration and the French word at the top of the previous paragraph.

It was high noon Saturday, May 29. The shipping orders were pretty well filled and by all the rules of the game the market should have been easier and in favor of the buyer. But it was not. The commission houses nearly all had advance orders from local buyers that were still unfilled and there was little more stock to be expected before the day closed. Most of the Memorial day orders are taken by retailers at modest prices and the market was high. Mr. Grakelow was in a tight place. You never would have known it. His familiar greeting, "How is the young man?" was delivered exactly as though he had nothing whatever on his mind. His presence in this particular house at that time was a shrewd move, for it is well known on the street that here an expected crop of roses is coming in fine form and with a rush. While critically inspecting a couple of hundred outdoor valley that an obsequious salesman was showing him, Mr. Grakelow talked of current matters. He thought he might go abroad later. He feared the peony crop would be a sad loss to the growers this season and thought the flower-loving public missed it greatly this season despite the fine greenhouse flowers. He thought June would be an active month. Then with a nod and "Hello, Vic," to Mr. Ridenour, who chanced to come in at the moment, the man who is so much admired and feared by commission house salesmen returned to his lilies of the valley.

volume of business done, it shows that publicity for this day has done much to make it one of the big business days in the year.

All the plantsmen report a great demand for pot plants of all kinds. As the day fell on Sunday, the trade had really three days of extraordinary business, from May 29 to 31. Monday many business firms closed up half a day, which gave three days in which to visit the cemeteries.

Cut stock at the wholesale markets was sufficient for all demands, which were reported by the wholesalers as from twenty-five to fifty per cent larger this year than last year, but prices were not up to quotations. The shipping business was especially heavy.

The market was flooded with peonies in all grades. The late spring was just right for them to bloom in large quantities in time for Memorial day. The price dropped to as low as $5 per hundred in big lots for choice stock for the local demand.

There was also a great amount of all seasonable outdoor stock from local growers, while Texas jasmine buds helped to flood the market all the week. Indoor gladiolus spikes of extra fine quality are coming in large lots and the price dropped a few cents during the week. Our local growers say that outdoor-grown gladioli will be coming in soon in large quantities, as all have gone into growing them heavily this season.

Carnations show plainly a lowering in quality as the season advances. The supply is still large and the demand was excellent all through the week.

Roses are holding up well in quality, supply and demand; the demand should keep up well for the next week or two because of the many weddings and school commencements.

An especially fine supply of sweet peas took well for the Memorial day demand. A fine supply of Easter lilies, callas, Shasta daisies and cornflowers helped out in meeting the demand for variety.

All greens last week had one of the largest demands of the season.

Publicity Committee Meets.

The florists' publicity committee met at headquarters, 1316 Pine street, May 25, this being the last meeting of the old committee. The attendance was good and a great deal of business was transacted in winding up the affairs of this committee.

All outstanding bills were ordered paid and the secretary's statement showed that this committee had paid into the treasury of the national publicity committee the sum of $1,205.70 since January 1, 1920, which is twenty-five per cent of the fund collected by this committee.

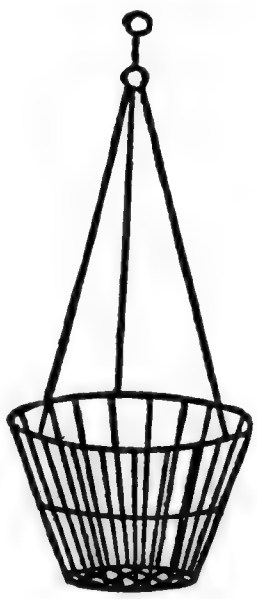
It was also decided to support the "Say It with Flowers" baseball team to the extent of $300 for the season, with $100 additional if the team should win the championship in their league at the end of the season.

This committee has charge of the plans for the celebration of the thirty-fourth anniversary of the St. Louis Florists' Club. Arrangements have been completed for a banquet at the Planters' hotel June 24 at 7:30 p. m. Arthur Beyer's band was engaged for the occasion and prominent speakers and dancing will be featured. The following committees have been appointed by Chairman Bourdet to have complete charge of the event:

Invitations and tickets—Frank A. Windler and J. J. Beneke.
Hall arrangements—A. H. Hummert and Nat Kingsley.
Decorations—Nat Kingsley, Frank X. Gorly and D. S. Geddis.
Door—A. S. Cerny and others to be selected.

The auditing committee, consisting of Albert Gumz, William Ossick and George Kuehner, was requested to have the books of the secretary and treasurer audited in time for the meeting of the new committee Tuesday evening, June 8, at 8 o'clock at headquarters, 1316 Pine street.

Various Notes.



The St. Louis Florists' Club will hold its monthly meeting Thursday afternoon, June 10. The meeting will be featured by interesting discussions and by the reports of the banquet and picnic committees on their final arrangements. The officers meet Thursday evening, June 3, at the home of Trustee Ruff, to arrange the place of the meeting. The secretary will send out notices to all members in time.

The leading hotels, department stores and banks in the downtown district are featuring splendid window box displays. The selection and arrangement of plants show excellent judgment on the part of those who did the work.

Frank X. Gorly spent a few days in Chicago last week, looking over the market for Memorial day, and returned home May 27. At the store of Grimm & Gorly the window displays, under the supervision of Mr. Harvey, were especially featured last week for Memorial day and they had great business for this day.

Carr & Richardson, in Union market, say that the demand for plants and cut flowers is much larger this year than in any previous year. Miss Richardson, of this firm, will visit Yellowstone park the latter part of June, accompanied by her mother. [Concluded on page 120.]

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

AN ORCHID WINDOW.

Window displays bring business. Window displays, as advertising mediums, reach almost as many flower buyers as an advertisement in the newspapers and the number of those that are reached who are not flower buyers, who, by seeing the display, are brought to the realization of the beauty of them, cannot be estimated. But it is certain that a good display of flowers often creates a desire and when the desire is there all the florist has to do is to sell the flowers to appease that desire.

The Hollywood Gardens, Seattle, Wash., had an exceptionally attractive window display recently and it caused much comment. The display was planned and executed by S. A. Dunlap. The blending of the colors, pleasing to the eye, was unusually good. An old weather-beaten, time-whitened stump was set in the middle of the window, with tree ferns forming a background and tree moss at different places on the whitened wood. Orchid plants were set among the ferns, appearing as if they were growing over the tree. The appearance was quite effective. Other ferns were arranged at the base of the stump and a long mirror was placed so as to give the effect of a body of water below. Silver goose figures were placed around the edges of this pool and in the foreground were shown baskets and other receptacles, giving the passers-by ideas of other uses for orchids.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Last week all the principal shipping firms were rushed with business. Retailers, on the other hand, had a rather dull time until the end of the week. As is always the case at a holiday, stock was high in price and difficult to obtain at any price.

Indoor carnations are getting worse each week and not worth the price asked by growers. Roses, however, have been fairly plentiful, good in quality for the season and moderate in price. Daisies, cornflowers and spring stock generally took a decided jump, but this will be only temporary; from now on the prices will be in the buyer's favor.

The usual Memorial day heat set in May 25 and made long-distance shipments risky.

Various Notes.

A most interesting caller on the trade last week was Robert Kessler, well known as a collector of rare and beautiful native plants. He is preparing for his annual trip to the mountains in San Bernardino county, which are rich in native flora. He has been especially successful in collecting the native cypripediums.

J. Ellis, of Bisbee, Ariz., was in the city recently looking up stock for Memorial day. He has sold his store in Bisbee, but is helping out his successor with his experience for a time, until he decides where to locate. He worked up a fine trade in this mining town.

Big vases of gladioli and delphiniums are making a fine show in the remodeled store of F. Lichtenberg.

Purdie & Co. had an effective window last week, soliciting telegraph orders for wreaths. Some elegant samples were shown.

Fred Howard, of Howard & Smith, says that repeat orders for their choice cineraria seed are coming in at the rate of fifty or more a day.

The Superior Nursery Co. is reëntering the dahlia business. Its dahlia gardens, on Figueroa street, are being again planted to the finest and best cut flower varieties. C. Gutting says that business this season in dry bulbs has been far in advance of that of any previous year. H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

Receipts of flowers have not decreased much, if any, since the report of last week, but there was an increased demand which changed the aspect of the wholesale market from a quiet resting place for large quantities of stock to an active business center, with buyers arriving earlier than usual in order to obtain their immediate requirements.

A heavy Memorial day movement of flowers had been counted upon, but it was hardly expected that out-of-town shipments would run into such a large amount in view of the uncertainty in transportation. As a matter of fact, the express company has been inclined to discourage the shipment of cut flowers from here and only accepts consignments of this nature when the shipper signs a release of all claims for damage. This has kept some of the shippers from soliciting business from far-distant points and no doubt has curtailed the movement of flowers quite generally, which gives rise to speculation as to how much business could have been done Memorial day had this handicap not existed, when, notwithstanding it, the movement was heavier than in for-

Summer Flowers

Summer shipments are always difficult to get through. Therefore we will take especial care that all flowers sent out are strictly fresh, cut and shipped in bud wherever possible, boxes well lined and well iced.

Roses are our leaders, but we can always supply anything seasonable. Just now Asters, Gladioli, Shasta Daisies and Carnations are plentiful. Order a box today.

WE CLOSE SUNDAYS

mer years. Tuesday and Wednesday, May 25 and 26, were the biggest days for long-distance shipping. Local requirements and shipments to nearby points cleaned up large quantities of stock during the remainder of the week.

Prices stiffened up all along the line under the influence of the strong Memorial day demand. Peonies were short of the demand and the daily offerings were sold before they reached the market. Gladioli were in much the same position. Bride was plentiful, but the other varieties of gladioli were in light supply, including Blushing Bride and Peach Blossom.

After the avalanche of roses last week, some varieties are a little off crop now, but, on the whole, the market was well supplied for Memorial day. The shortage was particularly noticeable on Russell and Ophelia and it was more the heavy demand for both of these than decreased production which made the supply give out early in the day. Ulrich Brunner showed excellent quality and met with a heavy demand locally.

Carnations were in full crop. Prices went up a little after the big drop a short time ago, but it is hardly expected, even with the big call for Memorial day, that they will reach the former high level again this season, as indications point to a large cut during the next few weeks.

Lilies were plentiful and had a good call. Outdoor summer flowers, in wide variety, rounded out the offerings on the local market in fine shape.

Orchids and gardenias were both short of requirements.

Various Notes.

Fred Bertrand has purchased the flower stand in the lobby of the Palace hotel from the MacRorie-McLaren Co. and will conduct it under the name of the Bertrand Flower & Novelty Shop. He also retains the management of the MacRorie-McLaren store on Powell street. Heretofore he has made his headquarters at the Powell street establishment and paid the Palace hotel branch a visit or two a day. Under the new arrangement he will have his headquarters at the hotel and make frequent trips to the MacRorie-McLaren store. Gus Taylor, formerly at the Palace, has been transferred to Powell street and Clarence McLaughlin, who has been employed at the store, has taken a position with Mr. Bertrand. Mr. Bertrand has been identified with the florists' business in San Francisco for many years. Before becoming manager of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., he was manager of Joseph's shop, on Grant avenue.

Mrs. Mary J. Ansbro has opened for business at 1563 Polk street, where she has an attractive store known as the Royal Florist Shop. She still has her place on Geary street, near Larkin, formerly conducted by Miss Recardie Lee Murray. Mrs. Ansbro was with the Misses Hannon on Polk street for nine years and is happy to be supplying again

Cinerarias

H. & S. Prize Mixed, The Finest Strain in America.

See page advertisement, page 53 of The Review for May 27

Sow them now for midwinter and early spring blooming. Seed saved from an unrivaled collection of pot-grown plants, remarkable for their compact habit, enormous size of blooms and splendid range of colors.

We have spent years of patient labor in bringing this strain to its present state of perfection. Flowers four to four and one-half inches in diameter are common and in some of our latest types, petals are three-quarters inch across.

Colors include all shades from purest white to darkest crimson, with all intermediate shades of blue, lavender, pink, purple, scarlet, and gorgeous giant-flowered bicolored varieties. Seed carefully hand-picked, strong in germinating qualities, the very best you can buy.

Azaleas and similar plants will be scarce during the coming winter. A batch of Cinerarias will find a ready sale if well grown.

Trade Packet $1.00

Calendulas

Calendula Orange King—For a Fall catch crop make a sowing of our superb strain of this well known Calendula. It is something different. Blossoms of giant size, perfectly formed, absolutely double. Color rich dark orange. No better strain procurable. Well worth while.

Large Trade Packet. $1.00
Half Size Trade Packet..... .50

Calendula Lemon Queen—A superb selection with immense double flowers, rich lemon yellow in color. This will prove a fine companion to our Orange King. Although the seed has been carefully selected from the finest double blossoms, this variety will always throw some semi-doubles, but our strain may be relied upon to produce not less than 85 per cent of perfect flowers. At any rate, we doubt if you can get better.

Large Trade Packet.... .....$1.00
Half Size Trade Packet..... .50

Aquilegia

Columbine

We are offering for the first time the following strains of these elegant, long-spurred, large-flowered Columbines. The blossoms are of remarkable size, elegantly formed, with spurs of extraordinary length. Sown now they will give you fine clumps for Spring sales. Useful for cut flowers, easily grown, popular everywhere.

H. & S. Selected Pink Shades

A splendid selection producing about 85 per cent true to color. Includes all shades from apple blossom pink to darkest rose.

Trade Packet $1.00

H. & S. Selected Blue Shades

All colors from palest sky blue to deepest purple. The intervening shades and bicolor varieties are handsome to a degre.. 85 per cent true.

Trade Packet $1.00

H. & S. Prize Mixed

A combination of the foregoing separate colors with innumerable other shades and combinations of colors. A strain of superior quality and one that we feel quite certain will satisfy the most exacting.

Trade Packet $1.00

Gerbera Jamesonii

Transvaal Daisy

CHOICE MIXED HYBRIDS

Our strain of these includes all colors from pure white to darkest crimson with all intermediate shades of orange, lemon, pink, rose, scarlet, carmine, etc. The mixture is well balanced, and a package of seed will give you all of the shades above noted. Sown now you will have some fine pot plants for your Spring trade. Unexcelled as a lasting cut flower for florist decorative work.

the flower needs of old friends in that neighborhood.

J. Lazarian has sold his interest in the Polk Street Florists to his partner, M. Bartevian, and the latter is now giving the business his personal attention. He has secured additional space and has gone to considerable expense in renovating and enlarging the store.

Mrs. R. E. Darbee reported a heavy shipping business in Memorial day stock to the northwest, south and Rocky mountain states, but no great amount of orders east of Denver, owing to the uncertainty of deliveries. She has only shipped at the consignee's risk. Instead of driving up into Oregon on her vacation trip, starting next week, as was planned, Mrs. Darbee has decided to go no farther than Humboldt county, Cal., on account of the gasoline shortage.

N. F. Baldocchi, of Podesta & Baldocchi, reports business seasonably active. Definite word has not been received of V. Podesta's arrival in Europe, but his associates figure that he has probably reached his old home in Genoa, Italy.

Miss Bertha Cohen reports business well up to expectations at Thomas Bros.' new store, at 1607 Polk street. She has been especially busy on graduation baskets and bouquets.

The California Floral Co. used about 150 dozen Ulrich Brunner roses in a large church decoration, together with large quantities of Easter lilies and other flowers.

which will be announced a little later. They report business good all through the month of May, with the outlook favorable for a good June. Already a number of nice wedding decorations have been booked for the month.

Albert O. Stein shipped a number of large floral pieces to Santa Cruz for the opening of the new St. George hotel. There has been enough work all told to keep the Stein staff quite busy right along. Much attention is now directed to June weddings. An elaborate decoration is booked for June 6 and orders are on file for a good many other weddings during the month. Mr. Stein is leaving on a month's vacation, during which he will visit Portland, Seattle and other points in the Pacific northwest. Upon his return the first of July, Patrick Orr and others of the force will take their vacations.

Henry Avansino, manager of the E. W. McLellan Co., reported a heavy shipping business for Memorial day. Mr. Avansino found Ophelia a particularly good rose for Memorial day.

J. A. Axell had about all the shipping orders he could handle for Memorial day, although he managed to get considerable extra help. For two nights his crew worked until midnight. Tuesday, May 25, a ton of ice was used in small chunks in the boxes shipped out, which gives an idea of the volume of business handled that day, and Wednesday, May 26, was about as heavy.

C. Kooyman says that business is rushing, flowers are plentiful and everybody is happy.

The United Flower & Supply Co. reports some interference with shipping business on account of the express situation, but is supplying a big demand for flowers locally and to nearby points.

G. Feye, formerly with C. Kooyman for five years, has leased eleven acres of the Jones estate, near Hayward, Cal., and planted about a half-million bulbs this spring, including daffodils, gladioli, amaryllis, tulips, narcissi, etc. His intention is to supply the trade with bulbous flowers the year around, specializing on fancy stock. are in sight. Their bedding plant business is also the largest they have ever had.

The florists of the city are looking forward to meeting their brother nurserymen next month. The convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Nurserymen is going to be held in this city the latter part of June.

The requirements of the spring and June brides, also the demand for commencement bouquets and corsages, are beginning to stimulate the demand for roses.

Prices on bedding plants are not being cut so heavily by the markets this year as in former years. Most of the small growers around town find that they cannot buy coal at $8 or $9 per ton and almost give their stock to the markets at the same time. H. H.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Local trade conditions last week were about normal, with unfavorable weather conditions cutting into the receipts from local growers and enabling prices to be held steady on all lines. The only really notable exception to this is lily of the valley, which is now rather common and on which growers' prices have been reduced materially.

During the week preceding Memorial day, the retailers were naturally worried as to whether they would have enough stock to carry them through and nearly every firm had booked some stock from California to be sure of meeting the demand. Large numbers of advance orders were booked for Memorial day.

Recent unfavorable weather has particularly slowed up the marketing of peonies, gladioli and outdoor calceolarias and all of these items figure prominently in the orders which have been placed with the California growers.

The business in bedding stock has been slower, as the first rush is past and current prices are too high to bring many repeat orders. As a result there is more of a tendency to use the blooms from bedding stock as cut flowers and in baskets. Several of the stores featured cut calceolarias in their window displays last week, to good effect.

Partly as a result of the failure of outdoor flowers to mature as rapidly as was expected, potted plants last week met with a fine sale. Potted primroses have been in heavier supply and, with potted calceolarias, led in the sales. A few potted hydrangeas are to be seen in one or two stores, but these are small and will command less interest than they did a few weeks back. Chinese asters were a novelty offered by one or two of the local growers and are likely to increase in supply. Potted geraniums were shown everywhere, but met with only a casual sale, while the finest examples of potted fuchsias to be shown this year were among the arrivals.

Roses have held up in fair shape as to cut and greenhouse shipments have been of high quality. Some California shipments are coming in, notably White Killarney and Cecile Brunner, but Brunner was mostly off color and proved to be a slow seller. Some fine locally grown Ward roses are being shown.

Sweet peas have been seen in profusion and added color is noted in late arrivals. Tulips and narcissi are being freely used, although arrivals of neither

The Problem Solved

Growers are beginning to realize the difficulty in procuring Flower Pots in sufficient quantity to supply their demands.

Concrete Flower Pots are practical and serviceable. Plants do as well or better than in clay pots.

The Concrete Flower Pot Machine will make flower pots in any size from 2 to 12 inches.

Several new varieties of iris came in from the growers last week and the purple and yellow stock is being used in corsages instead of orchids by a number of florists. Gladioli are the most popular of the long-stemmed spring flowers and are being used in combination with snapdragons extensively.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, B. O. Dungan, Philadelphia, Pa.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

INDICATIONS point to a live convention of the American Seed Trade Association at Milwaukee June 22 to 24.

A FRENCH decree of May 21 removed the embargo on the exportation of clover seed in force since March 23, 1920.

SHIPMENTS of cyclamen seed are on their way from Germany, reports A. Miller, president of the American Bulb Co., Chicago.

TRANSPORTATION facilities have improved in the last week and seedsmen are now cutting down the accumulation of orders on their hands.

THE Iowa Seed Dealers' Association held its annual meeting at Des Moines June 1 and 2. A good-sized gathering found the sessions of a great deal of interest.

NEXT week the Southern Seedsmen's Association convenes at Jacksonville, Fla., June 7 to 9. The program and plans for the meeting were given in The Review for May 13.

STRONGER call is being felt at retail stores for seeds for home gardens. The warm weather and newspapers' accounts of the serious food situation have stirred home owners to action.

A. HENDERSON, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, says that the crops of French and Dutch bulbs are reported to be good, but that it is not yet certain whether they will be adequate in amount.

THE Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O., is having a grand rush for garden seeds, according to Carl Barto. Buyers are just beginning to wake up, after the cold, backward season.

THIS is pruning time—for mailing lists. The average mail-order seed house can recover part of the greatly increased cost of catalogues by cutting the dead and duplicate names from its mailing lists.

WHEN you have just moved into your new store and your telephone is not yet installed and the weather is such that no work is being done in the fields, so that no seeds are called for and no one comes in, then it is hard to tell what is happening. At least, that was the way N. Sluis, of N. Sluis & Son, Chicago, found it last week. But his telephone is in now and the weather has improved.

J. V. ODIL, who was formerly with the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, and later with the United States Seed Co., St. Louis, Mo., is now manager of the wholesale department of the Everette R. Peacock Co., Chicago. Mr. Odil is at present in the south, where he is especially well known in the trade, and will attend the convention of the Southern Seedsmen's Associaciation at Jacksonville, Fla., June 7 to 9.

THE retail seed season has not fulfilled the most sanguine hopes. Weather conditions have not been favorable; gardening is not a lazy man's job, and indolence is said to have become a national characteristic since the armistice; people do not garden most industriously when they have money, and money never was so plentiful as now, coupled with which is the important fact that market growers have reduced their acreage because of labor shortage.

THERE is a good demand now for late sowing field seeds, including rape and millet, and Thomas J. E. Kemp, manager of the Illinois Seed Co., Chicago, expects that demand to increase during the next few weeks.

HOUSE WANTS FREE SEEDS.

The House of Representatives refused May 24 to eliminate from the agricultural appropriation bill $229,000 for the distribution of free seeds. The vote was 204 to 107. The bill thereupon went back to conference, since the Senate had previously instructed its conferees not to accept the free seed item.

In the dispute which followed, a compromise was offered the House May 27 by the Senate, which voted, 39 to 23, to provide $75,000 for such distribution by the Department of Agriculture in lieu of the House appropriation for free seed gifts by members of Congress. During the debate the seed gifts were denounced as "congressional graft" and "a cheap, demagogic way of appealing to the people."

A VEGETABLE GOLD BRICK.

Savage disciples of voodoo worship in the American tropics ascribe supernatural powers to the jack bean. These tribesmen plant a row of the seed around their rude gardens in the belief that the plant will punish trespassers. This custom was doubtless brought by negro slaves from Africa, where the similar sword or fetich bean is thus worshiped. But the bureau of plant industry of the United States Department of Agriculture fails to support this weird belief concerning the bean. Nor do these scientists find much else to recommend this plant stranger from the West Indies.

The jack bean, it appears from abundant experiments, is a prolific plant. It is not unusual for the seeds in their 14-inch pods of a jack-bean plant to

The KENILWORTH Giant Pansy Seed

10. KENILWORTH GIANT EXHIBITION is the very finest complete mixture ever sent out. Seed carefully saved only from marked plants of the best varieties, with the largest and best shaped flowers and richest coloring. It is impossible to convey an adequate idea of the delightful variations in color and markings of this unrivaled mixture. 500 seeds, 30c; 1000 seeds, 50c; ⅛ oz., $1.35; ¼ oz., $2.50; oz., $10.00.

12. KENILWORTH GIANT PRIZE. The enormous flowers are of perfect form and of great substance. Petals overlapped and undulating. The rich colorings and markings are widely varied, some flowers being almost self-colored. 500 seeds, 30c; 1000 seeds, 50c; ⅛ oz., $1.35; ¼ oz., $2.50; oz., $10.00.

New Early-Flowering or Winter-Blooming

An entirely new and distinct strain of Pansies. The main advantage of these new Pansies over all hitherto existing Pansies is the extreme earliness of flowering. Sown at the same time as other Pansies, they begin flowering the early part of March or as soon as the snow is off the ground, many times having four or five large flowers to a plant, when all other Pansies are only showing buds. The flowers are large, well formed and fragrant.

4. JANE COWEN. Petals violet, upper ones almost white.
5. MARS CORNFLOWER. Blue.
6. NORTH POLE. Pure snow white.
7. WORDEN. Quite black.
8. HELIOS. Pure yellow.
14. WINTER SUN. Golden yellow, with dark eye.
15. ICE KING. Silvery white, with dark eye.
16. CELESTIAL QUEEN. Light or sky blue.
17. CHARM OF MARCH. Dark velvety blue.
18. A mixture of all colors and shades.

500 seeds, 25c; 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; oz., $7.50.

19. TRIMARDEAU GIANT PANSIES. Very showy class of vigorous, compact growth, flowers of enormous size, a fine mixture, 1000 seeds, 30c; 4000 seeds, $1.00; ¼ oz., $1.35; ½ oz., $2.50; 1 oz., $5.00.
22. GIANT KENILWORTH STRAIN. The flowers are of perfect form and substance; many of the immense flowers are 3-inch. It is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, medium or dark mixtures. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00.
24. GIANT KENILWORTH SHOW is undoubtedly the largest flowered Pansy in the world; the immense flowers are of circular form. A beautiful collection of colors and markings. 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.75; 1 oz., $7.50.
26. GIANT KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE. Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 6 or 7 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well. 1000 seeds, 40c; ¼ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.75; 1 oz., $7.50.

28. GIANT MASTERPIECE. A remarkable type, the curled wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance; large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stems, and its ability to stand the hot, dry weather, makes it a favorite for cut flowers. 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.75; 1 oz., $7.50.
30. GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED PANSIES. A superb mixture. Flowers large and of circular form and of great substance. The display of coloring is unsurpassed. A combination of almost every shade of rich, velvety colors; reds are particularly conspicuous, the petals being distinctly marked with three or five large, dark blotches. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00.
32. GIANT PARISIAN. The flowers are of enormous size and beautifully marked, mostly five dark blotches on white and yellow ground; an unusually showy mixture. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00.
34. GIANT BRONZE. A fine mixture of all shades of velvety brown, bronze, Havana brown, mahogany and copper shades. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00.
36. TRIUMPH OF GIANT. Remarkably beautiful. The imposing five-spotted flowers on long, vigorous stalks surmount the foliage in the most graceful manner, are of enormous size, perfectly round and of unusual substance. The individual petals are very broad and cover each other in such a manner as to make the flowers appear almost double, the border of every petal being conspicuously curled. The plants are of a robust growth and form compact bushes of a round shape. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00.
40. GIANT BATH'S EMPRESS. The finest of fancy English Pansies. Flowers are very large, mostly frilled and blotched and of great substance and the colors are brilliant and varied. 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.75; 1 oz., $7.50.
70. ORCHID-FLOWERED, Mixed. A dwarf, free bloomer, with a range of delicate colors that do not exist in any other Pansies; a remarkable combination of light rose, shell pink, blush mauve, fawn, light brown, orange and chamois. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00.

Giant Pansy Seed

42. Adonis. Light blue, dark center.
44. Black. Almost coal black.
48. Lord Beaconsfield. Purple, shaded white.
50. Goliath. Large, curled yellow, blotched.
54. Pres. Carnot. White, five blue blotches.
56. Light Blue Shades.
58. Indigo Blue. Deep, velvety blue.
60. Hortensia-Red. Light rose.
62. Prince Henry. Dark blue.

outweigh its own herbage, and the herbage, if cut green, frequently crops at the rate of sixteen to twenty tons per acre. This wonderful productiveness makes the bean a favorite of the get-rich-quick gentry who seek to introduce a new and marvelous commercial plant. This popularity among unscrupulous promoters accounts in part, at least, for the numerous aliases under which the jack bean is known. "Pearson bean," "wonder bean," "Wataka bean," "Gotani bean," "South American coffee bean," etc., are only a few of the names in which the jack bean has been rechristened.

It has some value in the south as a green-manure crop, and there is evidence to show that it may be a good silage crop when cut green.

Cattle do not relish the jack-bean hay, nor do they make gains upon the ground seed, which product they must be taught to eat.

The bean is eaten by natives of Mexico, but most experimenters describe it as flat and coarse in flavor.

The seed contains a large proportion of a material known as urease and used in chemical analysis, but the demand for this product is extremely limited.

After all, the scientists warn the prospective buyer of "wonder beans" to have a specimen identified, or else confine the first plantings to small areas until the doubtful values of the bean are better established and a better market provided than seems to exist at present.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

Charles Frost, Kenilworth, N. J.—"The Kenilworth Strain of Giant Pansy Seed," an illustrated, well printed folder. Many distinct varieties and separate colors are listed, as well as numerous mixtures. "It is a well known fact," says Mr. Frost, "that American carefully grown pansy seed will produce larger flowers than European seed."

Lester B. Linsley, West Haven, Conn.—A 16-page catalogue of dahlias, with no illustrations, but with clear descriptions. The lists contain a good proportion of new varieties, many of them originated by Stredwick, in England. Half a dozen special assortments, of Mr. Linsley's selection, are offered. Brief cultural directions are given.

Babcock Peony Gardens, Jamestown, N. Y.—Illustrated catalogue of peonies and other hardy plants. Peonies are the specialty and occupy about a dozen of the total twenty large pages. Many of Brand's novelties and older introductions are included. At the beginning are a few paragraphs of concise cultural directions. Besides the peonies, the lists comprise narcissi, irises, phloxes, lilies, perennials and a selection of shrubs.

Allen's Water Gardens, Los Angeles, Cal.—Illustrated catalogue of water lilies, miscellaneous aquatics, aquarium plants, goldfish and rustic garden ornaments; a tasteful 12-page booklet, in an artistically designed green and gold cover. The garden ornaments are made of cement, in imitation of tree stumps and branches. Brief suggestions are given on the construction of lily ponds.

Ant. C. Zvolanek & Sons, Lompoc, Cal.—"Florists' List of Sweet Pea Seed." The list is a practical, selective one, rather than an exhaustive one. The company says, "We have now

RETAIL STORE MANAGEMENT

WHAT THE LEADERS IN THE TRADE ARE DOING

PAYING YOURSELF A SALARY.

The Proprietor's Problem.

There seems to be a great difference of opinion as to what salary a man should draw when he is in business for himself. Some feel that he should have as much as he could earn if he were working elsewhere; others think that he should draw as much as he needs to live on and to support his family in keeping with the character of the business which he is conducting.

Both of these conclusions are wrong. Take the matter home to yourself, for example. If you were working for someone else you would get what you would be worth in that position, or else you would lose your job. In other words, you would have to make good or give place to someone else.

Dangerous Policy.

Again, if you are in business for yourself and were to draw whatever seemed to be necessary to live upon, you would be almost sure to let your expenses run beyond what the business could actually carry with safety. This would be unwise and dangerous and would lead to financial embarrassment sooner or later.

If you should decide, however, that you should pay yourself as much as you would pay someone else to fill the position properly, you will come nearer the mark. This should not be an extravagant salary, but a fair and reasonable fixed recompense. You will then feel that you are receiving adequate remuneration for your time and that you are having an opportunity to show what you can do in the way of building up a business for yourself.

Naturally, you will want to succeed and you will want to know whether you are succeeding or not, because if your capital stock is not increasing in value or earning dividends you might as well work for someone else and save care and responsibility incident to an individual business enterprise.

Inventory Finds Trouble.

The best way is to take a thorough and careful inventory once every six months, that you may discover the gross and net profits for that period. If the business shows no profits, something is wrong—either the overhead expense is too high; the aggregate volume of business is too small; the establishment is wrongly located; inefficiently managed; does not give a needed service; has too much competition, or is operating without the necessary credit to tide it over emergencies. Whatever the trouble is, it should be located and remedied, for delay is sure to prove dangerous and if, after a reasonable time, the business does not show improvement, then drastic measures should be taken in the way of a different management, new blood, a more up-to-date policy or some other remedy.

When, however, the business shows a profit, as it should, the sum of net profit should be regarded as an amount quite by itself.

Part of these net profits should be set aside for reinvestment in the business; part should constitute a safety margin in case of an emergency. And in case the profits are sufficient, a fair percentage should be awarded to the proprietor. He is encouraged thereby to do his best and to work for the advancement of the business, for in so doing he is building up a larger and more valuable property for himself and insuring future prosperity.

When Endeavors Fail.

Just as soon as the business will not pay a fair living wage for the man at the head he may be certain that something is wrong.

The case comes to mind of a florist whose business dropped off so badly

Are Some of Us Like Old Sam?

Along in April, when spending a few days with some Georgian friends, an amusing thing occurred.

While at dinner one night we kept hearing Old Sam, the "kitchen nigger," praying something powerful.

He prayed for to "send the Angel of the Lord down and take Old Sam home."

Over and over he prayed, the same thing each time; over and over he prayed, growing louder and louder.

Finally my friend got up on tip-toe, and going around to the kitchen door, gave three measured knocks.

Promptly Sam stopped praying, and called out in a hoarse whisper: "Who dat dar?"

My friend answered: "The Angel of the Lord come down to take Old Sam home."

Promptly Sam yelled his loudest: "Go 'way from dar, Angel; ain't no one by name Sam here."

Every time since then, that one of our boys kind of gets a notion in his head he'd like to do something that I just plain know he isn't ready to do; remind him of Old Sam.

Which in turn reminds me that we are certainly appreciative of the fine lot of F. T. D.'s you good friends all over the country sent us for Decoration Day.

Never had the like of it before.

Which, of course, is the kind of a like that we particularly like.

that he cut down his own salary in order to have more with which to pay bills. At last it became impossible for him to take any salary at all. The business was getting into debt and his home expenses were running behind. Naturally he was much distressed, as he saw nothing ahead of him except bankruptcy.

He was convinced that there must be a change and that, too, at an early date. He had no money to waste, but he determined to consult a business doctor or expert and he argued rightly that he couldn't afford a cheap one, whose services would be of doubtful value.

When he had located the right man, he told him the whole story, concealing nothing, and laying before him a complete financial statement of assets, liabilities and accounts and figures for the previous year.

The business doctor said pleasantly, but firmly:

"Man, you are traveling on the wrong principle altogether, and as a result you are on the edge of failure. Even yet, though, we may be able to save the day. As soon as your credit began to fail you, business suffered and you ceased to be self-respecting.

Unfair to All.

"You have put in twice as many hours as anyone else, have worked harder and carried the responsibility. Consequently, your salary was as honest a business debt as that of any other creditor. You have done yourself an injustice to ignore it. It is necessary for you to live and for your family to live. When you got into debt, with no prospect of paying, you were not fair to the butcher, the grocer, the coal man and the milk man. It was as broad as it was long. You should have taken your salary and paid your living expenses. As it is, you have let these accounts go and have paid others which had a less claim.

"I find that you are solvent, although you have not sufficient liquid assets to handle your business. The thing to do is to go to the bank, put up some collateral security and borrow money to wipe out these outstanding obligations put that fixed amount into the bank in an account by itself regularly. This means that an individual by the name of Interest is on your pay roll and you must plan to pay him the same as you do other help. If you do that, you will have no trouble being ready with your interest money when it is due.

"But paying interest really does not get a man far ahead. Sometimes, in fact, it puts him away behind. Once in six months take your inventory and figure your net profits. Now, the amount of your net profits must be divided into three sums. The first sum is for reinvestment, enlargement and business expansion. This sum must be carefully spent, for if you do as you ought to do with it, it will spell the measure of your future success. The second sum should be set aside as an emergency fund. It is wise to put it in a bank by itself, so that it is always available if you find yourself in a corner or where you need ready money to put across a profitable deal. If you use it, however, consider it a loan from that account and return it as soon as you can. The third or last third of the net profits must go to reduce the principal of your debt. If you can make a regular payment on it every and stronger to take care of the situation with. It is all simply a matter of common sense and sticking to the plan I have mapped out."

Today this florist, who was once on the point of bankruptcy, is drawing a handsome salary. It is large enough so that he makes savings regularly out of it and invests these savings for himself and family, no matter what comes. By this arrangement he knows that his future is secure and his private fortune is continually increasing.

Sound Business Principles.

The reason that his business has continued to be successful is because the man at the head of it has continued to observe sound business principles and has never allowed his prosperity to cause him to be careless or indifferent.

Throughout his business career he has had an accounting such as above described every six months and has paid his debts and has made the division of the net profits according to his best

TO BUILD UP FUTURE TRADE.

Lay Your Foundation Now.

In these days of prosperity, when the public is spending money with no regard to value received, with the purchasing power of the dollar cut in half, with enormous profits on one hand and limited production on the other, it is quite an easy matter for a business man to sit back, take things easy and still prosper. But even today we hear a new tone ringing throughout the commercial world, a clamoring for greater and still greater production on all sides, and this can be interpreted in only one way by every thinking man. It is the forerunner of a readjusted commercial world, in which the present demand will be well supplied, and in some lines oversupplied, and in which prices will come down to normal and profits will be smaller.

Just think for a moment what this is going to mean to you. Suppose, for instance, that the stock you bought today cost you only one-half what you actually paid for it, and that you sold it for only one-half what you actually did sell it for; what would your profit have been and what would it be for the week? Could your business prosper on this basis? I think not. So today, before this condition has actually come about, is the time to lay plans for the future, to build a foundation that will weather a possible storm.

The writer is interested in every man who derives a livelihood from the production and sale of flowers; it matters not whether he is the large grower or the humble fellow, with perhaps only a few frames, or the exclusive storekeeper, or the one who has only a stand in some market. Their interests are his interests and his desire is to see the florists' business of the country put upon such a foundation that if a storm does break, the trade will stand like the Rock of Gibraltar. There is perhaps not a man engaged in the business who would not like to see the same condition and the first question he will naturally ask is how this can be brought about.

As the result of careful study, the three fundamentals that I would suggest are organization, square dealing and advertising. It is a well known fact that while the florists are better organized today than they have ever been before, yet their organization is far from what it is possible to make it. In my estimation the National Flower Growers' Association has the right idea in organization, with a local in every community. If you have not already done so, read J. view for May 6. And, if I might give a hint to the retailers, now is the time for them to follow the lead of their brothers. Would it not be possible for a committee from each of these organizations to get together periodically and act as a board of trade, and at least fix the maximum price of stock? This would certainly be square dealing.

Come in on Local Coöperation.

At Mothers' day I saw white carnations advanced 100 per cent. But you will say that supply and demand regulate prices. I am not going into the question of whether this was a just increase or not. In several cases, however, the daily press took it up and it is a well known fact that such news articles make bad impressions. The point for you as a florist to realize is that old conditions have changed, that competition both within and outside of your business is becoming stronger every day. These are conditions that you will be obliged to meet. Then why not prepare now to do it? One of the surest ways to do this is to educate the public in the use of flowers; ninety per cent of three fundamentals that I would suggest are organization, square dealing and advertising. It is a well known fact that while the florists are better organized today than they have ever been before, yet their organization is far from what it is possible to make it. In my estimation the National Flower Growers' Association has the right idea in organization, with a local in every community. If you have not already done so, read J. Fred Ammann's message to growers on page 17 of The Review for May 6. And, if I might give a hint to the retailers, now is the time for them to follow the lead of their brothers. Would it not be possible for a committee from each of these organizations to get together periodically and act as a board of trade, and at least fix the maximum price of stock? This would certainly be square dealing.

Come in on Local Coöperation.

At Mothers' day I saw white carnations advanced 100 per cent. But you will say that supply and demand regulate prices. I am not going into the question of whether this was a just increase or not. In several cases, however, the daily press took it up and it is a well known fact that such news articles make bad impressions. The point for you as a florist to realize is that old conditions have changed, that competition both within and outside of your business is becoming stronger every day. These are conditions that you will be obliged to meet. Then why not prepare now to do it? One of the surest ways to do this is to educate the public in the use of flowers; ninety per cent of modity successfully you must keep at it all of the time and there are few men connected with the business today who are in a financial condition to do this, but in a coöperative campaign, with everyone doing his bit, it can be accomplished. Every florist, no matter how small his business may be, if he is a contributor, when he sees "Say It with Flowers" advertised anywhere, can point to that advertisement and say, "That is my advertisement." This may not seem much at first glance, but you will be surprised at the dignity it will add to your little business.

There is a well known saying that results of advertising can only be felt and not seen. I wish to take issue with that statement. It has been my privilege, through the courtesy of the agency which has the Baltimore campaign in charge, to make a close study of its workings. This campaign is but 6 weeks old; one of its features is a $2 special box on Saturday. One up-to-date retailer, who went into it in the true spirit, had two calls the first day, four the second day and seventeen the third. In every case the customer asked for the box as advertised. These boxes in most cases were sold to new customers, or people who were not regular buyers of flowers. There is no doubt that this was the result of the advertisement. Study these figures, think of

FREESIAS AND THE FREYS.

How They Came to California.

Since Alois Frey moved his freesias from Crown Point, Ind., to San Fernando, Cal., his work has more and more attracted the attention of those interested in such things on the Pacific coast. In the farm and tractor section of the Los Angeles Sunday Times, May 16, a page was devoted to an illustrated story entitled, "Growing Rainbow-Hued Freesia Bulbs for the Market." In its account of Mr. Frey's work, the Times said:

"Alois Frey has been a devotee of floriculture ever since his boyhood days in Switzerland. Before he was full-grown he was a zealous experimenter in hybridization. He worked with all kinds of flowers, giving his time and study to the one subject. Gradually he concentrated on bulbous plants and then on his great hobby—freesias.

these naturally white flowers in all the hues of the rainbow and in every conceivable shade of every color. He also sought longer stems, larger flowers and different types generally. Some idea of the success he has achieved may be gained from the fact that he is now propagating about 3,000 kinds of flowers, each having in it something of distinctiveness. His specialties are pinks, lavenders, oranges, reds, yellows and bronzes in a multitude of shadings.

"He says he came to southern California because conditions here are so like those of the extreme south of France, where the lovely white freesia of South African origin is grown in such profusion. Freesia bulb propagation in the Hoosier state is a greenhouse business strictly, while in the east the flowers themselves are, on account of their seasonal habits, grown indoors in pots. Successful hybridizing is always best controlled under glass and Mr. Frey will continue for the present to carry on this kind of work at his Indiana range, but he declares that he has definitely finished with indoor bulb propagation and will handle this commercial end of the business at his San Fernando valley flower farm from now on. Eventually it is his intention to duplicate his Indiana greenhouses here

Settling Amid the Olives.

"Mr. Frey and his wife, who, like himself, is a student of floriculture, bought an old 10-acre olive grove about two miles north of the town of San Fernando, on Hubbard avenue, a year ago. The first few months were occupied in grubbing out the old trees, which, because they were of inferior varieties, were not worth saving. Then the ground was put in shape and in late August and during September two acres of the land were set out to bulbs brought from the Indiana establishment. Freesias made up by far the greater part of the planting, but the generally inviting conditions led the Freys to put out also a considerable number of French irises and small calla lilies. Between six and seven acres of the land have now been prepared for a cover crop of sweet clover and, after this has been plowed under, will be ready for planting to the bulblets being developed this year on the place. Meanwhile Mr. and Mrs. Frey are completing an attractive home in a clump of olive trees on the remaining area of the property.

"'Freesias for outdoor commercial growing in this section require a soil with a certain amount of sand,' Mr. Frey says. 'They should be planted in September and kept irrigated by an overhead sprinkling system, which is the easiest to control. The rows should be eighteen inches apart, although the bulbs can be grown in beds or borders where they are not being handled on a large scale. I make the furrows and set out by hand. The smaller bulblets

Quick Growers.

"'The care of freesias is rather hard work. They should be kept carefully weeded and the ground should be kept stirred up with a hand cultivator. The plants come up quickly and begin to bloom about February 15 to March 1. Mine were at their best about March 15.

"'The main object of the business, of course, is the production of bulbs for the market, although we expect also to handle cut flowers. This year we are interested principally in producing bulblets for the planting of our remaining acreage. By next year it will be time for us to be thinking more about the marketing of bulbs, for by that time we shall have a great number of 2-year bulbs. The thing for which the freesia propagator aims, of course, is to get his establishment on the basis where he can be turning out a constant supply of the 3-year-old or mammoth bulbs used in forcing the largest and finest flowers.'

"The production of freesia bulbs is an interesting process. The bulb makes little bulblets around its base, these averaging from three to six in number, although running as high as twenty or more. The bulblets are about the size of a pea. After the main flowering in March, Mr. Frey trimmed down his plants to keep them from going to seed. By the end of May, he expected, the foliage would have dried out sufficiently to make the bulbs and their clinging bulblets ready for harvesting. Just before they are taken up, the ground is watered so that it may be worked with a spading fork.

"It is especially necessary, it is pointed out, to keep the bulbs dry and comparatively cool.

"The flowers produced in March from the 1-year and 2-year bulbs brought by the Freys from their Indiana greenhouses were most gorgeous, the field having the appearance from some distance of a vast Persian rug. Many autoists drove to this part of the valley to see the fine display of colors."

REMINISCENCES.

They say it is a sure sign that you are growing old when you begin to say "I remember." But who wouldn't remember a few things after twenty-seven years in business?

What a lot of funny things have happened; what a lot of sad things, and what a heap of the unexpected has been thrown in along the way!

It was a sort of family party that started in the florists' business twenty-seven years ago. There was the young 13-year-old son, who always loved flowers and who was always filling all the tumblers and teacups, broken pitchers, tin cans and anything else that he could lay his hands on, with violets, buttercups and daisies. When he was 3 years old he thought it a fine thing to pick all the flowers in the flower bed "to give to mamma," even pulling up some by the roots.

Then there was father, who was rather tired of inside work and longed for God's own outdoors, and mother, who had a taste for business and could make a stick grow if she had a little soil to put around it.

No experience, no training, no capital, but just that foolish notion that they could succeed through sheer pluck.

It wasn't always easy sailing, for came in and ordered that design for his son's funeral. He knew exactly what he wanted. He wanted a plaque of galax leaves, with a blue heart of immortelles and half a red heart, representing his own broken heart, with the words, "Papa will be with you soon," around the plaque. No amount of talk would change his mind. So the plaque was made and delivered, much against the judgment of the florist's family.

But a few days after he came in and paid the bill and expressed his entire satisfaction. But listen. Two weeks afterward his next-door neighbor's son died, and in he came again and wanted the same thing for his funeral, with exactly the same words. But the florist's family decided that the other "papa" might not be quite so ready to be with the son "soon" and so left off the word "papa."

Then there was the young woman whose brother died suddenly, who wanted six bouquets to be carried by the pallbearers. They were made for her and when she came for the box they were shown to her; she began to sob and exclaimed, "Oh, how lovely! They are so nice and deathly."

There was the woman who buried her father and had a pillow made. Some time afterward her mother died and she ordered another pillow "exactly like the one for father." "How long ago did you have that one?" was asked. "About ten years," was the reply. Could you have remembered just how you made a pillow ten years ago?

In the days of the old Daybreak carnation a man called for a dozen "Morning Glory pinks." And so we might go on. It isn't worth while to live in the past, but it is great fun to think of it sometimes.

The "family" are still doing business at the old stand. H. E. S.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

The last week saw another revival in business, caused by Memorial day. Practically everything cleaned up fairly well every day, lilies, roses, carnations and daisies all selling well. There were only a few peonies for Memorial day and no home-grown stock. There is a demand for greens which it is impossible to meet. Limited supplies of both Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri are arriving from the south two or three times a week.

Various Notes.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. is experiencing an acute shortage of common labor for its range at Bakerstown.

John B. Strayer has returned from a several days' business trip to Uniontown and Indiana in the interest of the landscape department of the A. W. Smith Co. Ralph F. Pinner also spent a few days last week on a similar mission in Huntington, W. Va. Eric Reevers, of Buffalo, N. Y., a landscape architect graduated from the Pennsylvania State College, has joined the landscape staff. The firm is doing the largest business in its history this year.

Accompanied by Mrs. McCallum and the three children, Edward J. McCallum is taking an eastern automobile trip to include Westchester, Philadelphia and Atlantic City. Clarence C. Phillips is also a member of the party. In Philadelphia they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Edgar.

George E. Hallam reports an exceptionally good business this season at his stand in the Allegheny market.

Approximately 100,000 tulips of 300 varieties—the gift of a Holland grower—appeared at the second annual tulip show at J. Wilkinson Elliott's country place, Brook Lodge, near Springdale, last week, which was given under the auspices of the Allegheny County Garden Club. Miss Katharine Elliott, the elder daughter, is helping out in the office of the Elliott Nursery Co. during the heavy season.

S. P. Gidas, proprietor of the Rosery, 3703 Forbes street, Oakland, reports a rapidly growing business, especially in cut flowers. His salesman, Max Goldhammer, is to be married Wednesday evening, June 23.

William P. Gallagher is doing an unusually fine business in cut flowers at his place, 221 Diamond street. Mr. Gallagher had hoped to have the building of his new home and greenhouse, on Hallock street, Duquesne Heights, well under way by this time, but, owing to the shortage of labor and cement, the excavating has only now begun for the residence. E. E. S.

You need Bailey's books

Get the knowledge you need, hints and practical suggestions that will help in your work, by buying Bailey's new "Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture"—the florists' 6-volume library. 4,000 engravings, 96 full-page cuts, fine color work.

Take advantage of the present easy payment plan of $3.00 per month, or send $42.00 for the complete set of six volumes. This is the best book buy any florist could make—an investment that will pay a life-time of dividends.

The Market.

Prices before Memorial day were practically stationary; they will soon be back to the pre-war level. Carnations, roses and sweet peas were plentiful, but outdoor flowers were hard to find, as they are coming on quite late this season. Irises were plentiful for Memorial day, also spiræa and hydrangea blooms. Irises sold at $1 and $1.50, carnations $1.50, roses $3 and up. Sweet peas were plentiful and brought $1 per bunch retail; these were large bunches of long-stemmed orchid peas and were so plentiful that many went to waste. Many growers were disappointed with their peonies.

Magnolia wreaths were prepared in advance for Memorial day in large quantities. Since most flowers grown by the people themselves are too late for this day, large business was expected.

Bedding plants were scarce last week and many growers had sold out completely. Geraniums were retailing at $3 per dozen, as compared with $1.50 a year ago. Other plants were equally scarce and as high-priced. Many porch boxes will be late getting filled this summer and some may go empty. Ferns for designs have been scarce, but the southern crop is coming in now; with this handicap removed, the large amount of funeral work is much easier to handle.

Various Notes.

The Miller wedding, at 72 Woodland avenue, was the largest ever witnessed in this city from the trade's standpoint. T. J. Ludwig had the decorations and they were considered the most artistic work done since stock has been available for such work. The altar, which was of huckleberry, decorated with flowers and green, was in the living room; it reached from floor to ceiling and was about fifteen feet wide. The light fixtures were masses of green and the path of the wedding procession was marked off by large wicker vase baskets. These were filled with yellow daisies and snapdragons. Numerous other baskets of snapdragons, roses, daisies and sweet peas were arranged in different parts of the house. In the dining room was a centerpiece of roses and sweet peas at the bride's table. The stairway and landing were decorated with Sprengeri and plumosus. The large stained glass windows fronting the stairway were covered with strands of green showered with sweet peas. The bride carried a bouquet of orchids and roses showered with valley; it had also a scarf of silver chiffon. The matron of honor carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas, Sunburst roses and forget-me-nots.

James McKellar had a large blanket of sweet peas, roses and valley last week.

The Livingston Seed Co. had a large crop of peonies coming in and tried to force a few for Memorial day, but was not successful.

Underwood Bros. have some good geraniums, which are finding a good demand.

T. J. Ludwig purchased from M. J. Maxwell a 10-acre tract of land, with greenhouses of 20,000 square feet, located on Henderson pike, one mile north of Clintonville and one-half mile west of the Olentangy river. This glass is the most modern and substantial range in the vicinity of Columbus. The greenhouse will be used for growing cut flowers and novelties and the ground will be utilized for growing summer cut flowers, etc. Mr. Ludwig intends to make extensive improvements.

Miss Hazel Linville has opened a store at 12 East Long street. This store, though limited as to space, is finished quite attractively and is well arranged. The fixtures are silver gray. Miss Linville takes personal charge of all orders. She intends to specialize on corsages and fancy gift baskets. No funeral work will be handled at present because of the limited space. A few fancy pot plants and bedding plants are displayed and business is excellent.

J. A. Martin says his business on bedding plants was so good that he could have sold them all over again.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

SECRETARY JOHN WATSON estimates the annual business represented by the A. A. N. at over $30,000,000.

A. H. FINNEGAN, Oregon City, Ore., reports shipping out 410,000 strawberry plants since the middle of January, 1920, most of them going to California. Nick Ohmer and New Oregon were the favorite varieties with buyers.

THE death May 26 of Edward W. Reid, vice-president of Holm & Olson, Inc., St. Paul, Minn., was briefly recorded in last week's obituary column of The Review and receives more extended notice in that column this week. He and his father conducted the Upland Nurseries in Bridgeport, O., about twenty-five years ago and in St. Paul it was under his management that Holm & Olson established the Park Nurseries.

OF those who were with the California Nursery Co., Niles, Cal., until recently, J. H. O'Neal has joined the forces of Silva-Bergtholdt Co., at Marysville; A. A. Hunt is in charge of the Arthur Cann greenhouses, at San Jose, and H. H. Sherrer, who was manager, has gone to Oakland. S. E. Bergstrom is on the Sandborn place, near Niles, and W. E. Collins is at his home, in Niles. George C. Roeding, the new owner of the California Nursery Co., will open extensive salesrooms and depots in Oakland.

FRUIT GROWING IN FRANCE.

French Nurseries After the War.

In comparing the French orchards with American orchards, we must realize first of all that there is no such thing in France as a big, commercial orchard industry as we know it in America, but France does produce an enormous quantity of fine fruit, since practically the entire country is dotted with orchards and fruit gardens.

The grape industry, on the contrary, is commercialized and organized on a gigantic scale, because of the fact that Frenchmen seldom drink water, using their light wine instead. There are several reasons for this, one of them being that the French water in many sections is dangerous.

On our arrival in France we landed at Bordeaux, probably the largest wine market in the world and the center of export for all the French vineyard industry. On entering the mouth of the Gironde, as soon as the sand dunes were passed, we found beautiful vineyards on every hand and as we steamed up the river the French vineyardists and peasants left their work among the grape vines to line up along the banks and welcome us to France.

During the 50-mile trip up to Bordeaux, on either side, as far as the eye could reach, we saw almost solid vineyards. This same condition existed in many other sections of France, along the southwestern coast and the Mediterranean shores, and also in the old province of Burgundy, where the famous Burgundy wines are made, Dijon being the center of the Burgundy district. The climate in the southwest and south of France is, of course, semitropical and citrous fruits flourish and are grown in abundance. In the northwestern, central and northern sections of France, deciduous fruits are grown in great quantities. Every little home has its fruit garden and you will see pear trees growing over the stone walls pruned up in fan shape, in every conceivable design and fashion.

In Burgundy, in the garden of the chateau where I had my headquarters after the armistice was signed, I saw a row of dwarf apple trees 50 years old; the trees were only about two and one-half feet high, the base of the trees being only four to six inches in diameter. They are pruned back every year almost in the way our vineyardists prune a grapevine. They were grafted on the wild dog brier of France.

Up in the north of France, in the vicinity of Calais and Boulogne, where I spent a month or so along the British front, the cider and apple industry is considerable, but in Normandy I saw what I considered the best orchard land and the best orchards in France. And it is in Normandy that the greater number of the apples are produced for the famous French cider, also apples for market. The land in Normandy struck me as being more like our American orchard and farm land than any I saw elsewhere in France. The fields were larger and there was a certain similarity between their forest trees and those we see in the central states of this country.

Most of the orchards are grown in sod. Few of the orchards, except those

From an address on "French Orchards and Nurseries after the War," delivered by Major Lloyd C. Stark, vice-president of the Stark Bros. Nurseries & Orchards Co., Louisiana, Mo., ex-president and now vice-president of the A. A. N., at the meeting of the Tennessee State Horticultural Society at Nashville.

this spring? Every plant bright and green—not a dead one. A strong contrast to the northern Buxus bordered garden, now either dead or sadly winter injured, brown and dejected looking.

Mr. Siebrecht, the veteran plantsman, on seeing the garden the other day shown in accompanying illustration, exclaimed with his characteristic enthusiasm: "Magnificent! There is a fortune in it for the nurserymen."

We offer you well rooted dormant summer frame cuttings ready to set out direct into the nursery without further expense to you at

$65.00 per 1000
All sold out of larger sizes

Many of the leading catalogue firms have already contracted with us for their supply for the ensuing season, and others are buying these frame grown plants for their own planting, preparing for the enormous demand which is sure to follow.

It is a safe statement that BOX-BARBERRY will soon be the plantsman's best seller.

planted in gardens, were cultivated. Their style of tree is entirely different from ours. They head them about five or six feet high and simply have a flat sort of umbrella-shaped head in most instances.

I inquired as to which were the most satisfactory and most profitable commercial varieties. In almost every case I found each little village and each little locality had varieties of its own. No variety of apple seems to be generally disseminated or universally popular, though I was told that in many cases the favorite local varieties were probably the same as the favorites in some other locality—simply grown under another name.

I found that the apples used in making cider were blended, using some sweet apples or crabs and some so-called "bitter" ones. The Frenchmen claim that only by this blending can the exceptional quality of cider be produced.

The French method of making cider on a large commercial scale will, some day, become popular in this country when its worth is appreciated, no doubt.

The pear industry in France is much more important than in the United States. The French seem to have no trouble with the blight, which, of course, is largely due to the climate. The most popular variety was the English William, which is none other than our dear old Bartlett. I saw large commercial orchards that were paying big profits on Williams in the neighborhood of Angers and also up in Normandy.

MOBILE, ALA.

The Market.

Mobile is in the middle of graduation business. The demand for this class of work is heavy. Commencement exercises have taken place for the last week and will last for another week. Funeral work has picked up in the last week. There is plenty of stock for this kind of work. Good roses are scarce, owing to the hot weather. Outdoor flowers are taking the place of roses as much as possible. Gladioli, sweet peas, phloxes, myosotis and daisies are good at the present time.

Various Notes.

H. P. Loding is busy planting for gallery and window boxes. He says that business has been heavy this year for all kinds of plants and that his business has increased materially.

The Minge Floral Co. has added a new man to the force. He is A. F. Koehle, who was formerly with the Texas Nursery Co. This firm is planting nearly 10,000 roses this year, with several new varieties. Dracænas are grown for the wholesale trade here, most of the plants being shipped to the east and north.

The Goodbrad Floral Co. reports a good business. A new delivery truck has been put in service by this firm and the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," can easily be seen as it passes by.

Duplan Florist is also busy planting. This firm says that business has been good in funeral work and plants.

H. A. D.

Hopkinsville, Ky. — T. L. Metcalfe says that, although he thought the newspapers and the laundry business were strenuous lines of work, he never has known anything to compare with the efforts required to keep going in the florists' trade just now. Absence of help necessitates his family's working long hours each day to keep up with the work to be done at this season.

SEATTLE NOTES.

and the Spokane florists expect to increase their crop under glass by at least thirty-three per cent.

Port Townsend growers have been shipping in rhododendrons, the Washington state flower, and several stores found this an offering which made a temporary appeal as a novelty.

Various Notes.

Red anemones with black centers and parrot tulips were featured in a window display at the Woodlawn Flower Shop last week and the novelty of these flowers led to brisk sales. Heavy funeral work for the week-end was reported by Harry Crouch, who also stated that there has been a ready sale for baskets.

A. C. Aldridge, representing the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, called on the trade last week.

Peonies and gladioli from local growers were the big sellers at Kenney's Home of Flowers last week and in both cases it was difficult to keep enough stock on hand. Potted marguerites and fuchsias were also shown.

Rosaia Bros. met with good success last week in selling potted spring flowers, with a novel wrapping. Raffia garden hats are used in wrapping up the pots of flowers, with bows of ribbons in tints contrasting with the color of the raffia. This firm is bringing in from its range some of the finest potted primroses and calceolarias to be seen locally and it also reports a plentiful cut of gardenias and orchids. Ward roses are increasing in supply and the color has also shown some improvement.

Andrew Smith, of the Smith Floral Co., Tacoma, was a visitor last week. He reported that growers in that section would not have the Memorial day cut they had figured on and that the Tacoma trade was protecting itself by ordering from California.

C. S. McManus, of the Madison Park Greenhouses, is bringing in some fine ferns of all varieties, with promise of enough maidenhair stock soon to care for a good share of the local trade.

The Orpheum Floral Co. showed a novelty lately in the everlasting flowers grown near San Diego, Cal., and marketed through San Francisco firms. These are colorful offerings and much superior to the artificial flowers. Henry Day, manager of this firm, showed the first Chinese asters of the season.

The Hollywood Gardens last week showed long-stemmed narcissi from their own greenhouses; the stems were forty inches or over for every flower. One window arranged lately was attractive because of its simplicity; ferns in oddly shaped containers were arranged about a mirror so as to make a round-cornered rectangle, while in the center was set a fancy basket of spring flowers. MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

Business for Memorial day was unusually heavy. The weather was exceptionally fine and there was a good supply of stock. Colored carnations and colored roses were scarce, but there was plenty of white stock. Also a big crop of peonies, lilies, feverfew, snapdragons and tulips were on the market, which helped to fill the orders.

The unusually heavy demand was perhaps due to Memorial day being observed Monday, which gave the trade two days, Sunday and Monday, to dispose of the stock, and buying was heavy. Unfortunately, due to the congested express conditions, a considerable number of peonies from the south were delayed in transit and arrived in bad shape.

Some local advertising was done in the newspapers, which also stimulated the demand. Shipping business was unusually heavy. Bedding stock is now extremely scarce. Practically everything was cleaned up. The supply was not so large as in former years, due to shortage of labor.

One of our leading newspapers had a page advertisement announcing the giving away of 500 geraniums free Saturday, May 29, one to each lady caller.

P.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

The market experienced a busy and profitable Memorial day week. Prices for all stock were good and almost everything sold. The weak spots were sweet peas and roses, but even these sold well and at fair prices. Any sort of stock that could be recommended for the cemetery naturally led the list. Tulips and carnations sold at $6 per hundred.

Shipping conditions have been so poor lately that the market has had to subsist without ferns for a whole week. Such asparagus as could be gathered locally, with an occasional southern shipment, was all the green material the trade had to work with. F. P. A.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

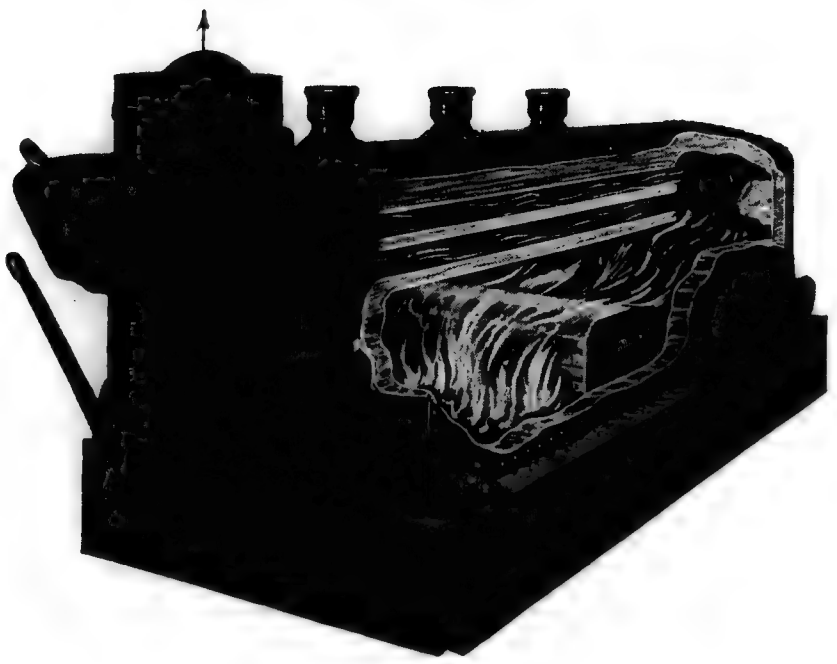
HEATING WITH CRUDE OIL.

Is it possible to install an oil burner in our hot water boiler to burn crude oil? Can it be done so that it will be cheaper than coal and do away with the necessity of having a night fireman? W. J. M.—Ill.

There should be no difficulty in arranging a crude oil burner for use in a hot water heater. For the economical use of the oil it will be necessary to provide either a steam or compressed air jet for spraying the oil into the fire box. A storage tank and a tank wagon for hauling the oil should also be provided.

The cost of coal and crude oil fluctuate to such an extent that it is not possible to state which will be cheaper in the future. As a rule, the actual cost of the oil is more than that of coal, but the saving in the cost of firing and removal of ashes and the benefit from lessening the amount of smoke and soot have generally balanced the account. The use of crude oil greatly lessens the work of heating a greenhouse.

HEATING MUSHROOM HOUSES.



I have three greenhouses, each 12x72 feet and eight feet to the ridge. The west wall is of concrete and is six inches thick and four feet high. The north is protected by the boiler house. The houses run north and south. I have two mushroom sheds the same length as the greenhouses; one is ten feet wide and the other is twenty feet wide and both are seven feet high. They are protected by the other houses and have tar-paper roofs on them.

I have a Royal hot water boiler with six sections; the fire box is about 3x4 feet. I have fourteen feet of 3½-inch feed pipe running from the boiler to the first house, where it is reduced to 3-inch to go on to the other two houses. The boiler is in the center of the boiler house. The two mushroom houses are to the east. The 3-inch pipe, later reduced to 2½-inch, runs through the houses overhead. On the one 2½-inch feed I have three 1½-inch returns on one side and the same on the other side. This is in the No. 1 mushroom house, which is twenty feet wide. Then I have a 2½-inch feed in the No. 2 mushroom house, which is ten feet wide, with four 1½-inch returns.

No. 1 greenhouse is west, with one 3-inch feed and with three 2-inch returns on each side. Then No. 2 greenhouse has one 3-inch feed, with five 1½-inch returns on one side and four 1½-inch returns on the other. No. 3

The immense amount of direct self-cleaning heating surface and the thin vertical waterways cause this type of boiler construction to heat water quicker than any other form of boiler.

Hundreds of Florists' Review readers are using the Kroeschell Boiler and mighty is their praise. The year of 1920 has brought us an enormous number of new customers who have seen our boiler in operation at other places. We attribute the large sales of this season to the good work the Kroeschell Boiler is doing everywhere. Ideal Vacuum Heating System for Greenhouses. Designed and Drawn by the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Illinois.

FISHER SPECIALTIES—

THE BEST FOR EVERY PURPOSE

Here is a typical layout of a modern greenhouse vacuum heating system, designed and drawn by the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. of Chicago, Ill.

You can see there is a Fisher device for every purpose—vacuum pump governors, air traps, reducing valves, back pressure valves, etc.

Florists throughout the country have given Fisher specialties the time test of service and found them entirely satisfactory.

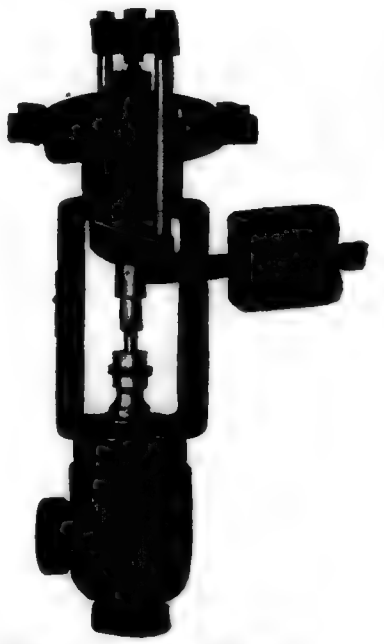
FISHER SERVICE

When contemplating new heating systems, or when replacing old regulating devices, consult our Service Department. Oftentimes we can save you considerable money in initial outlay and maintenance cost by specifying time-tried devices especially adapted to your particular need.



Gravity systems work better with FISHER steam traps. Thousands of florists will tell you so.

Our book "POWER PLANT SPECIALTIES" has valuable information for florists. It's yours for the asking.

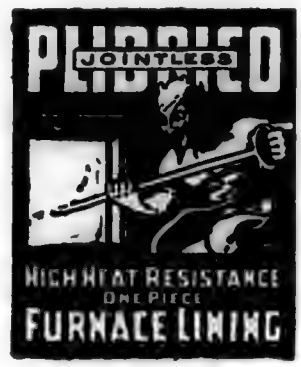
PLIBRICO Keeps the Heat Where It Belongs

PLIBRICO keeps the heat in the furnace, because it forms a jointless one-piece lining in your front door arches, entire fronts, side walls, arches, bridge walls, etc. This lining is gas and air-tight, saves fuel while at the same time greatly reducing your furnace upkeep, will last longer, give better satisfaction and can be more easily repaired than a lining constructed of fire brick and fire clay.



PLIBRICO is also unexcelled for baffle construction and repairs.

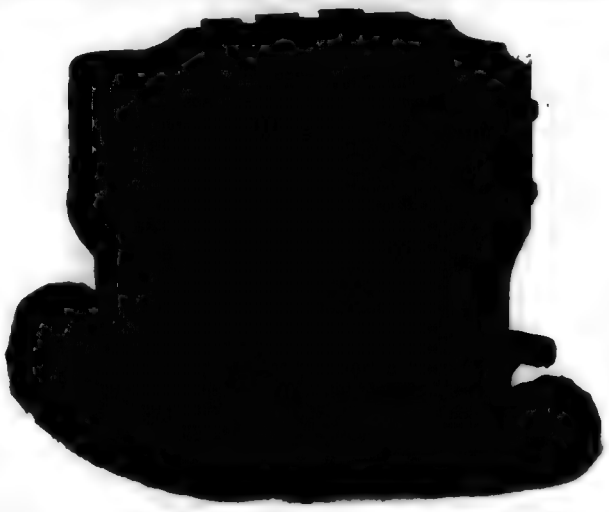
greenhouse has a 3-inch feed, with four 2-inch returns on each side. The feed pipes drop away from the boiler and the returns drop to it.



Have I got too many returns for the feed? I should like to have 60 degrees in the mushroom houses and about the same in the greenhouses. The coldest weather we ever get is about 20 degrees below zero. H. J. T.—Mo.

The description of the houses indicates that greenhouse No. 1 has its west wall exposed and that there are only six 2-inch returns, while house No. 3, which is of the same size and is also to be heated to 60 degrees, has eight returns. The walls in house No. 3 are not described, but at any rate it would be well to put in two additional returns in house No. 1, giving it the same piping as house No. 3.

Especially for severe weather, additional mains should be furnished for the houses. The 3½-inch main will probably supply houses 1 and 2, but the 3-inch main in house No. 3 should be connected directly with the heater; this arrangement would be preferable for each of the houses. The main returns should be of the same size as the flow pipes.

Whether there is enough radiation in the mushroom houses depends upon the warmth of the construction. It is possible that a little more radiation will be needed in the wider houses. If so, use a 2½-inch flow pipe upon each plate and place four 1½-inch returns in each of the side coils.

The boiler should be amply large for 3,000 or 4,000 square feet of radiation. Even with the addition of the radiation suggested above, there will not be more than 2,000 square feet of radiation in the three greenhouses and two mushroom houses altogether, and the main flow and return pipes would not add more than 300 square feet, so that there is a wide margin of safety in the capacity of the boiler.

Retail Company Incorporated.

Articles of incorporation were filed May 20 by the Haeger Floral Co., with a capital stock of $10,000. The incorporators named were W. F. Haeger, L. J. Spence, F. L. Spence, Mrs. C. E. Hensley and C. W. K. Meacham. The purpose of the new company is to operate stores for the retail sale of flowers and for the present it will have two downtown locations.

It was stated at that time by Mr. Haeger, who has been in business in Chattanooga for many years, that the formation of the company meant the consolidation of his retail business with the Johnston Floral Co., which has been doing business on East Eighth street. Mr. Spence purchased the interest of Joseph S. Mitchell in the Johnston Floral Co. about May 15, but the new company will continue to do business at the same stand. L. J. Spence is in charge of the two stores, which the new company took charge of June 1, and Mr. Haeger is retiring from active work in the retail business. The Haeger greenhouses, located in North Chattanooga, have been leased for a term of years to D. A. McAmis and Mr. Haeger will devote all of his time in the future to his extensive nursery, located on Walden's ridge.

Greenwood, Miss. — The Greenwood Floral Co., of which J. W. Bealle & Sons are proprietors, has recently completed a handsome store and office at its establishment on Henry street and has under construction an additional greenhouse, 21x130 feet. This firm reports an exceptionally good spring business.

The Market.

The unseasonably cold weather the first half of May, followed by summer temperatures the latter part, caused a rush on bedding stock the last ten days; many have already cleaned out. Outdoor stock was scarce; there were no lilacs or snowballs and peonies were too late to help out any for Memorial day.

Various Notes.

Leo Grimes had an excellent bedding stock week.

Arthur Davis has been bringing in excellent tulips.

Frank Fraser reports a good week in cut stock, including cape jasmine, valley, roses and tulips.

C. A. Benson is building a new boiler room, which when completed will be the best in the city.

E. Glauber has sold his range to his former grower, Fred Meyer, of Chicago.

Will Rose, who has been with Conrad Lengenfelder for some time, left last week for his former home, in Farmington, Utah.

The Roberts Rose Co. is planning the erection of a new rose house this fall.

The Elitch Gardens Co. has had a good shipping business recently. This company has been cutting heavily on carnations of fine quality. G. L. Roberts, manager of the company, fell recently and broke his wrist. R. E. H.

Corning, N. Y.—William and Oliver Barnes, doing business as the Crystal City Greenhouse, have purchased the extensive range conducted for a number of years by W. E. Johnson. The two ranges will be operated under one management.

ST. LOUIS NOTES.

Frank Fillmore celebrated his fortieth wedding anniversary May 26. This is one of the days when he proclaims that he feels as young as ever, although on the shady side of seventy. Another celebration the same day was that of Oscar Ruff, who celebrated his fifth wedding anniversary. Both celebrations included a family dinner at home.

C. Young & Sons Co. reports that this season so far is fifty per cent better than last year in plants, seeds, bulbs and cut flowers. The Memorial day shipping and local trade was especially large.

Eugene H. Michel, who has charge of the establishment of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., at Riverton, N. J., was called home last week to the bedside of his aged father, E. A. Michel, in Kirkwood, Mo., whose death May 26 is recorded in this week's obituary column.

Edward Buechel, president of the Riessen Floral Co., is still confined to his home. His spell of sickness has kept him away from the business for the last twelve weeks. Miss Pauline Buechel is in charge during his absence.

Vandervoort's floral department had a large supply of fine Memorial day wreaths on display all the week. Mr. Schaeffer reports that, while the store is closed Sunday and they had a half day May 31, they cleaned out everything they had on display and had big business all the week.

Nat Kingsley, of the Mullanphy Florists, was one of the heavy buyers on the local market last week and reported that heavy advance orders for Memorial day kept the forces in both stores busy.

Fred C. Weber, F. H. Weber and Joe Witek, in the west end, say that telegraph delivery orders were quite heavy for Memorial day this year. This with local work kept them on the jump.

John J. Burke, manager of the Foster Floral Co., uses good judgment in the window and inside of the store in displaying plants and cut stock.

Ostertag Bros., the Bentzen Floral Co. and the Blossom Shop say business all through the season was one of the best in many years. J. J. B.

The Market.

The market last week in cut flowers was decidedly quiet. The public is still "Saying It with Flowers," but at the present time it is devoting its entire attention to plants. The main idea is to beautify the home, so that for the present the cut flower grower must stand by and see the plantsman have his inning. And a hot inning it is this season; owing to the cool weather being late, it will necessarily be short. Ordinarily the plant season would be well over by this time. It is June and none of the park bedding is done and this is a guide for many people. It will mean at least a month's work crowded into about two weeks, but from all I can learn the supply of bedding plants will not hold out for a month at the rate they are now going.

There are plenty of cut flowers of every kind to be had. Those growers who have nurseries attached to their establishments are doing a considerable business in shrubbery; there is more of this class of cut stock being used this season than usual.

This was written May 28 and although Memorial day was so near, there were no local peonies, but large shipments were received from Virginia. While Memorial day has never been a big flower day in Baltimore, conditions have changed and while the G. A. R. formerly did all the decorating of graves with flowers that were donated, there are now the Spanish-American and the world war veterans. The advertising committee made a special drive on this, the results of which will be reported next week.

About the only green goods on the market are those which come from Florida. A shipment of plumosus opened recently was as fine as the local stock. Sprengeri, unless it is young stock, falls, but everyone seems glad to get it even if it is not so good. Roses and carnations are holding up well and the usual miscellaneous stock at this season can be had in any quantity desired.

Advertising.

The campaign is being pushed without any let-up and the results are being recorded from all over the city. Last week a most appropriate Memorial day cut was featured on the second page of the Sun May 25. When you turned to this page of the paper, the advertisement of the Associated Florists was the first thing that caught the eye. Joseph Merritt says that he has several surprises. He is so full of advertising that there is danger of the florists' business losing him; he is becoming an expert at the game. Another who has his coat off and is putting some good licks in for the committee is Robert W. Johnston. He has some good ideas and has the courage of his convictions. Then there is Tom Stevenson, who never misses a meeting. William F. Keys, Jr., is another. He believes in slogans and emblems in advertising. He says those two keys in his advertisement in the Pink Part of The Review certainly do the work. Everyone on the committee says he does not know what defeat is. Their motto is: "In the lexicon of youth there is no such word as fail," and when we see their enthusiasm and what they are accomplishing, it makes some of us older fellows recall those well known lines of an old song: "Backward, turn backward, O Time, in thy flight; make me a child again just for tonight." But to get down to brass tacks, this campaign has already demonstrated that the florists cannot get along without it; that it is going to be permanent, and that, before long, it will be one of the most valuable assets of the business.

Growers' Association.

Recently I received a letter from J. Fred Ammann, secretary of the National Flower Growers' Association, in which he asked me to talk with the growers. I took the matter up with William F. Ekas, president of the Baltimore Florists' Club. He told me to make this matter the special order of business at the June meeting of the club and to ask Mr. Ammann to present the claims of the association in person; all of which I have done. I have just received another letter from Mr. Ammann, saying that he will be only too glad to be with us, that the association wants a local in Maryland, and wants us to be represented in Cleveland when the organization is made permanent. You all know J. Fred Ammann. He is an ex-president of the S. A. F. and is willing to come from Edwardsville, Ill., because he has something good to offer his brother florists in Baltimore. Before the meeting I shall mail to every member some literature on this new move. Study this and come to the meeting. We want 100 per cent attendance.

CYCLAMEN

Cyclamen have been sold by personal solicitation and advertised in the Florist's Review for many years under the name of Augspurger. The strain that I offer has been established as one of the best commercial strains and after all, that is the safe foundation to build upon. Plants are grown by growers who have grown Cyclamen for years and stock is good. Cyclamen have proven to be one of the best plant sellers the past season and there is nothing in sight that will displace them this season, therefore prepare now for next season's supply. This is the ideal time to buy, to grow on your stock. Can offer in salmon, light pink, light red, dark red and few white. Plants will be packed right.

Size	Per 100	Per 1000
2-in.	$12.00	$110.00
3-in. select stock	25.00	240.00
3-in., average stock	22.50	220.00

A CHOICE STRAIN OF

Cyclamen seed, will create the greatest pleasure for the grower, when they make that beautiful show of large well colored, long heavy stemmed flowers, standing erect above such silvery lined foliage as our choice strain will produce and is the only way to avoid disappointments, when they come to bloom.

We have that strain of which I am sure there is no better, and can not be surpassed, at least that is the conviction of our many customers.

Scarcity of such extra good seed, will put price much higher the coming season, for early sowing, purchase now so to have it on hand.

The following colors are now available: Christmas Red, Defiance, dark blood and bright red, dark and light salmon, $2.00 per 100, $18.00 per 1000. Our cultural directions go with all orders, in them you will find a life-time experience. Cash please.

C. Winterich, Cyclamen Specialist, St. Petersburg, The Sunshine City of Florida.

TRANSPLANTED CYCLAMEN SEEDLINGS

Out of benches, fine stock of the best varieties ready for 3-in. and 4-in. pots with five to nine leaves, $10.00 to $15.00 per 100. Let us book your order now, for 5 and 4-in., for June delivery, 35c each.

J. F. WILCOX & SONS,
Progressive Florists,
530 Broadway, Council Bluffs, Ia.

STURDY CYCLAMEN

Do you want strong, stocky Cyclamen plants, out of the ordinary quality, not spindly plants, grown in too high temperature, but sturdy plants, with stamina in them; ready to grow into great big specimen plants, that should carry 20 or 30 or more giant blooms at a time, about Thanksgiving and Christmas.

We have them. You want them. What does it matter if you pay us a few cents more per plant, if you can get a dollar or so more per plant when you sell them next winter. You pay us 35c for a 3-in. pot plant in June and sell the same plant in December for $5.00 and up.

We ship in paper pots and send cultural directions. Salmon King, Salmon Queen, Crimson St. George, Grandiflora Alba, blood red and other varieties, 2¼-in. pot plants, $15.00 per 100, $135.00 per 1000; 3-in. pot plants, $35.00 per 100, $315.00 per 1000. Cash or satisfactory references.
